Two days left to file for Goldberg and Hall

Incumbent Board of Education members Brian Goldberg and Lewis Hall have yet to file papers for the November 3rd Board election with the deadline looming Friday.

Though Board President Goldberg has told the Beverly Hills Courier that he intends to run for re-election, he had not filed as of Wednesday noon. Hall did not return an email from the Weekly which inquired whether he plans to run.

If a declaration of candidacy for an incumbent is not filed by 5:00 pm Friday, the declaration period will be extended to August 12 for candidates other than the incumbents.

Incumbent Noah Margo has already filed.

North Crescent Drive to be closed for two weeks in November

The 400 block of North Crescent Drive will be closed from November 1 to November 15 for the Wallis Annenberg Center's fundraising gala event on

The Wallis will be collaborating with the American Friends of the Israel Philharmonic Orchestra to host a "Duet Gala" for 1,000 guests. The event includes dinner and a concert; the former will take place inside a large tent that will be erected on North Crescent Drive, adjacent to City Hall.

"The last time, it seemed it took them two-to-three extra days to disassemble it-there was no sense of urgency," said Pioneer Hardware owner Jeff Tilem.

Tilem's store, located on 315 North Crescent Drive, experienced a drop in customers the last time the street was closed.

"I hope the City takes into consider-ation the changed traffic patterns," Tilem said. "I'm really concerned about the traffic flow and the congestion; being that Crescent Drive will be blocked, motor-ists will go to Canon [Drive] and Beverly [Drive] in an attempt to travel north to get beyond the two Santa Monica Boulevards and in the past, all those arteries have been jammed because motorists are in a hurry and there's no courtesy."

In a July 28th letter to Mayor Julian Gold, the Wallis' Managing Director Tania Camargo wrote that the fundraising event is a "major component" of the orga-nization's 2015-16 season and represents 13 percent of the earned revenue for the fiscal year. Camargo also mentioned that the "event timeline may shift."

Although the Wallis has agreed to accommodate the production at no cost for the rental, crew fees will total $10,000 for a three-day period, from January 12 to 14.

The Board of Education approved the amount at their meeting last month.

Board honors outgoing COC members

At their July 28th meeting, the Board of Education presented a certificate of appreciation to outgoing Citizens' Oversight Committee members Joe Safier, Woody Clark, Shirley Zaragoza and Steve Hendry. Hendry was absent from the meeting.

Upon leaving, Clark was Chair of the committee, Safier chaired the Audit sub-committee and Zaragoza sat on the Public Relations subcommittee. The three have served on the COC since 2009.

"I think the reason why we worked so hard is because we take a lot of pride in where we live and what we can provide the students that we have and the future students that we [will] have," Zaragoza said.

ATE: August 13, 2015

TIME: LOCATION: 1:30 PM, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard

City Council Chambers Beverly Hills City Hall 455 North Rexford Drive Beverly Hills, CA 90210

The Planning Commission of the City of Beverly Hills, at a REGULAR meeting on Thursday, August 13, 2015, will hold a public hearing beginning at 1:30 PM, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard to consider the following:

PROJECT DESCRIPTION

The proposed project involves the construction of a single-family residence on a currently vacant lot at 1184-1193 Loma Linda Drive in the Hillside Area of the City. The residence would include two stories and a basement, have a total floor area of approximately 19,515 square feet, and have a height of 28 feet. The project would also include pools, a cantilevered deck, retaining walls, and water features. The proposed project also includes a lot line adjustment of the property line that separates 1184 Loma Linda Drive and 1117 Sutton Way, which would result in a net transfer of 900 square feet from 1184 Loma Linda Drive to 1117 Sutton Way. The project would also include amending the City's Streets Master Plan to vacate portions of Loma Linda Drive and dedication of a new vehicle turnaround to replace the portion of the street proposed for vacation. Approval of the project requires approval of the following entitlements:

- Hillside R-1 Permit to allow cumulative floor area in excess of 15,000 square feet, and for export of earth material in excess of 3,000 cubic yards (approximately 5,374 cubic yards of earth material are proposed to be exported);
- Amendment of the City's Streets Master Plan for a street vacation and street dedication;
- Tree Removal Permit to remove 1 protected tree; and
- Lot Line Adjustment

ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEW

This project is being assessed in accordance with the authority and criteria contained in the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), the State CEQA Guidelines, and the environmental regulations of the City. The City prepared an Initial Study to determine the proposed project's potential impact on the environment. After reviewing the Initial Study, the City has determined that this project may have a significant effect on the environment, but by implementing certain mitigation measures, the project's potentially significant effects could be reduced to less than significant levels. Accordingly, a Mitigated Negative Declaration (MND) was prepared. The MND was circulated for a 20-day public review period, from October 1, 2014 to October 20, 2014. During the public review period, a public hearing was held on October 9, 2014 regarding the draft MND, and written and verbal comments concerning the document were submitted. Comments were also submitted directly to staff during the comment period. Comments and responses are outlined in the Response to Comments section of the final draft of the MND.

