Sinai Temple announces it will conduct same sex marriages, some congregants revolt

Rabbi David Wolpe

Weeks prior to the Supreme Court's decision not to rule on proposition 8 paving the way for same sex marriage in California, Sinai Temple Rabbi David Wolpe announced the temple would conduct same sex marriages once it was afforded by California law.

"As we have modernized the role of women and many other practices the demand on the part of our brothers and sisters who are gay to be able to live in a sanctified relationship is a call to our conscience and our responsibility as Jews," wrote Wolpe in a letter to the congregation.

The clergy of Sinai Temple have decided that is in accordance with the halachic principle of kavod habriot, honor due all God's creation.

"I would say the vast majority of responses have been positive," said Wolpe. "Not everybody has been happy, some of them feel that we ought not to do it, but the vast majority of responses has been positive."

Among those who feel the temple should not conduct same sex marriages is architect Michael Naim who wrote an open letter to the Iranian members of Sinai Temple urging them to attend Iranian synagogues.

"We should not police what people do in the privacy of their home. This is a very private matter. That's not the issue. If people want to have recognition as having a union for whatever reason for tax purposes or an emotional need, they should be given the right," said Naim. "But for a rabbi to give homosexual relationships Jewish sanctity as if it's sanctified by Torah is an aberration."

Naim said his letter came as a result of conversations with friends who shared his viewpoint on the temple's decision. Naim said his two letter had been well-received by members of the temple, particularly in the Iranian-Jewish community.

"Kidoushin is the name for wedding and the translation of it is holiness and sanctity. Why is it sanctity? Because it is the only time that two people are bound to do something that is godly, which is creating another being. We know that two people who are of the same sex can’t possibly procreate and it becomes ridiculous to sanctify such an action,” said Naim, who said Judaism like Christianity and other religions do not accept same sex marriages.

Naim said Iranian members felt they had found the middle of the road of Jewish practice with the conservative movement, but that the latest decision was an example of the conservative movement “twisting and turning Jewish tenets and just becoming like everybody else.”

Wolpe said there have not been any ceremonies held or scheduled since the decision.

“The conservative movement has long supported this. I wanted to do it for a long time but I thought it was important first to give classes, seminars, workshops to prepare people for what I knew would be controversial for some, but it was less about reaching the decision then about how to present it to the congregation,” said Wolpe, who said the clergy not only unanimously supported the decision, but were eager to do it.

The Rabbinical Assembly, which is the international association of conservative rabbis, filed an amicus curae brief to overturn Proposition 8, said Wolpe.

As for the long-term implications, Wolpe said he is unsure because initial reactions and long terms decisions do not always coincide with long-term decisions.

“As time goes by, we see many of the younger generations graduate from the [conservative] school system. Few are taught what is authentic Judaism and fewer have the commitment or care to practice,” said Naim.

Naim said that though Iranian members do not make up the majority of the temple’s membership, they are the ones who fill the seats on Saturdays.

Wolpe said he’d have a better picture of the implications around the high holidays, but Wolpe maintains the response has been largely positive, though the decision did cause a stir.

“I didn’t know how it would happen. I thought it would happen by referendum in California but I was fairly sure that with the rapid change in public opinion that it was not going to be too long before California approved of same sex marriage,” said Wolpe.

Cultural Heritage Commission takes up busy agenda

The Cultural Heritage Commission discussed seven properties at the commission’s meeting yesterday.

Among those discussed for initiation of nomination proceedings is the William L. Pereira Union 76 station on Crescent Drive and Little Santa Monica.

The Cultural Heritage Commission decides whether or not to initiate nomination proceedings for properties and then city staff returns to the commission with a report. The commission will then vote whether or not to nominate the properties as local landmarks. The City Council has the final decision.

The commission also discussed Millard Sheets’ murals installed in various areas of the city, as well as the “Writers and Artists building” at 9507 South Santa Monica Boulevard, and the Beverly Gardens Park, scheduled to be renovated later this year.

The property discussed at 910 North Bedford Drive has been determined as eligible for landmark designation by the City’s historic consultant. The property has been previously vetted by the commission and at yesterday’s meeting the commission voted on whether to recommend the property as a local landmark. The high-style craftsman architecture property is known as the Anthony-Kerry House designed by Greene and Greene. The house was constructed in 1909 near downtown Los Angeles and was relocated to Beverly Hills. Silent film star Norman Kerry lived in the property.

The commission also discussed the property located at 724 North Camden Drive. The house, constructed in 1921, is an example of a kit house that had been assembled by Pacific Ready Cut Homes. This property has also been found to be eligible for landmark designation by the City’s historic consultant.

This property was brought before the commission by Chair Rich Waldow, who was appointed chair of the commission yesterday. The property has a notice of a demolition permit issued.

The Saban Theatre, the only property on the National Register of Historic Places, that is not yet on the local register applied for a Mills Act contract.

