“What’s Next for Hawthorne?” [Issue #668]

Hawthorne’s looming destruction involves more than gutting beautiful, irreplaceable buildings. It swings the wrecking ball at common sense, educational achievement, and at the School Board’s integrity.

This is a project in search of a justification. You’d think that safety issues would be front and center. But unfortunately for the knock ‘em sock ‘em building committee, Hawthorne is structurally sound. Earlier, lack of storage space was floated as trial balloon A in the why-are-we-doing-this derby. Evidently, that cubby didn’t fly. Flattening an entire school to add storage space isn’t very sexy.

I can only imagine the brainstorming sessions raging at district offices and at architectural firms eager for a share of the loot. The Weekly’s article listed the following reasons: modifying classrooms to accommodate “21st century learning communities,” moving bathrooms from the wrong places to the right places, removing an auditorium balcony inaccessible to non-stair climbers, adding a gymnasium, relocating the library to a more central spot, and underground parking. To be helpful, I’ve done a little brainstorming myself. How about a movie theater? Giant video game playrooms? A Viking theme park with Leif Ericson boat rides?

The Board should be congratulated for taking steps to fulfill its mission. According to BHUSD’s new mission statement, each student should be, “empowered to achieve academic excellence.” How any elementary school student can achieve academic excellence without underground parking is beyond me.

BHUSD.org proclaims, “Nothing will take precedence over the elementary through secondary instructional program.” Well, one school razing reason actually relates to academic excellence and instruction. But, it’s detrimental to both. Learning communities is code for a failed education reform formerly called student-centered learning. Like Marxism and all edu-fads, student-centered learning sounds great in theory, especially to progressive teaching types. The trouble is that it hasn’t worked anywhere in reality. Hence the nuanced and brilliant name change, kind of like canning global warming in favor of “climate change”. You can’t even say, “21st century learning communities” in anything but hushed tones of awe and respect.

At the risk of being sent to the principal’s office, I’m going to chuck the pomposity and call student-centered learning by its real name. For one thing, it’s more accurate and descriptive. Student-centered learning means that students learn primarily from each other; the teacher being relegated to the role of facilitator, or perhaps catching up on spider solitaire during class. Student-centered philosophy also embraces “discovery learning.” That is, students don’t sit around a circle taking turns reading out of a textbook and doing exercises. No sir. To learn about Boyle’s Law, they need to discover Boyle’s Law from scratch. As you might imagine, actual learning in student-centered learning is quite slow, if it happens at all. On the other hand, everyone involved ends up feeling really good about themselves. That, by the way, explains why student-centered learning is such a long-lived edu-fad. The only thing that educators find more amazing than feeling good about themselves is thinking that kids might be feeling good about themselves.

So, in a nutshell (or a nut house, I’m not sure which), Hawthorne’s destruction will a) accomplish a series of follies like preventing able bodied people from sitting in the balcony because physically challenged people need to sit on ground level, b) will likely send Hawthorne’s API scores into a kamikaze tailspin, c) breaks a promise to the taxpayers not to raise tax rates ahead of

BHUSD to rent home under market value; Woods may be subject to income tax

220 N. Doheny Drive

The lease agreement between BHUSD and Superintendent Gary Woods that was scheduled to be approved by the Board of Education Wednesday allows Woods to rent a BHUSD-owned home under market value, but tax experts say Woods may be required to pay income tax on the savings differential.

The vote on the nine-page lease was scheduled to take place Wednesday after the Weekly's deadline. The lease was included as part of the July 17 formal agenda, but Board of Education President Brian Goldberg announced at that time the board was not ready to vote on a negotiated agreement.

In June, the Board of Education voted unanimously to approve the purchase of the $1.5-million home at 220 North Doheny Drive. The Board of Education has agreed to a 15-year loan with an interest rate of 3.7 percent to finance the four-bedroom home. The general-fund cost of the house is approximately $140,000 a year, or approximately $11,600 a month.

The lease attached to Wednesday's special board meeting agenda indicated the proposed monthly rent was $3,500 for a one-year term beginning Aug. 15.

Similar homes in Beverly Hills rent for approximately $4,000 to $5,000 a month. The City of Beverly Hills owns a home a few blocks away on S. La Peer Drive and currently rents it to a non-employee for $4,500 a month.

In Issue #665, Goldberg said $3,500 a month was "the baseline in terms of my thinking where it becomes really beneficial where we're not spending money on interest; we're spending money on principal, which means we're building equity."

Including Woods' rental payments, debt service for the home will amount to an annual expenditure of approximately $98,000, or a monthly expenditure of $8,000 from the general fund.

According to tax attorney Eli Blumenfeld, in general, employees that rent employer-owned properties under market value are required to report the savings differential as wages.

"Assuming the individual is just an employee and the home is being rented under market value, generally, it would be taxable income," Blumenfeld said.

The exception, Blumenfeld said, is if the housing is considered to be for the benefit of the employer.

"Let's say you have a rental building and the employee is required to live within a certain area so [he] can get to the building as quickly as possible if there is an emergency," Blumenfeld said. "That would be for the employer's benefit, in general, and not the employee's."

The staff report estimated insurance coverage for the home at $730 per year. One week earlier, a staff report estimated insurance at approximately 10 times that—$7,040—because it included earthquake coverage, Chief Administrative Officer Dawnalyn-Murakawa Leopard said.

Vice President Jake Manaster said Tuesday the $730 estimate does not include earthquake coverage.

At a study session June 26 when the Board of Education discussed the proposed home purchase with members of the Finance Committee, Best, Best & Krieger attorney Dina Harris said the BHUSD would be exempt from property tax on the home since she said the home would serve school-district purposes.

"I know that some of you didn't agree with me in terms of the rationale for the house purchase, but for me that was an attempt for us to start controlling our own fate in building some kind of equity in a property that's not controlled by the state of California in terms of what's going on with their tax plans and their budgeting process," Goldberg said at a budget study session last Thursday.

Manaster said his intent with the home purchase was to create stability by providing the superintendent with a place to live.

"There is nothing like having somebody who is here and at all of the schools and bicycling to each of the events and having a presence," Manaster said. "For the first time in forever, a school superintendent attended the first day of summer school at both the elementary school and the high school."

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Council of the City of Beverly Hills, at its meeting to be held on Tuesday, August 7, 2012, at 7:00 p.m., in the Council Chambers of the City Hall, 455 N. Rexford Drive, Beverly Hills, CA 90210, will hold a public hearing to consider:

RESOLUTION OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF BEVERLY HILLS FINDING THE CITY TO BE IN CONFORMANCE WITH THE CONGESTION MANAGEMENT PROGRAM, AND ADOPTING THE LOCAL DEVELOPMENT REPORT IN ACCORDANCE WITH CALIFORNIA GOVERNMENT CODE §65089.

The City of Beverly Hills is required to comply with the Congestion Management Program (CMP), a state-mandated program administered by the Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority/METRO, the regionally designated CMP agency. The City Council will consider adoption of a Resolution acknowledging the City's conformance with the CMP requirements.