The case file on this project, which includes the plans, applications, and related environmental review documents, is available for public review at the Community Development Department, 455 North Rexford Drive, Beverly Hills, CA 90210. ### BHUSD spends 66% of General Fund on Special Ed program

The Beverly Hills Unified School District spends approximately 66 percent of its General Fund on its Special Education program, ranking fifth on a list published by the Los Angeles County Office of Education (LACOE). The BHUSD serves approximately 4.040 students.

Larger districts like Las Virgenes Unified, which serves 11,100 students, and Glendale Unified, which serves 27,000 students, rank lower on the list.

With 18,000 students, Pasadena Unified is more than quadruple the size of the BHUSD, but ranks 14th on the list.

"For students with special needs, [providing access to the common core] means providing services in the least restrictive environment," said BHUSD Special Education Executive Director James Albanese in a statement. "The district provides small class size and professional intervention services to all of the students in the district."

Council recognizes Fingold for installing greywater system

At the City Council Study Session on Tuesday, longtime Beverly Hills resident Sol Fingold received a Step-Up Award for installing a greywater system more than 17 years ago.

In a greywater system, the wastewater from laundry machines, showers, bathtubs and lavatory sinks is captured, filtered and disinfected and used for landscape irrigation.

The City first learned about Fingold's greywater system from a letter to the editor in Beverly Hills Weekly.

Brenda Potter on the Fine Art Commission By Mina Riazi

How did you become a Fine Art Commissioner?

You have to go through the application process the City posts when there's an opening and I applied. Then, you go in for an interview, which [involves] the two City Council liaisons to the Fine Art Commission and the Fine Art Chair and Vice Chair. You go through the interview and then they make their selection. I was selected six years ago; I am in my last year of a seven-year term. My late husband and I started collecting art in the early 90s. I've had a huge interest in art. Being a citizen of Beverly Hills, I think it's a good thing to volunteer and be involved in the City. Also, for me, it was a way to learn more about how the City functions, but I also felt that my art background, in terms of collecting, would be quite useful on the Commission.

You have been collecting art for nearly 30 years. Tell us about that.

I actually have a Bachelor of Science degree in nursing; I'm a retired nurse. But all of the electives that I took in college were always art history. And my late husband started collecting intaglio prints back when he was in law school. He always had a huge interest in art. And then we got married and we met friends of ours who were artists—one of my best friends, Rita McBride, had just graduated from [California Institute of the Arts]. She's a protégé of John Baldessari and we started buying her work. My late husband grew up in South Africa with William Kentridge, [who is] quite a well-known artist now, and we started buying his work because my late husband knew him quite well and I probably have one of the largest private collections of his work. The more art you see, you just get very involved and the collection takes on a life of its own. I don't buy nearly as much now, but I do as much looking, which is almost as fun. You have to keep current.

Do you have a favorite piece?

I would say my favorite piece right now is a Robert Gober sculpture and it's an ear with an axe draped over it from his latest show at Matthew Marks [Gallery]. It's quite a remarkable sculpture and at this point in time it's my favorite, but you know, your favorites change. I've been pretty enamored with that for about a year now. Besides that, I am a big fan of William Kentridge. I am beyond happy that the City is going to be acquiring his large outdoor sculpture, World on its Hind Legs. I have a particular drawing of his that is actually also one of my favorites. But the sculpture will be an amazing addition for the City. [Kentridge] is an international artist and we're just so fortunate to able to

What are some of the projects the Commission is currently working on?

We've acquired a Carol Bove [sculpture], Io, and that has just finished at the fabricator and her fabricator is actually here in California so we're very close to installing that. We have a Joan Brown obelisk that is just ready to be installed by the library police department and it will of course be restored and put there. The Kentridge is happening. And of course restoring [Hymn of Life: Tulips by Yayoi Kusama] and putting permanent fencing around it. As you've probably noticed on Santa Monica Boulevard, the green, temporary fencing is less than ideal. So we have gotten fencing designers involved and right now, we're at the point where the City can put the contract out to bid. Then we have a contract with an art restorer, who will be restoring the piece; that's something that we've kind of worked on in the last year or two, getting this contract with the restorer so we have the art on an annual maintenance schedule, which is really important with outdoor sculptures, you can't just let it sit there. Rather than wait until something gets into a horrible state, we're now trying to have every piece looked at every year and kept in very good condition—which is, I think, the best thing to do. It protects the value of the pieces and keeps them looking

Why is the process of installing a protective barrier around the Hymn of Life: Tulips sculpture at Beverly Gardens Park taking so long?

