"Black Future Project Protests for Equity in Los Angeles Schools" [Issue #1087]

Black Future Project came to Beverly Hills to protest education inequality in regards to the BHUSD.

They claimed that our schools were unfair to people of color and that we do not allow enough minorities into our schools based on money and privilege. They falsely mentioned that Beverly Hills spent fifteen million dollars to fight Metro because we did not want minorities to have access to our schools and our city.

Black Future Project also claims that our city hoards wealth through an application process that only allows residents, children of BHHS graduates who do not live in Beverly Hills and children of city employees to attend schools in Beverly Hills, thus keeping the "elite" and money here.

This organization thinks and talks of Beverly Hills wanting to be separate from the LAUSD and Los Angeles in general because we are, well, Beverly Hills. While Beverly Hills is not a part of LA, we have never intentionally separated ourselves by wealth or anything else from LA or anyone.

Also, I was at the protest and the Black Future Project had these and other facts and numbers all wrong. In fact, they were not even close to being even somewhat accurate or truthful. This organization is disorganized and filled with anger.

I am all for equality and fairness, but lies and unlawful demonstrations are not the way to address issues when it comes to education. Also, I want to thank the Beverly Hills Police Department for an outstanding job in dealing with the protesters.

BHUSD Board of Education Election Gets More Candidates

Construction Manager Mary Wells filed papers to run for the November 3rd BHUSD Board of Education election Monday.

Mary Wells

Donna Tryfman

Frank Chechel and County Public Defender Donna Tryfman pulled papers last week, but only Tryfman has filed as of press time. Computer Scientist Robin Rowe, who previously ran for the City Council, pulled papers on July 14 but has not filed them as of press time. Board member Noah Margo filed papers earlier this month.

The board will have three seats open in the upcoming election, with Board members Isabel Hacker, Mel Spitz and Margo ending their terms in December. Spitz said he will not be running for re-election.

The filing period is from July 13 to August 7. If one or more of the incumbent board members do not file papers to run for election, the filing period will be extended. See lavote.net for more information.

Anti-Mask Protesters Demonstrate at Mayor's Doorstep

A group of protesters gathered in front of Mayor Lester Friedman's home Saturday to criticize the City of Beverly Hills' face-mask ordinance, BHUSD school closures and more.

The main group of protesters rallied at Beverly Gardens Park, with many of them carrying American flags. A petition to recall Gov. Gavin Newsom was shared throughout the crowd, according to a video filmed by one of the protesters and uploaded to Youtube.

Mayor Lester Friedman, addressing protesters outside his home.

Protesters mainly criticized government officials' responses to the coronavirus, such as the requirement to wear face masks in public and mandatory business closures throughout the city.

Approximately 10 protesters later demonstrated in front of Friedman's home and used bullhorns before he stepped outside to address the crowd.

"Open the schools and open all businesses, and no more mask mandates," one protester said. "We're sovereign bodies, we can make our own choices."

Friedman spoke with the demonstrators and answered some of their questions regarding the city's response to the pandemic. He later distributed face masks to the crowd.

BHPD Public Information Officer Max Subin said that no arrests were made while protesters were speaking with the mayor. He said they were in front of the mayor's home for a little more than an hour.

Protesters at Beverly High Demand Equitable Education

A group of protesters gathered in front of Beverly High last Thursday to demand equitable access to educational funding in schools throughout Los Angeles County.

Black Future Project, the organizers of the protest, posted on social media to explain why it chose Beverly Hills as the location for its demonstration.

"Beverly Hills, having historically separated themselves from the City of Los Angeles in an act of deliberate wealth hoarding, is an iconic representation of the systems of oppression we strive to fight against and dismantle," the Black Future Project's organizers posted.

Approximately 75 protesters met in front of Beverly High and later marched along Santa Monica Boulevard, according to NBC Los Angeles.

They demanded schools within LA County have equal access to educational funding regardless of location and Beverly Hills dismantle its curfew prohibiting protests in residential streets.