At the public hearing, the City Council will hear and consider all comments. All interested persons are invited to attend and speak on this matter. Written comments may also be submitted and should be addressed to the City Council, c/o City Clerk, 455 N. Rexford Drive, Beverly Hills, CA 90210. The comments should be received prior to the hearing date.

Please note that if you challenge the Council's action in regards to this matter in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the City, either at or prior to the public hearing.

If there are any questions regarding this notice, please contact Bijan Vaziri, Traffic Engineer, in the Beverly Hills Public Works & Transportation Department at 310.285.2556, or by email at bvaziri@beverlyhills.org. Copies of the Local Development Report and associated documents are on file in the Public Works & Transportation Department and can be reviewed by any interested person at 345 Foothill Road, Beverly Hills, California 90210.

City Clerk

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

DATE: August 2, 2012
TIME: 1:30 PM, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard
LOCATION: Commission Meeting Room 280A
Beverly Hills City Hall
455 North Rexford Drive
Beverly Hills, CA 90210

The Planning Commission of the City of Beverly Hills, at its SPECIAL meeting on Thursday, August 2, 2012, will hold a public hearing beginning at 1:30 PM, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard to consider:

A request to amend an existing Development Agreement between the City of Beverly Hills and the property owners of the previously approved 9200 Wilshire Boulevard mixed-use development project. The proposed amendment would allow for the existing Development Agreement to be extended beyond its current expiration date of October 18, 2012. The Planning Commission will review the request and forward its findings to the City Council, but does not have the authority to approve or deny the amendment. The decision to approve or deny the amendment will be considered by the City Council at a future, noticed public hearing.

This project has been assessed in accordance with the authority and criteria contained in the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), the State CEQA Guidelines, and the environmental regulations of the City. The City previously prepared and certified an Environmental Impact Report, and this Environmental Impact Report remains valid in assessing the environmental impacts associated with the project.

Any interested person may attend the meeting and be heard or present written comments to the Commission.

According to Government Code Section 65009, if you challenge the Commission's action in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the City, either at or prior to the public hearing.

If there are any questions regarding this notice, please contact Ryan Gohlich, Senior Planner in the Planning Division at 310.285.1194, or by email at rgohlich@beverlyhills.org. Copies of the applications, plans, and Environmental Impact Report are on file in the Community Development Department, and can be reviewed by any interested person at 455 North Rexford Drive, Beverly Hills, CA 90210.

Sincerely,
Ryan Gohlich, Senior Planner

City Council designates City's first historic landmark: The Beverly Hills Hotel

The Beverly Hills City Council voted unanimously Tuesday night to designate The Beverly Hills Hotel as the City's first local historic landmark and to declare Sept. 12, 2012 "The Beverly Hills Hotel Day."

"Tonight this city council is about to make history by designating The Beverly Hills Hotel as the first historic landmark on the City's register of historic properties," Cultural Heritage Commission Chair Noah Furie said prior to the vote on the hotel, which is celebrating its 100th anniversary this year.

In May, the Cultural Heritage Commission determined the hotel, which represents the work of master architects Elmer Grey and Paul Williams, met the criteria for designation, meaning it has maintained historic value, has retained integrity from its period of significance, and met at least two out of six additional criteria.

The commission determined the hotel met more than the minimum criteria—it satisfied four of the six additional criteria—but Vice Mayor John Mirisch suggested indicating The Beverly Hills Hotel also fulfilled criteria related to the hotel's association with "the lives of significant persons important to national, state, City or local history."

As an example, Mirisch said the hotel was the location for some of actor and producer Harold Lloyd's work.

"It's quite amazing [about a year] ago we were considered to be the model of what not to do when it came to honoring our history and protecting our [historic resources]," Mirisch said. "It seems to me [we've] gone in the exact opposite direction. It really is something for this council, the entire community, and the entire city to be proud of."

Prior to the vote, manager Christophe Olivro said the hotel would be honored to be the City's first historic landmark.

City Council consensus on Gateway Project: Not yet

Councilmembers expressed varying views Tuesday night of plans to establish an overlay zone for the development of the City's gateway at Santa Monica and Wilshire boulevards, but a majority agreed on at least one point. The City Council was not ready to move forward with the zone-change proposal that would allow redevelopment of the former railroad right-of-way.

The City Council picked up where it left off with the Gateway Project public hearing, which opened June 19. During that meeting, the City Council heard from all three property owners involved and public comment from residents. Councilmembers Julian Gold, Lili Bosse and Barry Brucker had the opportunity to ask questions before Brien announced the hearing would be continued to Tuesday night so Vice Mayor John Mirisch, who was absent from the June meeting, would also have the opportunity to ask questions.

The Planning Commission spent months developing parameters for the overlay zone, ultimately recommending a list of 14 objectives project proposals must meet, while still allowing flexibility. All projects would be required to include elements for public benefit, such as greenspace and/or pedestrian and bike paths.

In order to encourage development of the neighboring C-3 commercial properties, which can be built up to a 2.0 floor area ratio (FAR) with three stories of up to 45 feet, the Planning Commission proposed allowing greater height and density of T-1 parcels when developed in conjunction with C-3 parcels.

Under the proposed overlay zone, property owners developing T-1 parcels alone would be allowed to build one-story structures up to 18 feet tall with a 0.5 FAR, or 500 square feet of building for every 1,000 square feet of developable land. If property owners jointly developed T-1 and C-3 properties, the T-1 property adjacent to the C-3 property could be built up to three stories at a maximum of 45 feet with a 1.5 FAR.

Any T-1 property adjacent to C-3 properties not involved in the joint development could not be built upon in order to leave open the possibility of future joint development.

Under "extraordinary" circumstances, Planning Commission Chair Craig Corman said the commission might consider projects up to 60 feet tall at Parcels 1 and 2, but FAR could not increase. The commission did not recommend this possibility for Parcel 3, because of its location across from a residential neighborhood and Beverly Gardens Park.

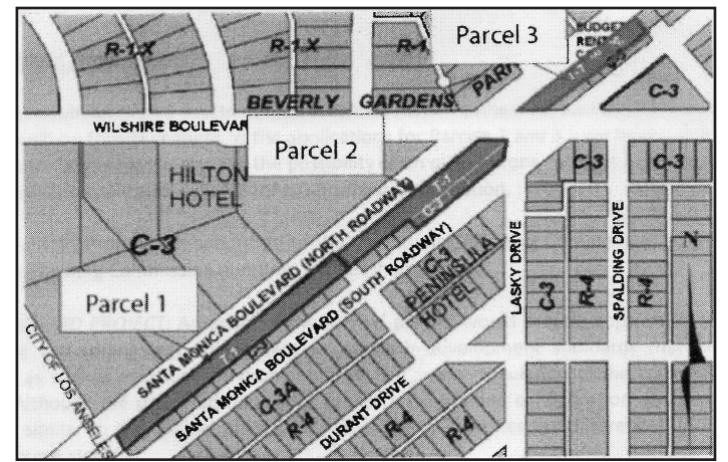

The overlay zone would provide guidelines for property owners to develop projects, but all projects would have to come before the Planning Commission for its review.