If the commission agreed on the resolution, the item will go to the City Council.

The Mills Act authorizes participating local governments to enter into contracts with owners of qualified historic properties to receive property tax relief by agreeing to actively preserve, maintain and rehabilitate historic properties. Under the pilot program, initial contracts would last for 10 years. To qualify, properties must appear on a local, state or national historic register.

Decisions will be reported next week. The commission meeting ended after the Weekly’s deadline.

vote on whether or not to remove a left-turn lane on South Santa Monica Boulevard between North Rodeo and Beverly Drive today at the commission’s meeting at 9 a.m.

Removing the left-turn lane would allow for four additional parking spaces on the north side of the boulevard. The left-turn lane allows vehicles traveling westbound to turn into an alley in between Rodeo and Beverly Drives.

The request came from Sunny Sassoon, president of Sunvic Properties, and partial owner of a commercial building on South Santa Monica, where the left-turn lane is currently located.

“This is not something that the city initiated, but the property owner requested based upon his perceived need for additional parking support for his tenants,” said Traffic and Parking Chair Alan Grushcow.

In a letter written to the Traffic and Parking Commission, Sassoon wrote that the lack of parking on the street has been “detrimental” to the small businesses operating out of the property.

The city has received 25 e-mails and letters from surrounding businesses. Three businesses have expressed support while 22 have written in opposition.

In letters attached to the staff report, businesses that use the southbound alley wrote that removal of the left turn lane would make service vehicle access more difficult.

Norbert Wabnig, owner of The Cheese Store of Beverly Hills, said his business receives deliveries from big rig trucks, which cannot turn right into the alleyway without pulling into oncoming traffic with the removal of the lane.

Rodeo Drive Committee President Jim Jahant, wrote a letter in opposition on behalf of the Rodeo Drive Committee saying it will negatively impact businesses and increase congestion in the triangle.

Letters of support came from Chipotle Mexican Grill and the Ice Cream Lab.

According to the staff report, in the late 1990's, a striping plan was developed for South Santa Monica Boulevard that removed all on-street parking between Beverly and Rodeo drives. At that time, left turn pockets were added on Beverly and Rodeo Drive. The left turn pocket on Rodeo has since been removed and four parking spaces have been added on the north side of the boulevard since.

City staff assigned Fehr & Peers to prepare a report under the City's on-call transportation consultant agreement. The boulevard is scheduled to be repaved this summer, and staff agreed the existing striping could be analyzed, according to the report. The commission will receive public comment and then make a recommendation to the city council, which will make the final decision.

Metro says BHUSD consultant's memo will not alter route decision

The Metro Board of Directors issued a response on Tuesday to a report by BHUSD consultant Kenney Geoscience that concluded Santa Monica Boulevard between Avenue of the Stars and Century Park East did not contain active faults.

"Metro's experts concluded that there is no new information to support changing the location of the Century City Station from Constellation Boulevard to Santa Monica Boulevard," said the statement.

The report by Kenney GeoScience was submitted to the California Geological Society and also concluded that the proposed Constellation Station was located on potentially three active faults.

Metro denies the existence of faults at the Constellation Station and wrote that the memo acknowledged the presence of faulting beneath Santa Monica Boulevard

Metro argued there was direct evidence for absence of faulting at the Constellation

Arye Abraham

While sports fans waited to see if former Lakers' player Dwight Howard would stay with the Lakers or sign with the Houston Rockets, sports bloggers and reporters were being scooped by 16-year-old Beverly High student Arye Abraham, who will be a junior in the fall.

"It feels good," said Abraham. "It felt kind of surreal at the beginning."

Abraham gained over 2,000 followers on Twitter as he began to tweet about Howard's whereabouts, including Howard's meeting with the Houston Rockets.

Howard met with five teams last week

The Lakers had issued a "Stay D12" campaign in efforts to convince Howard to sign with the Lakers for a longer contract, but Howard announced his decision to join the Rockets on July 5.

Abraham said he got involved in covering Howard's meetings because he hoped he could be part of the decision in getting Howard to stay with the Lakers. He said he was doing it for fun and suddenly had thousands of followers.

Abraham said he noticed he was gaining more Twitter followers after correcting Adrian Wojnarowski, the NBA columnist for Yahoo Sports, who had also been tweeting updates on the status of Howard's various meetings.

Abraham live tweeted Howard's dinner with the Rockets management at the Bel-Air Hotel. Abraham tweeted at writers from ESPN and SB Nation, and other sports reporters who commended Abraham for his coverage.

"I direct messaged some of them. They gave me some tips," said Abraham.

But this isn't new for Abraham, who said that for the past couple of years, he has met and received autographs from NBA players at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel as they come to Los Angeles for away games.

Since last week, he's met Laker player Metta World Peace, Golden State Warriors player Stephen Curry, Warrior's coach Mark Jackson, Toronto Raptors player

DeMar DeRozan, and Clippers player Chris Paul.