In a list of guidelines posted on social media, the Black Future Project told protesters to not use lasers, not start fires and not throw things at Beverly Hills police officers.

The group also suggested protesters bring items including goggles, helmets, knee and elbow pads, umbrellas, earbuds and milk. These are items social activists have typically recommended online to avoid the adverse effects of tear gas and rubber bullets.

Councilmember John Mirisch later addressed the protests on Facebook, stating that it is difficult to sympathize with or trust a group which deliberately misrepresents both history and the essence of a community.

"Beverly Hills did not 'historically separate themselves from the City of Los Angeles in an act of deliberate wealth hoarding,'" Mirisch said.

"Beverly Hills was never a part of Los Angeles."

Planning Commission Approves Development Plan Review for Wilshire Blvd Building

The Planning Commission approved a Development Plan Review for a property located on Wilshire Boulevard last Thursday.

Goggles 8633, LLC, the project applicant, applied for a Development Plan Review to allow for the construction of a three-story building with rooftop use and a Minor Accommodation to allow it to improve the setback area on the property. Commissioners approved it with a 5-0 vote, with conditions which included rooftop activities must be limited to 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The property is located at 8633 Wilshire Boulevard and is currently a one-story building and has a surface parking lot, according to the city staff report.

According to the city staff report, city staff concluded that the project is consistent with commercial development in the area and most commercial buildings in the area are three stories or less.

The proposed building would be 45 feet in height, have an outdoor terrace and a rooftop structure that extends the building height to 60 feet at its highest point. The first floor would be designated as an office or retail space, while the second and third floors would be designated as office spaces.

Planning Commission Approves HIP for Summit Drive Home

The Planning Commission approved a Historic Incentive Permit for a home on Summit Drive last Thursday.

The commission originally considered a HIP and a Tree Removal Permit for the home located on 1050 Summit Drive in its June 25 meeting.

1050 Summit Drive

1050 Summit Drive, LLC had applied for a HIP to allow waivers and deviations from certain development standards and a Tree Removal Permit to remove a heritage tree on its property.

Commissioners had originally expressed concerns regarding the proposed heritage tree removal and the use of a white canvas material on the proposed front gate.

Since the June 25 meeting, the applicant revised its plans to include keeping the heritage tree, propose adding a curb to surround the tree and use a white metal panel for the front yard.

The front yard is proposed to be a total of 2,737 square feet, according to a city staff report.

Commissioners voted 5-0 to approve, under the condition that it shall not become effective until the owner of the project site met certain conditions set by the commission.

CBOC Committee Report of the Measure E Bond Building Fund Year

The Citizens' Bond Oversight Committee provided its eleventh annual report on the $334 million general obligation Measure E bond initiative passed in November 2008. This report covers the 2018-2019 fiscal year in the period from July 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019.

This report highlights many of policy and programmatic issues addressed by the CBOC. During the 2018-2019 fiscal year, the CBOC met seven times. The CBOC's Audit Committee reviewed the district's program bond fund expenditure reports and reported its findings at the bimonthly meetings. The district completed the following required efforts:

- Financial Audit – Annual, performed by Moss, Levy & Hartzheim LLP

- Performance Audit – Annual, completed by Moss Adams LLP

All audits were performed under the guidelines of Proposition 39, as well as generally accepted auditing standards.

CBOC Comments

Measure E funds have been paid to fund the cost of litigation opposing the proposed Metropolitan Transportation Authority subway tunnel under Beverly High. The total amount spent from the inception of the bond measure relating to MTA litigation, $18,326,000, representing 8.14% of the total expenditures of $225,075,000. The District filed a Federal lawsuit on January 29, 2018 asserting that adjustments to the proposed subway tunnel should be made. On May 18, 2020, a District Court judge ruled in Metro's favor which ended nearly eight years of litigation.

The CBOC is encouraged that Team Concept Development Services has stabilized the district's construction program. The modernization of buildings B1, B2, B3 and B4 at Beverly High and the first phase of construction at El Rodeo School are proceeding. The utilization of the lease-leaseback and guaranteed maximum contracts recommended by TCDS will allow better cost control and BOE oversight.