Mayor Willie Brien, who said he agreed with most of the Planning Commission's recommended standards for developing the three T-1 transportation zoned parcels and adjacent properties, assigned the City Council planning liaisons—himself and Bosse—to work to develop a revised proposal based on councilmembers' feedback.

"Going forward, I think a lot of this has to do with planning and the vision and the character of what we see that this area should be," Bosse said. "I think right now that area is definitely not what it could be and it should be and I think the problem has been an issue of parking. None of those properties have been able to provide for parking. When you're looking at all the parcels, they're all really important parcels in terms of where they're situated in our community."

Bosse pointed out Parcel 1 is the gateway into Beverly Hills for people coming from Century City; Parcel 2 is located directly across from the Peninsula Hotel, views of which could be impacted by development; and Parcels 2 and 3 are located at the major Santa Monica and Wilshire intersection.

Bosse requested additional traffic studies to address areas not covered by the project's environmental impact report. Bosse also said the overlay zone should be more specific in terms of the amount of parking projects are required to provide.

Gold agreed the overlay zone objectives should be more specific with respect to items including setbacks and provide clearer definitions of items like public benefit and "iconic architecture" to provide for consistency to the projects.

The majority of the council expressed concern about the potential for projects to be built up to 60 feet. Mirisch and Brucker each proposed a reduced FAR for the parcels. Mirisch suggested 0.7 FAR in order to prevent the "significant and unavoidable impact" the proposed overlay zone would have on traffic at Santa Monica and Wilshire boulevards, which Mirisch pointed out is already one of the most congested intersections in Southern California.

Brucker suggested permitting 1.0 to 1.25 FAR and up to 30 feet of height for Parcels 1 and 2, and up to 45 feet at Parcel 3. Brucker, who said Parcel 3 is part of the Triangle and abuts a 10-story building, suggested considering different zoning standards for each of the three parcels.

"I think it's really unfortunate for all three parcel owners to be tied at the hip together," Brucker said. "I look at [Parcel] 3 as completely different to 1 and 2."

Brien said he thought three stories for the overlay zone was appropriate. He also said he thought the 14 objectives needed to provide for flexibility.

"I think redevelopment needs to occur in this area," Brien said. "I think to leave it as surface parking is not going to rejuvenate, improve or give any benefit aesthetically to the area."

When asked if it would be possible to propose financially viable projects with the reduced FAR proposed by Brucker and Mirisch, Parcel 1 owner Maynard Brittan said, "absolutely not."

"They're asking for 14 different objectives, and those are all costly and will cut into the floor area ratio and create a situation where we won't have the income-producing ability to produce anything even close to being iconic or special, with all the green space, open space and extra parking," Brittan said. "Those are all costly amenities. They're just taking away all the incentive and all the motivation."

At the time Brittan and the owners of Parcels 2 and 3 purchased the T-1 properties in 1999, Brittan said then-City Manager Mark Scott set up a meeting with the property owners, indicating the City was interested in working with them to redevelop the properties.

"This was an extraordinary effort on everyone's part to get this far and obviously there are some of the council people who didn't appreciate or understand the virtues of the overlay, but I have confidence in the process and we will hopefully go back and discuss it, re-write it, explain it, clarify it and hopefully have a better result the next time around," Brittan said.

In January, the City Council approved the City's historic preservation ordinance, which involved establishing the Cultural Heritage Commission to maintain the City's register of historic properties, make recommendations on designation of historic landmarks and Mills Act contracts, review alteration and demolition applications, and oversee any subsequent historic resource surveys.

Parent-teacher book group to discuss Steve Jobs in October

Beverly High English teacher Julie Goler has a summer reading assignment for BHUSD parents: Pick up a copy of Walter Isaacson's Steve Jobs biography and participate in a PTSA-sponsored BHUSD community book group on Oct. 15 at 7:30 p.m.

"It's a community building activity more than anything else," Goler said. "It's designed to expose the BHUSD parents, teachers and students to the best nonfiction book of the year and arguably one of the best of the last decade. [This activity will also] provide us an opportunity to discuss the future of technology in BHUSD."

BHPD honors Rosenstein, Mazo

Planning Commission Vice Chair Brian Rosenstein (center) was honored with the Lawrence I. Shapiro Memorial Award at Tuesday afternoon's study session for his volunteer involvement with the Police Department's Disaster Communications System program. BHPD Chief David Snowden (left) and Mayor Willie Brien (right) presented Rosenstein with the award, which was created in 2004 to recognize meritorious and dedicated service by Police Department volunteers. Esther Mazo, who passed away in 2009, was honored with the award posthumously for her 12 years of volunteer work with the Police Department. Her son Neil Mazo accepted the award.

The book group, which will take place at a private home, will include a conversation for parents and teachers about technology specific to BHUSD led by Chief Academic Officer Jennifer Tedford and Beverly High teacher Steven Rubenstein, who is BHUSD's technology TOSA (teacher on special assignment).

"The response from my students and parents and also my private book group to this book has been overwhelming," said Goler, who facilitates book groups. "I really had to sell the book because of its length, but everyone says they can't put it down [because Jobs'] life was so compelling, horrifying and inspiring."

Goler said leadership will also be a topic of the book group discussion.

Sarah Gallop, PTSA executive board member in charge of programs, is coordinating the event.

"What I enjoy most about it is bringing together the parents with the teachers to talk about something other than academics or their children's grades," Gallop said. "It's something that everyone can have a discussion about and have it not be about their particular child."

Steve Jobs will also be the first featured title for the BHUSD staff book club, Goler said.

Look for more specifics about the program in the PTSA's September newsletter. E-mail sgallop100@aol.com with any questions.

Concerts on Canon series continues tonight, Clueless screens Sunday

The City of Beverly Hills will continue its free Concerts on Canon series tonight with two performances by gypsy jazz combo Icy Hot Club at Beverly Canon Gardens at 6 p.m. and 7:15 p.m.

The City's new series of free Sunday-night movie screenings continues Sunday with an outdoor showing of Clueless at Beverly Canon Gardens at 8 p.m. Later in the summer, film selections include Casablanca and Mirror, Mirror.

Free parking is available to patrons of the shows: Get a coupon at the concert or movie and redeem it for parking in the Beverly Gardens parking structure. The gardens feature plentiful seating and a large, grassy area for picnic blankets. Tables and chairs will be available on a first-come, first-served basis. Patrons are encouraged to enjoy outdoor dining at Bouchon or The Montage, enjoy special pre- and post-show discounts at Beverly Hills restaurants and bars and pick up custom "to-go" boxes from a selection of local restaurants offering picnic options in connection with this series.

Board of Education may submit "self-qualified" budget to LACOE

Confronted with a list of potential cuts that Board of Education Vice President Jake Manaster described as "unpalatable," Manaster proposed sending a message to the Los Angeles County Office of Education (LACOE) and the state of California by not proposing budgetary cutbacks and instead considering submitting a "qualified" interim budget to LACOE this fall.