For one thing, there are two commissions that get involved with this. Because it's in a park, the Recreation & Parks Commission has to weigh in on it. One of the Fine Art Commission's mandates is to protect the art. So any time you get two commissions involved, it's going to take longer. It probably has been a year, but we've proposed a number of solutions that Recreation & Parks didn't really like. And that held us up a little bit. Now that we've gone with the fencing and they agree, it's taken longer than it should to get these proposals in. You can only yell at them so much to get it done. The City now has to put [the contract] out to bid. I understand Commission [Alan] Kaye's frustration, but being newer to the Commission, what he doesn't understand is the City has processes in place, and things don't happen quickly, which can be a negative, but it can also be a positive, because by the time you get to the point of making a decision, you've done all your research. You have everything in place. I understand that. frustration completely, but I think everything we've done, we've done as quickly as we can. And all we can do is keep moving forward, but it is complex when two commissions get involved.

What are some of your goals as Chair?

I'm Chair for a year, so I would say my goals right now are to see the William Kentridge acquisition to fruition; we just got the final approval from City Council at their

[July 21st] study session. That will be one of my main goals-to get that installed while I'm still Chair. We also have a Woods Davy piece coming to Coldwater [Canyon Park], we have the Carol Bove and we have the Joan Brown. Right now, getting those four things in place is a priority. Once you have the piece, finding a location takes a while, too. My next real priority is getting the fencing around the [Hymn of Life: Tulips sculpture] and restoring that. That's an absolute priorityit has to happen. The temporary fencing is an eyesore and we all know that. This is a hard thing to say, but [the artist, Yayoi Kusama,] is insane. She is psychiatrically insane; she has lived in an institution for quite a while, and she put "Rather than wait until herself in that institution. She has a major psychiatric diagnosis, so having any contact with her does not happen. She has her studio and then her gallery and that's who we would end up dealing with, but nobody really deals with her, other than a couple of people in her studio, who she's had forever. She's a genius but she is also insane. But it doesn't deny her talent. Our goal is to preserve the [Hymn of Life: Tulips sculpture], get it fixed and put the fence around it.

In her issue #752

interview with the Weekly, former Fine Art Commission Chair Sandy Pressman said, "When I look at a piece of art, it resonates, whether I like it or I don't like it. It gives me an opportunity to engage and that's what I'm hoping the Fine Art Commission achieves with the programs that we offer to the City."

What do you think the Commission contributes to the City?

I think art enhances any city. I think it enhances anybody's life; it promotes conversation, it promotes dialogue, it makes > you think. Again, whether you like something or you hate it, it makes you have dialogue. Art makes your surroundings more beautiful; it's wonderful having a sculpture outside. It adds value to the City, and I think it's something that the citizens should be very proud of, I mean, they have this very wonderful collection of art in the City. It can also be used as an edu-

Tell us about your family.

I was born in Wisconsin and I went to college in Michigan. I have one sister, Claire Alger, who lives back in Wisconsin with my parents. I'm a widow; my husband, Michael Sandler, passed away of pancreatic cancer seven years ago at the age of 53. We have no children. He was very involved in the arts; he was a trustee at [the Museum of Contemporary Art, Los Angeles]. He was vice chair the year before he got sick, and once he got diagnosed with cancer, he stepped down from being vice chair and was just a trustee until he died. I'm quite involved in the Hammer Museum it's one of my favorites. The Hammer Museum has now gone to free admission, which was due to a gift of myself and Erika Glazer. I'm very proud of that: it's a gift to the community and it's getting more people into the museum and making art accessible to everybody. For me, it was a winwin. I would like to see all museums free because people go more often.

What public art piece are you most proud of obtaining #### for the City?

I'm very fond of the [Endless V sculpture by Jaume] Plensa, with all the different alphabet letters. It's a very inclusive piece. I also find that it's a piece a lot of people react to in a positive way. Right now, that's one of my favorites.

Myra Lurie on the Health & Safety CommissionBy Mina Riazi

So, is there life after elected office?