The CBOC recognizes that many of the significant findings from past performance audits have been resolved or partially addressed. The district is encouraged to continue addressing issues related to management and controls.

Matt Wunderlich Bikes from Boston to Beverly Hills

By Ani Gasparyan

Beverly High Class of 2008 alumnus Matt Wunderlich is biking from Boston to Beverly Hills, in what is anticipated to be a 10-12 week trip during the quarantine. As of the Weekly's interview with Wunderlich, he had biked for eight days.

What have you been up to during the pandemic?

I just finished a master's degree in Mechanical Engineering at Boston University and I had an internship, but they got rid of all the interns. I was just sitting at home with not much to do and the job market kind of sucks, so that's pretty much the reason I'm on this bike trip.

[My internship] was at a company that made buildings more energy efficient in Boston. I'd been interning with them since October.

Why did you decide you wanted to bike from Boston to Beverly Hills?

I had a lot of free time that I didn't have to give any excuses for. It was the kind of thing where – I could be sitting at home for three months and not find a job, might as well bike across the county for three months. It was the right time of year, because it's summer. Also the idea that, if I ever have this amount of time off in a row I would probably be allowed to go somewhere else. But the fact that Americans are kind of trapped in America right now, means that I can't be biking across Croatia. So instead, I'm biking across Kansas.

Where are you right now?

I'm in Niagara Falls.

Your father, Vice Mayor Robert Wunderlich, is also known to be an avid biker. Is biking a passion of yours?

I like biking, this is not my first extended bike trip. I've done it before. For example, I taught English in Vietnam for three years. During that time, I biked the length of Vietnam as a part of a charity ride. That was 1,250 miles, so not nearly as far as what this is probably going to end up being.

How many miles will the trip from Boston to LA be?

A bit over 4,000.

How are you planning the logistics of this process? For instance, where you sleep at night.

It's pretty much day by day. I know the general direction I'm going in. But the specifics are day by day, because there's too many things that could happen like weather [and] bike problems. Planning more than a few days out in advance is just silly.

[The planning is] is just basically looking about 70 [to] 80 miles away from where I am and see if there's any campsites. If not, see if there's any cheap motels, Airbnbs or see if there's anybody I know that I can stay with. I'm happy to stay in people's backyards if they're uncomfortable with the coronavirus. [Also seeing] if there's any food that will be for sale, about when I think it will be lunchtime and stuff like that.

How did you prepare for this trip?

There really wasn't much to do, because I've been on trips like this before. I had most of the stuff that I needed. I brought my bike to the shop to make sure there were no problems with it. I never had a rack for the front of the bike before, I only had a rack for the back of the bike. I got the things I needed so I could carry stuff on the front as well. Most of my longer bike trips, I never planned to camp because they were in Vietnam or in Cuba. It was much cheaper to stay places there, so I might as well stay in an actual bed. But here, there's a bit more stuff that I need to carry because I'm camping.

What were some challenges you're facing along the way?

It's humid right now in the northeast – it's definitely sweaty. The past three days, I've had a pretty bad headwind. That's been annoying, because normally going on a bike ride from home you might get a headwind there but you get to cruise on the way back. But here, you're headed in one direction so you have the headwind all day. I kind of knew that would happen, because people say the winds generally go east in America and I found that to be true.

You mentioned that you have done bike trips in Vietnam and Cuba. What has been your longest bike trip so far?

The longest one was Vietnam, which was 1,250 miles. I also circumvented, I went along the outside of Taiwan. That one was 1,100 kilometers. Those were the longest. Last summer, I actually bicycled from Montreal to Boston – but that was only a week or so.

Would you say Boston is more bike-friendly than LA?