He said he plans to continue covering NBA players and may pursue journalism in the future.

Our Gun Love Affair

By Joe Tilem

As part of an occasional series from the former mayors.

I had two Cuban cigars in my luggage given to me by Fidel Castro himself at the end of our trip to Cuba. The ten day trip for twenty American mayors to meet a dozen Cuban mayors had been approved by the U.S. State Department and arranged by the U.S. Conference of Mayors. I knew one of the fine Cuban cigars would be for my neighbor, Leon Myers, a cigar aficionado, but the other? Then I recalled the recent discussion we had at our City Council study session in the back room, right behind the elegant and imposing City Council chambers. The subject: Smoking in the City Hall, and in particular, smoking in the City Council chambers.

Discussions of public issues like these are still regularly held several hours before the formal meetings of the Beverly Hills City Council. Then, as now, the public was welcome to listen to our discussions. Only a few people bothered to come. The five elected city council members sat around a large oak table. Councilmember Richard Stone smoked his cigar during the meetings. We were debating an ordinance to forbid smoking in City Hall, and Richard wanted to smoke his cigar. He was adamant: smoking was his right, and he told us he could think better while puffing on his cigar. He was the one I'd give the other Cuban cigar to when I got home. It was June 1978, and I had been elected Mayor in March.

Beverly Hills was the first city in the nation to adopt a No Smoking ordinance. We had been told by lobbyists and restaurant owners and members of the public that smoking was a civil right; that it would harm the restaurant business, that barring smoking was unconstitutional, that smoking was a harmless pastime that should not be restricted in spite of what the Surgeon General had said; that freedom to smoke was a private matter and that it was none of our business as a city council to curtail it. Our friend, the late columnist Rudy Cole, an inveterate pipe smoker, made impassioned pleas not to pass a law that would stop him from smoking his aromatic pipe during council meetings.

But we did. Beverly Hills adopted one of the first NO SMOKING ordinances in the country in the 1980's. Ordinances patterned after ours spread from City to City, from State to State and finally gained national recognition. Then it spread around the world.

The cultural shift had been started. It was slow. Yes, there had to be a change in the culture of smoking in the United States before the plague of cigarette smoking would be stopped. Only after the change in our culture could No Smoking laws become the laws of the land.

The right to bear arms is part of our US Constitution. The Second Amendment states: "A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms shall not be infringed". Guns are now part of our heritage. For better or worse, the right to own guns is enshrined in the Second Amendment to the Constitution: it is part of the American culture.

At least it is enshrined up to now.

So was smoking. The people who addressed the Beverly Hills City Council back in 1979 also insisted that the right to smoke tobacco was part of our culture, our tradition, their birthright.

Smoking rights are not in the US Constitution. It might have been different had the early American tobacco farmers back in 1791 thought ahead and enshrined the right to smoke tobacco in the new Constitution. Just imagine, for a moment, a Constitutional Amendment which said "Smoking tobacco, being necessary to the health and pleasure of a free people, the right to carry and smoke tobacco products shall not be infringed". Fortunately for the health of all of us, the tobacco industry in 1791 was not well organized and could not see 200 years ahead when we finally realized the harm tobacco causes to its users; they did not have the foresight to protect their products by inserting an Amendment in the nascent Constitution. But it could have happened.

A recent poll showed that 85% of the American public believed, immediately after the families had buried the 20 bullet-punctured bodies of their children and their six teachers in Newtown, Mass., that the unrestricted "right to bear arms" is an anomaly in our civilized society; that some form of gun control was needed. Ours is the only constitution in the world that includes a "right to keep and bear arms".

I believe it is time to repeal the Second Amendment to our Constitution.

If we want to keep it there, we must then accept the consequences of periodic mass murders and regular killings in our cities. We must learn to tolerate the 30,000 + gun related homicides and the countless gun suicides each year. "Background checks" and restrictions on the number of bullets in the magazine in certain weapons has been the focus of recent debate, but it is a futile discussion. No one can provide "background checks" on individuals without delving into the murky realm of mental stability, and the predictive power of certain mental characteristics of individuals to determine whether or not they will engage in mass killings. Who is qualified to perform such "background checks", to peer into the psyches of those individuals who seek to buy weapons and make the decision that they are not qualified to own a gun? And it would have to go beyond the first buyer: it would have to cover everyone in the household who will have access to the weapons, not just the owners of the guns. It was the mother of the Newtown mass shooter who purchased the guns and kept them in her home, accessible to her son. He used them to kill the 26 people in a burst of frenzy. It seems so obvious that background checks are futile. It is the availability of guns themselves to civilians who have no need to own them that is the root cause of the massacres. Not background checks. I agree with the opponents of background checks: they will do little to stem mass murders so long as guns are readily available to all.