According to LACOE, a qualified certification means that school districts "may not be able to meet their financial commitments in the current or two subsequent years."

Manaster made the proposal at last Thursday's budget study session, where briefs cont. on page 7

On the bright side, the new Hawthorne will be a monument to good feelings, obscene spending, and local big government trying its best to emulate federal big government. A proper tribute to our age.

Steve Spitz
Beverly Hills

Beverly Hills has a proud past. So much of that pride is because of our schools. We simply have a great educational system and students both past and present are aware of that. We also have memories of growing up in schools that are a part of who we are as individuals and as a city. There has never been a school system like BH.

To even think of tearing down one of these historic schools is awful. To actually do it is shameful. While we are taking steps to preserve our history, we must also realize that our schools are a part of that history. Maybe even more so than Rodeo Drive because we learned in buildings named Hawthorne and were taught how to make the world a better place. We should think about changing our history grades to an F if we allow any of our schools to be destroyed. After all, if we can't protect our past, then what have we learned?

"Fine Art Commission tests sites for placing public art" [Issue #662]

This is in response to a Letter to the Editor in the June 14 edition of Beverly Hills Weekly. The Fine Art Commission (FAC) did not decline Guy Dill's sculpture, Egalma, The Great Palace. The donation of the Guy Dill piece was accepted by the City Council in 2000, bypassing the approval process of the FAC. At the time, the Fine Art commissioners expressed concern as to the appropriateness of the work, given its size with regard to it potentially overpowering any other work that might be installed on the Burton Way median. Again, please note, there was never a point at which it was "turned down."

Mr. Dill has agreed to reconfigure the components of the original sculpture to form two new tableaus that will not overpower, but enhance the site; he has also agreed to allow the City to sell the remaining components to any interested party.

Since the City took possession of this work in 2000, it has never been installed anywhere and now must soon be removed from its storage place to make way for improvements to the City's water services for the residents of Beverly Hills.

The Fine Art Commission believes that this option is the least expensive, least intrusive and most timely solution.

Gehry project dropped

And tragedy and actions

By Rudy Cole

What might have been an incredibly exciting addition to one of the most neglected areas of our city has been lost, and the reasons why are not yet clear.

But creative, unique, multi freestanding structures designed by famed, award-winning architect Frank Gehry have officially been withdrawn, according to our sources.

All within height and density rules, the three office building plans by Gehry could well have become a work of modern art, and not just another pragmatic edifice.

The site, at Charleville and Little Santa Monica, was once the home of the Friar's Club, but has remained vacant for several years.

The city application listed former Mayor Thomas Levyn as both applicant and "representative," but he was obviously fronting for someone else. Despite the desire to remain anonymous, it was no big secret that the property was actually owned by Jerry Perenchio the ubiquitous head of the media giant, Univision. Their Los Angeles property is the highly profitable KMEX, the conglomerate's flagship television station.

Having Levyn bring possibly exciting projects to the city has not been very rewarding, up to now. Levyn had represented Eli Broad, who had convinced the city he was indeed sincere about creating a home for his world famous, modern art collection at Santa Monica and Wilshire. Whether Broad was actually serious or using us as a bargaining chip to win Los Angeles approval for his Grand Avenue venue, where he finally settled, is debatable, however, plans for development of the corner and adjacent properties were put on hold—annoying both the city and private property owners.

The West Coast Friars had originally been housed in an unimpressive building on Rodeo Drive, but in the 1950s, the club moved to Charleville and Little Santa Monica. Not unlike the Motion Picture Academy, the club had major problems with neighbors, because of its lack of parking. When the club had major events, including its "Roasts" the nearby residential areas suffered.

The Club did have many years of success. Some of the great names in comedy were regulars, including George Burns, George Jessel, Phil Silvers and Chico Marx. John Factor, half brother of Max, had his own table as did shoe-store magnate and one-time husband of Debbie Reynolds, Harry Karl.

The California Friars, loosely affiliated with the New York club, never quite recovered from the great gin rummy rip-off. In the mid-1960s many of the club's more prominent, non-entertainment members, were indicted and convicted of racketeering following exposure of a gambling scam.

The perpetrators had made holes in the floor above the main room where very illegal, big-money gin rummy games were held. The pro gamblers actually had wires attached to their ankles, connected to confederates able to see opponents' hands from the peek holes above. With a series of electric jolts, they managed to signal when to "knock."

There were many victims, but the heaviest losers seemed to be Karl and Silvers, reportedly being taken for over one-half million each. Countless numbers of members quit after the raid and subsequent trials, but eventually a new leadership team attempted to restore confidence. Talk show host Larry King became the head Friar and the mob types never returned. However, the club was never the same and eventually folded—some 10 years ago.

When Univision purchased the property from Friar Charities, it demolished the building, but carefully provided landscaping that blocked visions of an empty lot. Earlier use plans included possible mixed use—housing and office retail, prior to the home office, Gehry concept.

What happens next? No one is really sure, and Univision is not even explaining why it aborted its approval process. But the land now joins other long abandoned lots and buildings near Wilshire and Santa Monica, including many on the south side of Wilshire between Spalding and Linden.

At the same time, Tuesday the city placed on hold the so-called Gateway project, impacting three separate owners east and west of the north side of Little Santa Monica and Wilshire, rejecting a unanimous recommendation of the city's planning commission.

Going against a 5-0 vote of their commission is somewhat unprecedented. What happens next to Gateway, and the former Friars, is very uncertain, but clearly this area needs attention and improvements.

One of the solid arguments made by the Peninsula Hotel owner proponents was that the development would also lead to improvement of adjoining properties. Although there are not many vacancies, the uses hardly match the elegance of the Peninsula, now recognized as one of the world's finest.

In fact, prior to the lengthy process that won approval of the Peninsula, first named The Belvedere, the Zwig family, owners of the legendary Fairmont in San Francisco, studied the possibility of creating their first-ever satellite on the same property. One of the reasons they opted not to go forward, in the early 1960s, was what the family considered very unattractive neighboring businesses and office buildings—not a Rodeo Drive sampler.

Remember the area surrounding the Nob Hill section of San Francisco that is home to both the Fairmont and Mark Hopkins, and compare that to Little Santa Monica, to understand the Zwig decision.

The developers of the Peninsula took a big chance, and it worked. With the hotel as anchor, some creative planning should now lead to a land-use plan that could be aesthetically enhancing, utilitarian, revenue producing, such as a mixed use might be both residential and retail/office. Just saying no is not acceptable; there has to be a responsible development plan that minimizes traffic impacts and yet makes critical improvements on Little Santa Monica.

An exciting, responsible and attractive development plan would also enhance property values in nearby residential. This is something neighbors and city planners also need to consider—the interdependence of residential and commercial. (How valuable would southwest homes be if instead of Saks, Barneys and Neiman Marcus, Wilshire was home to a Walmart, Best Buy, Sears or some popular fast food eateries?)