Absolutely. There have been some wonderful opportunities to be involved and I've really enjoyed all of them. After leaving the Board of Education, I became involved in a number of organizations in our community and it's been a very gratifying time. Currently, I'm serving as the Chair of the Health & Safety Commission, which I feel very privileged to be a part of, because we do a lot of work that is educating our community about different issues of health and safety and well-being. At the Commission this year, we have had the chance to honor other organizations and other individuals that contribute to the health and safety of our citizens and our city by reinstating the Health & Safety Award. Once a month, we take turns-there are five commissioners on the Commission-selecting different honorees and this began this year; I think we probably did our sixth one [last] week. We've had such terrific organizations that we've been able to highlight, including an organization [last] week that brings therapy dogs into the hospital at Cedars-[Sinai]. We've also highlighted a special Parkinson's patients dance class and the Maple Counseling Center and various other people such as Factor's Famous Deli, who has also been a very supportive community partner in many ways for a lot of organizations. So our Health & Safety Awards have been a wonderful way of engaging with community partners who may not otherwise have exposure.

You served on the Board of Education for two terms, from 2003 to 2011. Do you feel like that experience prepared you for a position on the Health & Safety Commission?

Yes, I do think so. I think that it was very helpful in a number of ways. Just having the experience of conducting meetings and collaborating with my colleagues and being able to work productively and collaboratively with our staff is, in many ways, akin to what I did for the Board of Education. We have excellent commissioners who all bring their various strengths and their experiences and their forms of expertise.

Your Commission discussed immunizations and vaccinations in February, focusing on the fact that 10% of students in the district are not vaccinated. What is your response to opponents of SB 277, which became #### law in June?

We designated this as one of our areas of focus even prior to that time. When I first became Chair of the Commission, I designated this as one of my areas of focus and that was probably in 2014. We were very supportive of SB 277. We met with our City Council in a liaison session and encouraged them to make a formalized support of that bill which they happily did. We were very gratified to see that it passed through the legislature and was signed by the governor. As a Commission, we have also focused on immunizations just in general, because the one that receives all the attention, of course, is the childhood immunization rate, which was very low-so low that it created this outbreak by depleting the herd immunity. But there are a number of other immunizations that people should know about and ask their doctors about, including immunization for seniors, such as pneumonia and shingles. There is immunization for adolescents for HPV, and there's also the need for adults to reimmunize themselves for some of these childhood diseases as well. So we're trying to bring attention to this and encourage people to read these studies and inform themselves.

What projects is the Commission currently working on?

One of the newer areas that we're going to try to emphasize would be the area of brain health and mindfulness. We've enhanced our website with the talents of the City's staff members; there are links to guided meditations and different kinds of data that will inform people about this area of health. Traditionally, we've been very interested in disaster preparation, earthquake safety, and, as we've already discussed, vaccinations. We were very instrumental in helping to revise the no-smoking ordinance in Beverly Hills and adding to it the part that now regards vaping. I was proud that our Commission had suggested additions to the ordinance so that vaping would be treated similarly to smoking. Vaping has become very popular, especially among kids, and this is something that we found very concerning because although it's not smoking, it does carry the possibility of some serious health consequences. This is something that we did last year, but I'm proud of the fact that our Commission worked so closely together to suggest amendments to our City's no-smoking ordinance, so that vaping was included along with smoking.

How did you get affiliated with Temple Emanuel's Albert Einstein Academy?

I am a member of Temple Emanuel's Board of Directors and I serve as the Vice President of Education. Completely by coincidence, I met the founder of the Albert Einstein Academy [Rabbi

Mark Blazer] at a bar mitzvah. And Rabbi Blazer was officiating at the bar mitzvah that I had attended and we struck up a conversation and I learned a little more about his schools, which are very highly regarded and present a very progressive STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts and Math) program. The curriculum emphasizes those areas and it also emphasizes world heritage language instruction starting from kindergarten. In this particular instance, I believe that this academy will teach Mandarin Chinese as well as Hebrew. So I was impressed by what I knew about the school, and I knew a student who had gone there, and I knew from personal experience with my friend that this was a very good school, and it turned out that Rabbi Blazer indicated that he would be open to opening more schools if he could find a place to put them. As a member of the Temple Emanuel Board of Directors, I was aware of the fact that unfortunately, our Academy Day School, which once had been a robust school with over 300 kids, had recently dwindled down in enrollment to the point where it was no longer a viable school and it was going to close. And I thought to myself, my goodness, what an [incredible] opportunity if Albert Einstein could use our school building and we could have wonderful tenants that provided a progressive, transformational education to children and giving children from all over a public education that they may not be able to have otherwise. The school allows children from anywhere; they don't have to be Beverly Hills students. As a matter of fact, I'm very proud of what Beverly Hills offers in the K-5, but many schools in the area don't have those opportunities. So I thought that would be a terrific match: the Temple and the Albert Einstein Academy. I want to publicly thank the [BHUSD] Board of Education for supporting the idea and supporting the synagogue in this endeavor.