California has, like many other states, enacted extensive and comprehensive gun control laws. The most recent, known as "Deadly Weapons Recodification Act of 2010," has brought together in one place the myriad of California statutes that control the sale and use of deadly weapons in California. But California is still limited in the scope of its legislation by the Second Amendment. California laws are challenged from time to time by gun advocates who point to the Second Amendment of the Federal Constitution. Beverly Hills, like many cities, designates its Chief of Police to administer issuance of gun licenses under State law. He carefully exercises discretion; we have few licensed gun carriers in Beverly Hills. But neither our police department nor any governmental agency can prevent deadly weapons from being brought into our State unlawfully. One of our neighboring states, Arizona does not have effective gun control laws; the state still has the "wild west" mentality, the direct result of the Second Amendment. No one needs a permit to carry a handgun in Arizona. It is one of the top 10 states for firearm deaths between 2001 and 2010, along with homicide deaths of women and children under 17. It was rated the "best state" for gun owners in March by Guns and Ammo Magazine: the obvious result of the literal words of the Second Amendment. No one suggests all entering vehicles be stopped and searched as they enter California, so the flood of illegal guns into California can continue unabated.

But our real goal should be to eliminate the "right" under Federal Law to the sale and use of deadly weapons by the general public. To accomplish the goal will not be easy. They successfully did it a decade ago in Australia, so why not here?

We need to develop a strategy. How do we, as residents of a small city, send the message to every American city and town that controlling or eliminating weapons in every state creates a safer society for all? How can we reach every state legislature? What can we do to have the message of gun control at the Federal level preached from the pulpits of every religious institution, to have the message repeated over and over again on television news broadcasts and talk shows that so effectively mold public opinion? How can we motivate motion picture producers, writers and directors, so many of whom live here in Beverly Hills, to proclaim the word that guns kill children and other human beings? How can we win over a few of our affluent, influential residents to support and encourage the opinion makers in the mass media, and finally persuade our local congressmen and Senators to do the right thing? Only after the opinions and culture of guns has changed will the opposition fall away.

The urban segments of our population will be easier to convince than the rural segments. Indeed, rural populations may still need to keep weapons under certain restrictive conditions. We should not advocate a universal ban on all guns; only that possessing a gun should not be an automatic "right"; it should be a privilege controlled by an agency of government. Owning weapons that kill should not be our "default position". Instead, on a case-by-case basis, guns should be permitted with appropriate restrictions and conditions as the legislatures of each State or community see fit,

The idea is right; accomplishing it is hard.

Opposition by gun manufacturers is well organized and well funded. It is essential to their business: if people no longer bought guns in the huge quantities they now do, they will lose business. Guns will only be sold to law enforcement personnel, to properly licensed individuals and to the military. Their industry will shrink. They have every reason to fight this effort tenaciously: they will to the bitter end.

Over time, we can accomplish our goal of creating a safer, gun free society if we are persistent and can hold the attention of the voters; we need a cultural shift away from guns.

When more than 85% of Americans are in support of gun control, but our legislators are unable to adopt such legislation, there is a Constitutional remedy for the people when our will and welfare is being thwarted.

Clearly a large majority of our legislators are unable to support any legislation on gun control, or even to allow it to come to a vote because they are in thrall of the powerful gun lobby controlled by the NRA and financed by gun manufacturers, we have a legal process to remedy such stalemate: adopting a Constitutional amendment.

I want to propose a Constitutional amendment to allow the Federal Government to control the interstate commerce in firearms while ceding gun control authority to the States. States like California should not be burdened in its firearms laws by having to defer to an antiquated Constitutional Amendment. States are naturally more concerned with the safety and welfare of their citizens, and can more effectively address issues of gun control than the federal government. This amendment allows States to regulate guns and ammunition, just like we did when we ceded the regulation of intoxicating beverages under the 21st amendment.

My goal is ambitious, but it has to start somewhere. Why not in Beverly Hills?

Section 1. The second article of Goldman Firth Rossi Architects have requested the Planning Commission review whether the multi-family residential building is "character contributing."

The Planning Commission can determine such a property is character contributing if they find it contributes to the defining character of the community as a whole.

The title of "character contributing" allows an owner of an existing legally nonconforming building to apply to convert the building to common interest development units without meeting all zoning code requirements at the time of the conversion.

The conversion of a building to a common interest development would require a public hearing at a future date.

Staff has recommended the building be designated as character contributing, but the Planning Commission will decide at today's meeting.

check to Reiss directly of $1.7 million. Pop's client never received that money.

Though Metro had agreed to settle the case, Reiss delayed the settlement by filing an appeal under a different lawyer's name because he has since been disbarred by the state bar.

"We settled the appeal and the settlement didn't come and we had to get a hold of Metro and figure out why they didn't live up to their settlement," said Pop.

Reiss has been arrested and Metro paid $2.7 million to Pop's client, about $300,000 more than had been originally settled upon.