There is sufficient guilt to share about what has now happened twice in Colorado to make us all look in the mirror. No, it took some insane mad men to destroy the lives of so many innocent people, but our culpability is also all too obvious.

The problem continues to be our lack of sustained interest in the causes of violent, lunatic outbursts once the headlines stop. Just maybe this time the killings in Aurora will lead to some actions and not just a temporary revulsion.

Let's begin with the obvious: One non-Colorado law enforcement official summed it up. "How was it possible for this one person to obtain so much lethal weaponry without coming to the attention of local police agencies?"

This is not about restricting the rights of collectors, but if they need that amount of guns to kill some deer, maybe hunting is not their sport. It is totally outrageous that anyone using either the Internet or some retailers could come into possession of not only the weaponry, but also the explosives accumulated by the perpetrator in Aurora.

Next, and equally important, is our nation's need to vastly overhaul our mental health resources. Not only must we find better tools for dealing with mental health issues, we also have to educate our society in how to detect mental health problems before they destroy the mentally ill and the people around them.

Although certainly not comparable in terms of the suffering caused, the Penn State community's failure to make an early identification of assistant coach Jerry Sandusky's illness, led to ruining countless young people's lives. How could Joe Paterno, the Penn State officials and Sandusky's own family not recognize his behavior as an illness that demanded help and treatment?

As for Second Amendment zealots, consider some realities: The amendment supposedly protects the rights of citizens to "bear arms." The Constitution does not delineate guns, it reads "arms." How about weapons of mass destruction, a small H Bomb or poison gas? Is that too protected? Those too are descriptions of "arms."

I am not an overly emotional person, as Josette will confirm. But I lost it when I saw pictures of that six-year-old child killed in what should be a family-safe venue, a movie theater. And why? Because we are not courageous enough to demand restrictions on weapons, and unwilling to face up to our insufficient support of mental health programs.

In a way, that brings us to our own need for civility, something our fine Human Relations Commission and staff continue to address. But rational civic interaction also means using our tools of communication very carefully.

While I even admire, quite seriously, the willingness of the publisher of that other newspaper to express his generally right-wing opinions in our mostly liberal community—not sure how long this column would survive in San Marino—I would urge some temperance in attacks on city staff.

We have for many years created a very special bond between city staff, residents and business. The people who work at city hall really care about Beverly Hills and we appreciate, not only their professionalism, but their integrity and sense of belonging. Those qualities help distinguish us as a city.

Nothing is perfect, and quality city services are a continuing work in progress. But headlines about falsifying of records when the problem is semantic and not any criminal behavior, is simply not helpful. Or take the claim that we are overstaffed. Our friends used a strange statistic to make that charge: "We have one employee for every 34 residents." True, but as even the most casual reader clearly understands, our city serves nearly 250,000 people who come here to work, dine or shop every day, and not just our 34,000 residents. Come on, let's not play games with numbers to make a point of belittling our city workers.

Civility begins at home, and in our daily lives, including those who own a bucket of ink. We need to come closer together, not further apart.

the Board of Education learned it could be impacted by $3.27 million to $6.63 million in cuts over the next three years, depending on whether or not Governor Jerry Brown's tax initiative passes in November.

Although experts initially thought language in the state budget bill indicating basic-aid districts, which are funded mostly through property taxes, would be subject to mid-year "fair-share reductions" was an oversight, the BHUSD learned earlier this week it likely will have to account for the reductions as early as Jan. 1, 2013. In the past, basic-aid districts were required to account for fair-share reductions at the end of the school year.

Chief Administrative Officer Dawnalyn Murakawa-Leopard said the fair-share reduction facing the district totals approximately $2.03 million.

As a basic-aid district, fair-share reductions to BHUSD's budget equal those of districts with revenue-limit funding, meaning districts receive a certain amount of funding from the state for each student in addition to property-tax revenue.

Regardless of what happens with the tax initiative and additional fair-share reductions, BHUSD needs to reduce expenditures by $3.27 million over the next three school years based on the 2012-2013 adopted budget. The Board of Education approved an $800,000 reduction for the current year, but has yet to specify a plan for reducing expenditures by $1.9 million for 2013-2014 and $550,000 for 2014-2015.

"I would like to know whether my colleagues would be interested in exploring explaining to LACOE one way or another, we're providing a budget that is qualified because we are not going to be able to find the 3.2 to 5 or 6 million dollars worth of cuts, and whether you're comfortable with a qualified budget for this year to send a message," Manaster said. "Honestly, there has got to be some sort of line in the sand. There's no reason we can't revise it once we figure something else out, but to me, it's like this goal post keeps going and going and going. I'd like to see us threaten a qualified budget."

By the end of the study session, the majority of the board agreed with Manaster. The board directed Murakawa-Leopard to make an appointment with LACOE representatives to discuss potential implications of submitting a qualified budget.

"I don't want to deficit spend, I don't want to tap into the reserve, I don't want to put this district in any sort of a precarious situation. That is absolutely not the goal here," Manaster said. "This is artifice to some degree. This is to send a message that, 'You know what? We're not healthy either.' We want to be healthy but it is impossible when frankly we're not given anything close to what we need to operate anything like a school district in this county."

On Tuesday, Manaster said he learned LACOE would likely consider BHUSD's interim budget, which is due in November, a self-qualified budget, "which means that a cleanup process needs to be put in place or other funding needs to be realized. That's what I'm going to be in favor of doing."

According to information provided by

LACOE Chief Business Officer Alex Cherniss, who was formerly BHUSD's assistant superintendent of business services, actions required by school districts with qualified interim budgets include submitting a "fiscal recovery plan" addressing the district's fiscal conditions and an end-of-year financial statement to the county superintendent.

A qualified budget may prevent school districts from being able to borrow money using COPs (certificates of participation) or TRANs (tax and revenue anticipation notes), but a bulletin from LACOE says districts that "self-certify" qualified budgets may not be affected.

"To our knowledge, conversations with rating agencies are yet to be had regarding this view of self-certification," the bulletin states.

The LACOE bulletin says self-qualifying is a way for school districts to openly communicate with stakeholders regarding financial challenges.

"In many cases, the districts need additional time to address future budget reductions in order to meet their reserve levels and the self-qualified certification demonstrates the district's commitment to address the budget issues," the bulletin states.

Districts that are self-qualified may be supervised by a fiscal advisor appointed by the county superintendent. That advisor would have the authority to stay or rescind actions by the Board of Education it considers inconsistent with the district's ability to meet its fiscal obligations in the current or following year.

In the worst case, school districts unable to meet their financial obligations can be taken over by the state.

In response to a question about at what point the state can take over a school district, Cherniss wrote in an e-mail, "Upon receiving an emergency loan, there are specific parameters that are followed." The BHUSD is not currently in that situation.

At the end of last Thursday's study session, the board agreed to also develop a plan involving cutbacks and exploring potential revenue sources.