Without any hesitation. If anyone says that LA is more bike-friendly than Boston, they would have to be insane. It's sad because on paper, LA could be more bike-friendly than Boston. LA has weather that on paper, is more suitable for biking. In Boston, it rains, snows, has winter [and] it actually gets cold. But in LA, you could ride a bike in a t-shirt and shorts every day of the year. I think much of the LA area is flatter – I mean yes, there's the hills of Beverly Hills but a lot of the area is pretty flat. You think a lot of people in LA are health conscious and biking would kind of go with that, but no.

Boston has way better infrastructure for biking and with that, it has way more people biking. It's not a difficult thing to understand, that if you want people to bike you need to make them feel safe biking. You can't just expect the weather to do the work for you. There is pent-up demand for people who'd like to get around on a bike in LA, I can only assume. But when they don't feel safe doing so, they get around in a car because that is what our politicians and society has made pretty much the only safe and comfortable way to get around in much of America. It's not that Americans have something hardwired in their blood that makes them destined to have to get in the car to go everywhere. That's how we built our environment.

You mentioned earlier that you recently received your Master's Degree in Mechanical Engineering. Tell us about that and how being a biker has motivated your interest in the field.

I'm very interested in infrastructure and the things that make the world work. The things I say I'm interested in are infrastructure, transportation [and] energy. Engineers obviously play a big part in those kinds of things. When you're biking everywhere – it's easier to think that the built environment is just that because it is. But it's not, these were all decisions that were made at some point and some time that this is how we're going to make this thing. When you're biking along, you definitely feel like you can pay attention to these things. If you're going down the highway at 80 mph, it's a lot harder to notice the infrastructure around you than when you're going on it around the city at 10 [to] 15 mph.

"I had a lot of free time that I didn't have to give any excuses for. It was the kind of thing where – I could be sitting at home for three months and not find a job, might as well bike across the county for three months"

That's one of the things I actually like about biking – you get a lot less tunnel vision. In a car – in theory – you're looking forward [and] paying attention to the road. It's harder to be aware of the environment around you, but biking slows you down a little. Which lets you be more aware of the environment around you. But I should note, it slows you down but it doesn't necessarily slow you on your way towards your destination. Cars have a lot of speeding along at 50 mph, then sitting in bumper to bumper traffic. But the bike is just cruising along at 15 mph the whole time. You get to park right in front of your destination, instead of driving around for 20 minutes looking for parking. Especially in Boston, it's almost always faster to bike somewhere than drive there. I imagine that would often be true in LA for a lot of the shorter journeys that people make, that by the time they find parking they could've just biked there.

How do you feel about your trip so far?

I've had no problems so far, other than that headwind. Things are going well, I know I have a long journey ahead of me. I'm not naive to that fact. I'm kind of just focusing on taking it day by day. I've already biked across Massachusetts and I've already biked across New York state. New York state was nice, I followed the Erie Canal. My legs definitely feel like I've liked about 500 miles or so, but it doesn't mean they're in pain or anything so that's good. I'm definitely feeling a bit tired.

Opinion: Beverly Hills Needs More Police

On Friday June 26, in the early evening, a group of approximately 80 protesters assembled in and around Rexford Drive and Santa Monica Boulevard. A small group of BHPD briefly encountered them. Shortly thereafter, the police left the scene. Then the so-called protesters morphed into the mob and marched north into the residential neighborhood on Rexford Drive.

With the aid of bullhorns, the mob, transitioned into an unlawful assembly and terrorized residents on the 500 block of Rexford Drive by uttering outrageous unspeakable epithets ranging from the profane to the absolute disgusting. They attempted to defile the sanctity of the residents' homes with threats of violence and Marxist blasphemy that the homes on the 500 block of Rexford Drive did not belong to our residents but to them. This illegal, egregious, uncivilized, irreverent, contemptuous mob action continued through the 500 block and into the beginning of the 600 block still on north Rexford Drive. The police clamped down on the mob half way up the 600 block and arrested 24 of those who engaged in the unlawful assembly.