"We ended up getting interest up to the date of the payment," said Pops, who said the payment had been delayed a year and they had put in extra effort to fight the appeal filed.

IN DESIGN

The Weekly's interview with Design Review Commission Chair Ilene Nathan

By Andrea Aldana

How did you end up in Beverly Hills?

We were living in New Jersey. I was married with two small children and it was a particularly bad winter and my husband [Jeff] was commuting into Manhattan to work. He came home one day and said to me, "We're leaving the east coast. I'm sick of snow and ice and I want to go someplace where it's warm." I was really hesitant because all of our family was on the east coast. I grew up in Atlantic City, New Jersey. I wanted to be in L.A. I did not want to be in San Francisco and we started looking around for houses and schools and we made the decision to move out here.

I didn't know a soul. It was very hard, but you meet people through your kids and I did and we came out. We didn't find a place in Beverly Hills right away. We were sort of culture shocked because our house in New Jersey was on a half an acre of property. We sold it for about $60,000 and when we came out here everything was about $250,000 and needed complete renovation. We found a house in what was called Beverly Glen Park at the time. It was up on the top of Mulholland and we moved into a model home up there. It was horrible. It was on three levels. I had two small children. I thought my kids were going to fall through the open stairs and every time you needed something at the store, you were driving up and down the hill.

Once we moved here, we started looking in Beverly Hills and we found a house that was under construction and we went to see the builder. He was building it for speculation and we really liked the house. We met with the architect and made some amazing changes and nine months later, we moved into this house in Beverly Hills. That was from 1973 to 1982. In 1980, I had another child so we needed more room. We started looking at property and we found a house to buy on another street. We tore down the house and used the same architect who did the first house and we designed the house and built it and have been living there ever since. My children have grown, but we love Beverly Hills.

My husband and I together have built five houses and so I have a lot of experience with building and designing construction and I love the process. I did Team Beverly Hills and then applied and was lucky enough to get on the Design Review Commission.

What attracted you to the Design Review Commission?

I love the whole process of building. I love looking at plans. I love seeing elevations. I have a lot of experience. I have tons of books on homes, designs, and case study houses from the 1950s and 1960s. I just love the whole process and so for me, it was just a natural thing to want to be involved and as I said I love this city and I feel this is a way for me to give something back to the city.

What does the Design Review Commission do specifically?

We basically serve the city council and the city council has given us certain directives and we judge homes that come before us by criteria. There are five criteria. Basically, the design has to be internally compatible. It has to do with the exterior of the house. It includes the exterior finishes and the shapes of the windows. In other words if they say, this house is a Spanish house, elements of the house on the exterior are supposed to fit that style. We're very concerned with bulk and mass. We want the home to minimize bulk and mass, so we don't want it to loom over the street. We want it to fit in with the scale of the neighborhood and it has to enhance the appearance of the neighborhood -- not stand out like a sore thumb. And then we're concerned with the privacy of the neighbors on both sides of the house. If a house is being designed and has big windows on one side looking into the next house, we're very concerned about that. We just want to be sure that the new house integrates into the neighborhood in that it harmonizes between the old and the new. When we look at a house, we don't make anything personal about it. We have these five criteria and they really push our opinions as to the house. Either a new project or a remodel, they're all judged by these criteria. And we have lots of different styles that come before us: contemporary, Spanish, and Mediterranean. [When] a project comes before us, we're what they call track [two]. Track one is if [a property owner] has a licensed architect and a pure style of architecture. Track two is if it's not a pure style of architecture and/or it doesn't have a licensed architect.

Do the criteria apply to every house in the city?

The Design Review Commission at present only sees projects south of Wilshire between Olympic, maybe a little south of Olympic, to Sunset Boulevard. In some areas, it's not a straight line. It sort of widens around parts of Lexington, but I believe and our commissioners believe that the Design Review Commission should have purview over the entire city because we don't feel it's fair for the people in the area we do have now to be subject to our guidelines and our criteria, but the people who live north of Sunset who are not within our purview have free reign to do whatever. We think all residents of the city should be treated equally. We feel that we should have purview over those areas. Hillsides are a different issue and right now, we're not looking at the hillsides but we do feel that we should have the areas north of sunset. My understanding is that the present mayor [John Mirisch] believes we should have that purview. We had a situation come up where we had purview of one side of the street, but not the other and the houses were pretty much facing each other. The way the boundary lines are drawn, it just ended up that way. Lexington winds around so we had one side of the street but not the other. I feel and so do most of the commissioners that it's only fair to all the residents that we have purview over all of the flat areas of town. We're hoping that we get that.

It should be consistent [and] these criteria should apply to all. The city is particularly concerned with this bulk and mass issue and so you can't prevent someone that's north of Sunset from building this big looming house next to some very modest Spanish home and the city's concerned about that. We want to keep the integrity of the city. We want everything to blend in. It's an issue for us but I think we've made a difference and I think the projects coming forward since the commission was started have improved a lot and basically eliminated the big box that used to be built here.