"It may not have been the job of the board in the past to actually actively be part of saving our own district by whatever means that were necessary," Board member Noah Margo said. "But it might fall on this board

MASON'S MISSION

The Weekly's exclusive interview with The Maple Counseling Center President Mason A. Sommers

By Melanie Anderson

So, what's new at The Maple Counseling Center?

There are lots of new things. I think the first would be that we have built a new board of directors with varied individuals from our community who have come forward to do a piece of work and philanthropy in moving The Maple Counseling Center forward. That's very exciting to me.

Tell us about your colleagues on the board of directors.

I'm privileged to serve. This is my third year-term as board chair. That's an unprecedented landmark in TMCC's history. Rarely has a board chair sat for three terms. What it has allowed me to do is to bring together the existing board and also build a stronger board of directors with people who are here to do good for the community. I couldn't be more proud of these people who give us their time and their money and understand that TMCC's board is a working board and a fundraising board.

How did TMCC find some of its new board members?

What's really interesting is that a couple of our new members have been TMCC interns in the past, so that's really wonderful when people who have been the recipients of our training decide to come back and want to then be a part of moving the center forward as a member of the board of directors. That's particularly rewarding to see. I owe that to our amazing clinical staff who stewarded these individuals when they were interns at TMCC and really appreciate the training that they got.

People participate on boards of directors because they're asked to do so and it kind of came all at once. There were a number of people who had gotten that critical message that TMCC was needing to be revitalized and started showing up. I think that's part of the momentum that is very exciting at TMCC at this time. We brought nine new board members to the board in our last election.

People who are currently on the board who were formerly interns are Azadeh Afari, Sylvia Hakim, Anita Friedman, Kathy Javor, and Sharon Nazarian. Interestingly, one of our newer board members [Michael Lushing] has decided to become a clinician and is going back to school.

Tell us about your priorities this term as chair.

A key one has been to build our board of directors and in that, there needs to be a successor to the board chair, and so our nominations committee is diligently culling those people who may be interested in service at that level. In addition, a long-term priority has been the stabilization of TMCC financially and a great deal of credit goes to our board of directors and to our CEO Marcy Kaplan. Another aspect of what I wanted to see happen was the return of our psychiatric services and that's in the process of being [reinstated] at TMCC, and this is in part due to a grant through Cedars-Sinai Medical Center. It's exciting because there are so few places in Los Angeles where individuals can get both the counseling that we provide and the opportunity to have a screening for the possibility of needing psychotropic or antidepressant medications. Currently there are wait lists at hospitals around town and this is a vital service.

We have to look into the future. We will need to find a new location, perhaps within the next two years, and this is a challenge finding affordable rent and also providing the amount of space that we need.

Why does TMCC need to find a new space?

Our lease ends within two years. Currently, our rent per month is a huge drain on TMCC's financial resources and we'd like to find more affordable accommodations. We are just in the beginning of that process of deciding how we want to go about this.

You mentioned it's unprecedented to have a three-year term as chair. So how did that happen?

As some people in our community know, in January 2010 when I was brought to the board as the chair, it happened at a time when I was debilitated and in the hospital awaiting a heart transplant. We were fortunate to have Tom Blumenthal, who was serving as the first vice president, step in for me during that time. When my two-year term was up, it was felt that for the stabilization of TMCC and our board of directors, it was asked that I serve a third year, and also in that process develop within the board, leadership.

I'm overwhelmed at the support that I've received as board chair. I think being a clinician for the past 34 years, I bring an awareness about the needs for mental health services, particularly to our client population and I think that's well received by our board of directors, as well as by our staff members. Oftentimes people don't understand that a mental health agency in Beverly Hills needs financial assistance and that our clients are not those who are affording mental health services on Bedford Drive. Currently, approximately 20 percent of our clients reside in the Beverly Hills area, which means that 80 percent do not. We continue to work on a sliding scale. Our median fee is approximately $26. We are not reimbursed by insurance companies for the services that we provide through our interns.

Tell us what you learned from your first two terms.

I've learned how to bring together as diverse a group of people as I can to understand the needs of The Maple Counseling Center and how we can better serve the community through our services. I have learned that we really have to focus on the mission of The Maple Counseling Center over personality issues and dynamics, which is something that I would imagine all board chairs are aware of and that my job as a board chair is to inspire our board members to do the best they can in service to The Maple Counseling Center and to secure a proper governance. I believe that our board members do that. What's interesting is that our board members are also members of other boards of directors and have been throughout history, so their philanthropic ideals are well entrenched and these are people of service to our community in many different ways.

There are three things I am very proud of. One is that we returned to our basic mental health services. This was and is essential so that we remain solvent. In doing that, along with more aggressive fundraising by our CEO and board, we now have some financial reserves. Another is that we are in the process of developing a strategic plan for our future development. One of our newer board members, Jeff Lapin, brings with him a great deal of both nonprofit and corporate experience in this area, and is leading our board in future discussions. And finally, I have been instrumental in reinvigorating our Board of Governors. These are former board members who continue to provide financial support to TMCC. In prior years there were between three and five active members, and in the past two years that number has more than tripled.

How did you become involved with TMCC?

I was asked by a dear friend of mine, Alan Kaye, who also is a Beverly Hills resident [and] is also involved in many other charitable organizations. He had known of my work with the Los Angeles Gay and Lesbian Community Services Center, where I was the chairman of the board at one time, and also that I had founded a mental health clinic at the Westside Women's Health Center in my mother's name after her passing.

How does TMCC fund its services?

That's a combination of board members' support [and] grants that we receive from different organizations that are written by our CEO Marcy Kaplan. We've received grants from The Ralph M. Parsons Foundation, The Ahmanson Foundation and the Weingart Foundation. These are all top foundations that fund Los Angeles County nonprofit organizations. We also have long-standing relationships with smaller foundations that provide modest grants on an ongoing basis.

The rest is up to the board of directors to raise through major donors and solicitations, as well as our two major fundraising events each year. TMCC hosts the annual film screening and car drawing in the spring, and that's held at the Academy of Motion Pictures and then we have our Crystal Ball, which is generally in October. We already have the date for this year's Crystal Ball, which will be Oct. 24. What's historic here is that this is our 40th anniversary. We have served the Beverly Hills community for 40 years and that's very exciting to have been here that long.

Tell us how TMCC interacts with the City and BHUSD.

We have strong relationships with the City of Beverly Hills and with the school district. We provide a number of services at Beverly High and at the elementary schools. Those programs are directly serving our adolescents at Beverly High, where we have interns on site, and through our Community Circle programs at other Beverly Hills and Los Angeles County elementary schools. Currently we see over 1,000 students through the Community Circle program in all of the K-8 schools, and approximately 250 students at Beverly High or in the BHUSD each year. We also have a student representative to our board of directors, a young man by the name of Nathan Cohen who has been wonderful at getting students to volunteer to help us with our fundraising events.