A serious question arose regarding why the police did not immediately stop the mob march north on Rexford. I was informed of this event by fellow residents who witnessed some of this mob action. I thought that the most informative individuals to explain what had happened would be to interview our interim police chief, the inimitable Dominick Rivetti in the presence of our distinguished City Manager George Chavez. The following occurred in the 4th floor conference room inside City Hall just last week. As prelude to writing anything regarding this incident, I wanted to insure that the chief be given a fair opportunity to explain what had transpired. I had not met Chief Rivetti before but knew of him as a no nonsense, hands on, profoundly experienced, well-intentioned, high integrity, trustworthy individual.

Our head-to-head engagement was very much a Q&A format wherein I sought answers as to why the mob's unlawful assembly wasn't cut-off before the mob crossed Carmelita Drive smack into the 600 block of Rexford Drive.

Our encounter was direct, penetrating, sometimes unnerving, bordering on the contentious but always respectful and professional.

Chief Rivetti had been on the job here in Beverly Hills for only a few weeks prior to the instant drama. He made it quite clear that the reason the mob was not stopped until it was approximately half way up the 600 block of Rexford was that he had lacked the necessary police personnel to quell the mob.

During the disturbance, Chief Rivetti was in close proximity to the mob action stationed in the Command Mobile Center with others on his staff. Recognizing the outrageousness of the mob behavior, Chief Rivetti ordered and amassed sufficient police personnel to take charge of the extraordinary illegality.

Without question, Chief Rivetti took complete responsibility for the entire police response including its initial stumbling inaction. Before anyone is ill-judged, understand that the chief shares the view that this shameless mob intrusion of our residential community will never happen again.

In my judgment, Chief Rivetti was let down by the senior staff, some of whom were put in place undeservedly and thoughtlessly by former Police Chief Sandra Spagnoli. Senior staff should have had the residential neighborhood covered with sufficient uniformed police ready to respond. Instead, they left Chief Rivetti and our fellow residents to suffer the threatening indignities and violence of the mob.

A word about the character and very nature of Chief Rivetti. He has served as Chief of the San Fernando Police Department, and Chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the LA County District Attorney's Office specializing in bringing to justice corrupt public officials. He has spent 50 years in the justice system.

Presently, since May 30, Chief Rivetti has been on the job day and night committed to keeping our community safe. His contract with the city requires that he perform 32 hours a week. The present mob misconduct demands he work around the clock. He does just that. He has not ever put in for overtime!

As a fellow resident for over 40 years, I rest much easier knowing that Chief Rivetti is in charge. We both know from experience that evil must be confronted and defeated.

Early in my 52 year career dealing with these justice system challenges, I experienced evil in its most violent and aggressive form. Upon graduation from college and law school at Berkeley, I worked for many years as an assistant D.A. in the office of legendary DA of N.Y. County – Manhattan – Frank S. Hogan. While there, I served as Bureau Chief of the Criminal Courts, ran the Homicide Bureau and was in charge of the training of the legal staff. Also, I tried to verdict a couple hundred cases, the most heinous of which was the assassination of two N.Y. City Police Officers Waverly Jones and Joseph Piagentini by self-proclaimed members of the alleged Black Liberation Army. My background and experience are laid out in my 32 books.

"Give Chief Rivetti the tools to do the job and he will get it done and keep us all safe"

The City Council beware, if you aren't already. Stop your search for a new permanent Police Chief – the best we will ever have is here – his name is Dominick Rivetti. Chief Rivetti understands well the ever enlightening moral persuasion: Success is not final; failure is not fatal; and that true courageous and outstanding character compel the individual to continue to pursue justice.

Take aways: We need more cops! Yes, we are presently on the high side of such employment per capita. Even though we have an indigenous population of approximately 32,000 with a daytime visiting population of a few hundred thousand, we are an important, significant destination locale that makes us a potential mob target. The 140 sworn officers presently on board are simply not enough. Give Chief Rivetti the tools to do the job; he will get it done and keep us all safe.

Robert K. Tanenbaum was a City Councilmember from 1986 to 1994. He served as Mayor of Beverly Hills for two terms.