When was the commission formed?

I believe it was 2005 or 2006. It was [created] pretty much in response to the big box that was being built. There were too many with no modulation, so it was a flat front with pasted on moldings. Now, we have homes that are more modulated. We have more articulated designs. We try to avoid anything that is over-ornamented and I think we've done a good job. We have a wonderful architect on our commission. He's now vice chair, John Wyka, and he's been terrific.

What are your goals as chair this year?

Mostly to continue reducing bulk and mass in these projects and I'm hoping that we do get purview over the homes that are north of sunset. That's one of my goals and I'm pushing it at every mayor's cabinet meeting trying to drive that home. I'm hoping it's going to happen. I'm very optimistic about it, but we'll see.

The Design Review Commission gives out awards annually to new construction and remodels. What are your personal favorites that you've seen?

I love contemporary homes. We gave an award last year to a contemporary home that was built on the north east corner of Walden and Elevado. It's a very unusual design -- lovely -- and we also gave an award to a big white stucco house with big windows. It's very contemporary also. The neighbors were very wary about the house when it first started but the owner landscaped it so beautifully that it fits in beautifully. It just has a beautiful garden. That was given an award too. I guess I lean toward contemporary because I like the clean look of contemporary but I also admire the pure Spanish houses. We gave an award to a project at 730 North Camden Drive, which is a pure style Spanish home and I know the owner did a lot of research when he was building that house and it shows. It's a beautiful, beautiful style of Spanish architecture.

What style is your home in?

My house is French. It has a big mansard roof but actually we're getting ready to do a façade remodel, so I'll let you know. It's all driven by putting an elevator in the house. We're going to change it to a more contemporary feel so it'll be interesting to see where we're going.

Tell us more about yourself.

I grew up in Atlantic City. I went

"I think if it weren't for the involvement of the community and the people who are interested in serving the city, we wouldn't get this done. There are a lot of things for the city council to be involved with. This way they have commissions that can all report to the city council and they get the job done and they do it beautifully."

to American University [in Washington D.C.] I have three children. Two of them went through the Beverly Hills Unified School District and one went up to the 6th grade in Beverly Hills and then went to Harvard-Westlake. None of them live in Beverly Hills. [Greg] lives in Cheviot [Hills] and is married with a child. He works for an investment firm. [His son] Jonah is 17 months.

I have a daughter [Jennifer] that lives in Montecito. She's got two children. The oldest is Dustin. He's going to be 14 and then Chloe is going to be 11. She and I share a birthday, and my other son John lives in Burbank. John owns a car wash in Burbank and Jennifer is a preschool teacher.

How did you meet your husband?

I met [Jeff] on the boardwalk in Atlantic City. We were introduced by a mutual friend. I was 16 and he was 18 and we've been married 47 years.

You were previously involved in United Hostesses' Charities. Tell us about that.

That charity is no longer around. The United Hostesses' Charities supported two projects. One was for the cardiac laboratory of Cedars-Sinai Medical Center and that was a project that no longer needed supporting and the other project was called the Didi Hirsch Community Mental Health Center. The United Hostesses Charities was in existence since the 1940's. Over the years, the reason for it being dissipated, so they paid off all their pledges and then they folded. There were a lot of dynamic women that were in that group. I served as its president for two years and then about five or seven years after that it basically folded.

Are you involved in other organizations?

I'm involved with the American Committee for the Weizmann's Institute of Science in Israel. They do basic research in Israel. They have a graduate school. They don't treat patients. It is just research in many areas including the environment, medical research, and agriculture. I was [also] on the board of trustees at American University for 12 years, but I resigned from that in about 2001.

What are your plans for when you term out of the commission? Would you like to serve on another commission?

I would, actually. I think that a normal progression would be the Architectural Commission. I'd like to see the commercial side of it so we'll see what happens. I love serving on a commission. I find it very interesting and you come in contact with really bright people. I'm really enjoying it. There aren't that many cities that have these commissions. We have a home in Aspen, Co. There are a lot of Victorian houses in Aspen and they want to preserve those Victorians and so they have a Historic Preservation Commission that oversees any kind of remodeling or additions to those particular homes, which I think is great because it keeps the integrity of this particular area in Aspen. It's called the West End and they have done a great job of not allowing massive houses in that area. They only allow you a certain number of square feet above the ground and everything else has to be basement area. But that's the only commission in that city and I don't know of any other cities that have commissions like these and I think it really enhances the city. Look what's going on with the Beverly Gardens. They're going to redo those and I think it's going to be wonderful. I think if it weren't for the involvement of the community and the people who are interested in serving the city, we wouldn't get this done. There are a lot of things for the city council to be involved with. This way they have commissions that can all report to the city council and they get the job done and they do it beautifully.