In addition, we provide mental health services to City of Beverly Hills employees should they choose to work with The Maple Counseling Center. We are also available to our fire and police departments. In times of crisis, the police and fire I know appreciate that TMCC is there not only for themselves if they wish to process issues, but also for the constituency in Beverly Hills who are going through different crises at different times. TMCC is an invaluable resource and that's really due to the training that we provide. This year I believe we have approximately 72 interns at TMCC who provide the counseling services to the community and they are supervised by licensed professionals and trained by our staff. TMCC is probably one of the most sought-after placements in the Los Angeles area because in part the training that we provide. We have marriage and family therapy interns, licensed clinical social worker interns and doctoral candidate interns.

TMCC receives approximately $75,000 in the form of a Community Assistance Grant, and an additional $35,000 for EAP [Employee Assistance Program] monies for City employees. For the 2011/2012 school year, we received $60,000 from BHUSD for our school-based services at the elementary and high schools. We have not received word on any disbursements for the next school year.

You're a clinical psychologist. Tell us how you got into the field of mental health.

As an undergraduate, I initially had been considering a career in reconstructive surgery but I was at UC Irvine and became very disenchanted with the process and decided to take some psychology courses and I was hooked. When I realized that, I transferred to UCLA and completed my bachelor's there and then received my Master's and doctorate at the California School of Professional Psychology.

Sounds like you made the right choice.

I love going to work every day and I love what I do. I am privileged to have a practice here in Beverly Hills, where I have been that entire time and primarily work with couples and adult individuals. In addition, I'm on the clinical faculty at the David Geffen School of Medicine in the doctoring program there.

Tell us about your involvement with Donate Life.

As I mentioned, in April 2010 I received a new heart and I attempted to contact the family whose donor heart I received, but they are no longer participating in the system. One Legacy Donate Life is Los Angeles' procurement organization and I decided that as a way of giving back, I became educated as a Donate Life ambassador. When there was an opportunity to become a Donate Life ambassador to a city, I approached then-Mayor Barry Brucker and was able to get the City of Beverly Hills to participate in the annual Donate Life celebration, which happens in April. [The City Council] declared [April] Beverly Hills Donate Life Awareness month and [the organization] received a proclamation from the City.

In addition to my work with TMCC I raise money for Donate Life and also educate the community about organ donation, tissue donation and transplantation. I just finished three different in-services for the Beverly Hills emergency system, EMS Fire Department workers, on organ donation and transplantation. It was particularly moving to me because it was Beverly Hills paramedics that saved my life on two separate occasions. I was first rescued in 1971 and then again in 1974.

Tell us what it means to be able to give back in this way.

When I think about it, part of being a transplant is that I have to maintain the quality of my heart. I exercise daily. On the days that I don't want to get up and walk, I do it for this blessed young man whose heart resides in my chest. It's an honor to speak about organ donation and transplantation as this is life saving. It's truly miraculous care that we are blessed to have in our [community], both at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, as well as at UCLA Medical Center. Giving back is a way of educating and enlightening our community and dispelling the myth about organ transplantation and donation.

You attended Hawthorne and graduated from Beverly High in 1974. How did growing up in Beverly Hills inspire you to become involved in nonprofit work?

I believe that those of us who are privileged with some financial means have an obligation to give back, whether it's through our time or our money. I am privileged enough to be able to give a little of both to my community and I'm so grateful for that opportunity. My parents were involved in the American Jewish Committee and a few other organizations. I became involved [in the 1980s] as a donor through my work at the Gay and Lesbian Community Services Center.

It's interesting that there are at least five members of my graduating class from Beverly High who currently serve on our board of directors: Deborah Kallick, Gail Millan, Jeffrey Lapin, John Jameson and myself. There are other Beverly High graduates who serve on our board of directors as well.

Tell us about your family.

My partner [Rami Aizic] and I have been together for the past 16 years. He is also a mental health professional here in Beverly Hills. We're blessed to have two children, Ben and Bailey. Ben is 18 and will be a freshman at Sonoma [State University] in the fall, and our daughter Bailey is 12 and attends the Oakwood School.

What do you find most rewarding about your involvement with TMCC?

For me, it has to be the stories of the people who have been immeasurably helped by the work that we do. What I hear from a lot of my board members is that they are continually inspired in listening to the stories of people that they may know or those stories that are presented to our board anonymously through our interns who make us aware of the work that they are doing on a daily basis in healing our community. These are services that these individuals could not find anywhere else.

Marimekko's revised proposal

Marimekko revises awnings, gains Architectural Commission approval

Finnish textile and apparel merchandiser Marimekko brought revised designs for its proposed storefront on the corner of Canon Drive and Brighton Way before the Architectural Commission on July 18.

Last month, the commission directed the retailer to revise its plans, despite expressing admiration for the designs.

The issue was that the proposed colorful "sail-like" awnings, which extended above the roofline, exceeded 9 feet in length, which is not permitted by code.

"We would have loved to have seen it [gain approval], but our hands are tied," Commission Chair Zale Richard Rubins said. "When it's a code issue, there's really nothing we can do."

Marimekko's revised plans proposed awnings of a code-compliant length that do not extend above the roofline. The commission unanimously approved the plans, which also feature a café element with outdoor dining. A full kitchen is not a part of the proposal, as the retailer plans to serve coffee, non-alcoholic beverages and reheated, pre-prepared food.

"They worked with us, they met the codes and they sailed right through," Rubins said.

Marimekko North America President Lynn Shanahan said the approved designs "showcase the fabric, design, the color and inclusiveness of Marimekko as a brand."

The Beverly Hills location will be the textile company's first shop in California, but Marimekko has in-store shops in Crate & Barrel at The Grove and at Union Square in San Francisco.

Shanahan said Marimekko first came to the United States in the 1960s, when the brand was embraced by the late First Lady Jackie Kennedy.

"We are bringing Marimekko back to the West Coast and thought absolutely Beverly Hills was a place to represent the brand in the right way," Shanahan said.

Shanahan said she expects the store to open during the holiday season.

to break the tradition of sitting here and slashing and cutting, and get out there and figure out ways to raise the money. If we can become 'independently wealthy' from the state because there's enough money in the city to do that if we do it correctly, then we don't have to have these conversations, nor should we."

With respect to generating revenue, the board agreed to explore the possibility of selling the Elm Drive parking lot across from Beverly Vista. The board said it is also considering approaching the City about a joint venture using the property. In any case, changing the use of Elm Drive would likely require finding another location for faculty and staff to park.

Manaster said the BHUSD and City have yet to discuss in detail potential revenue-generating plans for the oil well site, after oil production ceases at Beverly High in 2016. The Board of Education also expressed interest in the idea of personally meeting with potential donors that may not have been approached in the past.

The board also agreed to consider going out for a parcel tax, which would require 66.67-percent voter approval. As an example, the Measure E bond received 65-percent approval in 2008. Bonds, unlike parcel taxes, require 55-percent voter approval.

None of the potential revenue ideas were discussed in detail. Board of Education President Brian Goldberg said BHUSD and BHEF would continue to work closely together on funding initiatives.