Why do you think there was initial opposition from the Board of Education to approve it?

I don't think there was that much opposition, I think there were more questions. I really, truly believe that our Board of Education was doing its due diligence to make sure that there was nothing in the structuring of the charter school that would jeopardize or interfere with Beverly Hills in anyway. Once all the Board members and the administration informed themselves and really saw how this was going to work, we had a 5-0 vote in favor of supporting it. This is a unique situation where the [BHUSD] is a basicaid district, which means there is no negative impact financially to Beverly Hills

Do you enjoy being a Commissioner more than you enjoy being on the Board?

I would say that my service on the Board was something that was important to me and I did my very best. My service on the Commission is equally important and I am very much enjoying the positive work environment and the collegiality of my fellow commissioners as well as the excellent City staff.

Want to tell us who you're supporting in the Board election?

Not at the moment. I will follow this because it's an important election and anybody who is selfless enough to want to serve deserves all of our respect, but I am not going to make any public endorsements at this time until I have a better idea of everybody who is running.

Tell us about your family.

I'm blessed to have a wonderful family. My husband, David [Goldman], is a Beverly Hills native; he went through all the Beverly Hills schools and was president of the student body. I have two sons who went to the Beverly Hills schools. My younger son, Zach [Goldman], did not go all the way through but my older son, Max [Goldman], went through all the Beverly Hills schools. Max is a graduate of Yale University and he's an attorney who specializes in civil rights and disability law. I'm equally proud of my son Zach, who went to Oxford University for his master's degree in film. He has most currently been a producer/editor for the National Football League. They're both in their twenties and they both attended El Rodeo. Zach is now on his way off to live in England, where he's going to get an MBA. Max is based in Los Angeles. My husband's family has actually had a legacy of civic involvement for many decades.

You have a few more months left as Chair. What would you like to accomplish before your term ends?

I would like to continue to do the work that we've been doing. At this point, I would like to especially emphasize the mindfulness, which is something that we haven't had the chance to delve into.

At their Study Session on Tuesday, the City Council continued a long-standing discussion about bringing a dog park to the City, expressing general support for heightened community outreach efforts.

The Council gave staff direction to move forward with the project, but instructed that they return with recommendations from the Recreation and Parks Commission on design and operations.

Some speakers at the Study Session advocated for a dog park at Roxbury Park, which the Southwest Homeowners have opposed in the past.

The Council conceptually approved the construction of a dog park for the southeast intersection of Foothill Road and Alden Drive last May. The rectangular project site is approximately 160 feet by 130 feet, with an area of 21,000 square feet.

The City-owned site is currently being leased by West Coast Arborists, a company that provides professional tree maintenance and management services for municipalities and public agencies throughout California, Arizona and Nevada.

The Beverly Hills Small Animal Hospital and the City's Department of Public Works building neighbor the property; the site is bordered by the City's Vehicle and Facility Maintenance property to the south and a commercial building across Alden Drive to the north.

"From my perspective, I think that everything is clear in the [Mitigated Negative Declaration] draft, I think we just need to hear the comments before we move forward on that," said Councilmember Willie Brien. "I think we ought to have some outreach in terms of the general design parameters and guidelines of things that are going to go on in the parks."

During a meeting with the City, representatives from nearby synagogues—Young Israel of North Beverly Hills, Magen David, West Coast Torah Center and Chabad of North Beverly Hills— requested that the dog park not operate during the hours of their services and during Jewish High Holy days.

"It does not sound, at the moment, like we've got the synagogues in a comfortable space with this," Mayor Julian Gold said.

According to the staff report, the synagogues expressed concern for the safety of their worshippers and the potential for injury to occur as a result of interactions between "aggressive dogs and their congregants," many of whom walk to temple.

Liability costs are one of the largest hurdles keeping small cities and counties from being able to afford dog parks.

Assemblymember Mike Gatto (D-Glendale) addressed this hindrance with AB 265, which was signed into law August 2013.

As mentioned in the bill's fact sheet, AB 265 "provides explicit protection for cities, counties and special district from civil liability for any injures to a pet or person inflicted by a dog at a dog park."

A separately noticed public meeting will be held in the future to consider adoption of the draft Mitigated Negative Declaration (MND). The comment period for the MND will close on August 20.

"This has been a very rigorous process [and] it has attempted to incorporate the entire community, so I'm hoping that soon we will be in a position—after feedback from [the Recreation and Parks Commission]—that we're able to say, 'Yes, we're going to move forward with this," said Vice Mayor John Mirisch.