Case No. BP142840

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of IRWIN SPIEGEL OSHER aka IRWIN S. OSHER, IRWIN OSHER SPIEGEL, IRWIN O. SPIEGEL

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Nathaniel A. Osher in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Nathaniel A. Osher be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and any codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on August 15, 2013 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 9 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

[AMENDED] ORDER CHARGING JUDGMENT DEBTOR GERSON I. FOX'S, INDIVIDUALLY AND AS TRUSTEE OF THE GERSON AND GERTRUDE FOX FAMILY TRUST DATED JULY 27, 2006, PARTNERSHIP AND MEMBERSHIP INTERESTS TO SATISFY JUDGMENT AND FOR FORECLOSURE SALE

Case No. CV 12-05738-R (PJWx)
[Honorable Manuel L. Real
Courtroom 8]

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
CENTRAL DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

FALLEN STAR, LLC, Plaintiff,
v.

STAR NEWS BUILDING, LP, a California limited partnership; STAR NEWS BUILDING LLC, a California limited liability company; MICHAEL KAMEN, an individual; GERSON I. FOX, an individual; and ALL OTHERS, KNOWN OR UNKNOWN CLAIMING ANY LEGAL OR EQUITABLE RIGHT, TITLE, ESTATE, LIEN OR INTEREST IN OR TO THE PROPERTY DESCRIBED IN THE COMPLAINT ADVERSE TO PLAINTIFF'S TITLE, OR ANY CLOUD ON PLAINTIFF'S TITLE THERETO; and DOES 1 through 100, Inclusive, Defendants.

Plaintiff/Judgment Creditor Fallen Star, LLC's ("Judgment Creditor") Motion For Order Charging Judgment Debtor Gerson I. Fox's ("Judgment Debtor"), individually and as trustee of the Gerson and Gertrude Fox Family Trust dated July 27, 2006 (the "Revocable Trust"), Partnership And Membership Interests To Satisfy Judgment And For Foreclosure Sale ("Motion") came on regularly for hearing on June 3, 2013, before the Honorable Manuel L. Real, Judge Presiding, in Department 8 of the above-entitled court, with appearances by Ronald Richards on behalf of Judgment Creditor and William Slaughter on behalf of Judgment Debtor.

The Court having considered all papers and evidence filed in support of and in opposition to the Motion, all matters subject to judicial notice, having received argument of counsel, and good cause appearing, finds as follows: Pursuant to California Corporations Code, sections 16504 and 17302, a plaintiff may request the Court to enter a charging order against a judgment debtor's personal property interest in a partnership or limited liability company. This Motion is proper as it is brought pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 69(a)(1) and the relevant California Code of Civil Procedure, section 708.310. Here, Judgment Creditor has requested the Court make two separate orders. First, a charging order levying execution of the money judgment in the amount of $15,054,970.35[1], the entire amount of which remains unsatisfied, against Judgment Debtor's partnership and limited liability company interests. Second, an order permitting Judgment Creditor to foreclose upon those interests.

Where, as here, a valid judgment remains unsatisfied, the Court may issue a charging order on a defendant's various corporate, partnership, and limited liability interests. Notably, the issuance of a charging order is not dependent upon approval by other partners or members of the respective businesses. Hellman v. Anderson, 233 Cal. App.3d 840 (1991).

In this case, Judgment Creditor has adequately demonstrated that the judgment remains unsatisfied and, therefore, the Court believes a charging order is appropriate with respect to each of the partnership and limited liability company interests listed by Judgment Creditor in the Declaration of Ronald Richards attached to the Motion. A second issue the Court must decide is whether foreclosure on Judgment Debtor's now-charged interests is appropriate. Subsequent to issuing a charging order, the Court may, at any time, order a foreclosure on the interests. (Cal. Corp. Code, §§ 16504, 17302; see also Hellman, 233 Cal.App.3d at 848-50.) There appears to be some split of authority in the California courts as to whether prior approval of the other partners/members of the partnership or limited liability company is required before the Court may order a foreclosure. Compare Hellman, 233 Cal.App.3d 840 with Crocker National Bank v. Perroton, 208 Cal.App.3d 1 (1989). After reviewing the cases and relevant statutes, the Court believes the better approach is that taken by the appellate court in Hellman. Under Hellman, no prior approval or consent of the other partners or members is necessary before ordering foreclosure on a charging order.

However, to provide recourse to those other partners or members in cases where there are objections to the sale of a judgment debtor's interest, courts are instructed to consider whether the sale will unduly interfere with the business of the partnership or limited liability company. Of course, in order to consider whether the business of the partnership or limited liability company will be unduly interfered with, the Court must be presented with evidence on the issue. The burden of producing such evidence lies with the judgment debtor and other partnership partners or limited liability company members. Hellman, 233 Cal. App.3d at 652-53.