Early on in the study session before Manaster made his proposal, Goldberg announced that the potential cutbacks on the table would impact existing programs.

"There's not enough fat on the bone. We've hit bone now," Goldberg said. "I think it's important for the community to understand that difficult decisions are going to have to be made in order to continue, and now it's going to get into priority budgeting."

The majority of the board agreed to explore the possibility of cutting the remaining adult education program for a savings of $82,000, of negotiating up to six non-instructional day furloughs for a maximum savings of $996,636, and reducing fourth- and fifth-grade teachers from 33 to 30 by removing the guarantee for students to attend their "home school" for a savings of $298,008.

"It's basically come to a point where we're in this situation—I know the threshold for other districts that have been suffering for so long that they will be unable to fund education. They simply cannot do it," Manaster said. "You cannot teach chemistry in a 60-person classroom with one teacher, so I just feel like we were potentially doing a lot of work there that we will not need to do because I have some faith that one of two things will happen: They will realize they cannot just put this on education or we will find another revenue stream."

Chris Bushee, a member of BHEA's negotiating team, said it was too early to speculate about furloughs.

"I'm just hopeful that a lot of the revenue options that were looked at last [week] will be put into play because any time you can generate more revenue, that reduces the amount of cuts that you would need to make to balance the budget," Bushee said.

In June, the Board of Education approved an agreement with the teachers union that provided for salary increases for the first time in three years.

Crescent Hotel's remodel designs sent back for refinement

The Architectural Commission has assigned a subcommittee to work with the Crescent Hotel to revise its remodel designs, which propose reconfiguring the hotel's outdoor dining area, relocating its entrance to Brighton Way and installing new signage.

The commission reviewed the plans at its meeting last week on July 18, when it determined a subcommittee could be effective in helping the applicant gain approval.

"We felt that it needed to be sent back for restudy because it inadequately solved the problems that they had set out to resolve," Commission Chair Zale Richard Rubins said. "One was the separate identity of the restaurant from the hotel. The other was signage elements they utilized that didn't quite fit the building."

In June, the Planning Commission approved the Crescent Hotel's application to relocate its entrance, but it did not approve installation of an outdoor bar on the patio facing Crescent Drive. Although the hotel's conditional use permit previously prohibited awnings, the Planning Commission decided to permit awnings at the hotel, with the condition that the Architectural Commission has the opportunity to review them.

Currently, the hotel's entrance is located on Crescent Drive, requiring guests to walk through the middle of the restaurant's outdoor patio to access the hotel. The Crescent Hotel has proposed moving its entrance to Brighton Way, and installing landscaping and a large sign identifying the restaurant in front of the Crescent Drive patio. Rubins said the commission requested the applicant reduce the size of the proposed sign and suggested moving it toward the restaurant's proposed Crescent Drive entrance on the right side of the building.

On Brighton Way, the applicant proposed a small plaque identifying the hotel to the left of the entrance doorway, with an overhang above. Another "blade" identification sign, a vertical banner-style sign hanging perpendicular to the building's wall, was proposed near the corner of Brighton and Crescent.

"Their stated goal was to establish two distinct senses of arrival, one for the restaurant and one for the hotel, and we did not feel they achieved that," Rubins said.

The Architectural Commission began assigning subcommittees to help new restaurant applicants gain approval within 70 days, based on an initiative that was spearheaded by Mayor Willie Brien in 2011 when he became vice mayor.

"We decided if we can do it for restaurants, we can try and achieve the same thing for every project," Rubins said. "We felt that this process of [having a] subcommittee would help them stay on course and in the end help them achieve their goals and ours."

Crescent Hotel General Manager Susan Cronin did not return a phone call from the Weekly.

Last week was the commission's first meeting with five members, Rubins said. The City Council voted last year to reduce the commission from seven to five members in the interest of efficiency.

Allen Rennett and Fran Cohen's terms concluded earlier this month. Walter B. Meyer's term was also set to end, but he was asked to stay on until the commission finalizes approval of his replacement, since the commission is required to have a registered architect among its members.

"We thought we were very successful in keeping the professionalism up and quite frankly we went through the projects very efficiently," Rubins said. "However, we sorely miss those two people [Rennett and Cohen]."

Last week's meeting was Rubins' first meeting in his second term as chair. He was previously chair from 2010-2011.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF ROBERT I. KATZ
Case No. BP135421
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of ROBERT I. KATZ
A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Anita Pick, Jan Charness & Joel Zimmerman in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.
THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Anita Pick, Jan Charness & Joel Zimmerman be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on July 30, 2012 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 11 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

On 8/1/2012 at 09:00 AM, MERIDIAN FORECLOSURE SERVICE f/k/a MTDS, INC., A CALIFORNIA CORPORATION DBA MERIDIAN TRUST DEED SERVICE as the duly appointed Trustee under and pursuant to Deed of Trust Recorded 06/28/2005, Book , Page , Instrument 05 1517823 of official records in the Office of the Recorder of Los Angeles County, California, executed by: LYNDA ANN BARENS, AN UNMARRIED WOMAN as Trustor, MORTGAGE ELECTRONIC REGISTRATION SYSTEMS, INC., AS NOMINEE FOR INDIAMAC BANK, F.S.B., A FEDERALLY CHARTERED SAVINGS BANK, as Beneficiary, will sell at public auction sale to the highest bidder for cash, cashier's check drawn by a state or national bank, a cashier's check drawn by a state or federal credit union, or a cashier's check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, savings association, or savings bank specified in section 5102 of the Financial Code and authorized to do business in this state. Sale will be held by the duly appointed trustee as shown below, of all right, title, and interest conveyed to and now held by the trustee in the hereinafter described property under and pursuant to the Deed of Trust. The sale will be made, but without covenant or warranty, expressed or implied, regarding title, possession, or encumbrances, to pay the remaining principal sum of the notes (s) secured by the Deed of Trust, interest thereon, estimated fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee for the total amount (at the time of the initial publication of the Notice of Sale) reasonably estimated to be set forth below. The amount may be greater on the day of sale. Place of Sale: Behind the fountain located in Civic Center Plaza, 400 Civic Center Plaza, Pomona CA 91766 Legal Description: As more fully described in said Deed of Trust Amount of unpaid balance and other charges: $503,028.29 The street address and other common designation of the real property purported as: 8455 FOUNTAIN AVENUE UNIT 525 , WEST HOLLYWOOD, CA 90069 APN Number: 5555-002-088 NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not the property itself. Placing the highest bid at trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (714) 573-1965 or visit this Internet Web site www. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (714) 480-5690 or (800) 843-0260 ext 5690 or visit this Internet Web site: <http://www.tacforeclosures.com/sales>, using the file number assigned to this case F535481 F. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. If the sale is set aside for any reason, the Purchaser at the sale shall be entitled only to a return of the monies paid. The Purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Mortgagee, the Mortgagee or the Mortgagee's attorney. Date: July 18, 2012 T.D. SERVICE COMPANY as said Trustee, T.D.