Because there does appear to be a split of authority, and because the Court has followed the Hellman decision which shifts the burden of proof to the Judgment Debtor to show that the foreclosure sale will unduly interfere with the business of the partnership or limited liability company, the Court found that in the interest of fairness and equity Judgment Creditor shall be merited to make an offer of proof within 10 days of the hearing on the Motion, on or before June 13, 2013, to address any undue interference that will be created by a foreclosure on the charged partnership and limited liability company interests. In default thereof, the Court held it would issue an order authorizing the foreclosure of the charging order on Judgment Debtor's partnership and limited liability company interests.

Judgment Debtor has not presented any offer of proof at all of any claimed undue interference that will be created by a foreclosure on the charged partnership and limited liability company interests.

For the foregoing reasons, Judgment Creditor's Motion is granted.

3. (a) The sale shall occur at or in front of the premises located at 9255 Doheny Road, West Hollywood, California 90069, or at a suitable location selected by the Judgment Creditor, appointed agent, or trustee in the Central District of California.

(c) The Judgment Creditor, appointed agent, or trustee shall serve written notice of public sale by personal delivery, federal express ground, or registered or certified mail at their last known addresses, on the Judgment Debtor, on each of the charged partnerships and limited liability companies, via their agent for service of process or trustee, and other persons who the Judgment Creditor, appointed agent, or trustee has reasonable cause to believe, after diligent inquiry, have a substantial interest in the sale property.

(d) The Judgment Creditor, appointed agent, or trustee shall attempt to sell all of the charged property as a single lot in order to avoid unnecessary expense and resources.
(e) The Judgment Creditor, appointed agent, or trustee may postpone the sale from time to time by continuing the required posting or publication of notice until the date to which the sale is postponed, and appending, at the foot of each such notice, the following: "The above sale is postponed until the ____ day of _____, 2013, at _____ o'clock __.M., _____, Judgment Creditor, by _____, Attorney for the Judgment Creditor, dated _____."

(f) A bidder at the sale, other than Judgment Creditor, appointed agent, or trustee on a credit bid, may be required by the Judgment Creditor, appointed agent, or trustee to make a cash deposit of as much as 20% of the sale price proposed before the bid is accepted.

(g) Judgment Creditor, appointed agent, or trustee shall be permitted to credit bid at the foreclosure sale for the charged property up to the amount of the Judgment.

(h) If the terms of the sale are not complied with by the successful bidder, the Judgment Creditor, appointed agent, or trustee shall proceed to sell the charged property again on the same day if there is sufficient time. If there is insufficient time, the Judgment Creditor, appointed agent, or trustee shall schedule and notice a subsequent sale of the charged property as provided for herein.

(i) If the charged property is sold pursuant hereto and the successful bidder complies with the terms of the sale, the Judgment Creditor, appointed agent, or trustee shall execute and deliver all documents necessary to transfer to the successful bidder, without warranty, all the rights, titles, interests, and claims of the Judgment Debtor in the charged property. In addition to any other documents necessary to effect said transfer, such documentary transfer of ownership shall take the form similar to the document attached hereto as Exhibit "A."

(j) Upon completion of the foreclosure sale, the Judgment Creditor shall report to the Court the outcome of the sale and if any credits are due on the Judgment.

(k) If the successful bidder dies before execution and delivery of the documents needed to transfer ownership, the Judgment Creditor, appointed agent, or trustee shall execute and deliver them to the successful bidder's estate. Such delivery to the estate shall have the same effect as if accomplished during the lifetime of the purchaser.

(l) The purchaser of the charged property shall be deemed to be an innocent purchaser without notice if the purchaser would have been considered an innocent purchaser without notice had the sale been made voluntarily and in person by the Judgment Debtor.

(m) A successful bidder at the foreclosure sale who fails to comply with the terms of the sale shall forfeit to the Judgment Creditor the cash deposit or, at the election of the Judgment Creditor, shall be liable to the Judgment Creditor, on a subsequent sale of the charged property, for all net losses incurred by the Judgment Creditor as a result of such failure.

(n) The Judgment Creditor, appointed agent, or trustee may conduct the foreclosure sale pursuant to the provisions of California Commercial Code, sections 9612 to 9617, as a secured creditor of the Judgment Debtor's charged partnership and membership interests in the above referenced entities in paragraph 1(a) through 1(l).

(o) The Judgment Creditor, appointed agent, or trustee, is hereby ordered to complete the transfer document in a form similar to that attached hereto as Exhibit "A" upon the completion of the foreclosure sale, and execute the transfer document and note the sales price and any credit to the Judgment Debtor after the costs of the sale are deducted. Upon receipt by the purchaser at the time of the foreclosure sale of the transfer document, this Court hereby orders the title of any interests transferred without impairment, further order of the Court, or any additional consent by any party including the entity in which the Judgment Debtor's interest was foreclosed upon.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
