Jimmy Delshad Sworn in as Beverly Hills Mayor

Mayor Jimmy Delshad and Councilmember Nancy Krasne

Jimmy Delshad was officially sworn in as Beverly Hills mayor during Tuesday's installation ceremony at the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Barry Brucker was installed as vice mayor.

Delshad said he will face different challenges during his second mayoral term under the global financial recession, as the city must deal with "trying economic constraints" that require "more creativity and stamina than ever before."

"Beverly Hills is not immune to the dramatic effects of the recession, and we can't ever afford to rest on our laurels, and hope it will not affect us," Delshad said after being sworn in by CNN's Larry King. "My focus during this term will be to enhance the world-class reputation for service that Beverly Hills enjoys."

First elected to the city council in 2003, Delshad said he will build on the success of Beverly Hills' "Smart City" initiatives to find innovative ways to deliver top-notch service.

"From sprinklers to parking meters, traffic lights to water meters, we have launched new technologies to make us more efficient, more green and smarter," Delshad said.

This year, Delshad said, will be a banner year for celebrating, promoting and elevating the city's brand, and "Celebrate Beverly Hills" festivities will begin on a "grand scale" Sept. 2, the date of which spells out the famed ZIP code, 90210.

"Maintaining a well-respected brand is not to be taken lightly," Delshad said. "It can make or break an individual, a company and even a city."

Delshad said he will also focus on making Beverly Hills a "friendly city," and will explore creating award programs to showcase local businesses and city officials "who exemplify the friendly spirit of Beverly Hills."

"What I have learned from my years of service to the community is this: That after a long time, people forget what you said or even what you did," Delshad said. "But they never forget how you made them feel."

Delshad's installation makes him the highest-ranking Iranian-American elected official nationwide. Delshad said the installation was the first time King had sworn in any mayor into office, to which King responded, "Who knew it would be an Iranian?" Delshad then traded his handkerchief for King's suspenders.

The ceremony included performances by Beverly High's string quartet and Dr. Manoochehr Sadeghi on the santur. City Clerk Byron Pope sang the national anthem and Farshid Amin sang "God Bless America."

Delshad, who succeeds Nancy Krasne as mayor, first served as mayor in 2007. A Los Angeles area resident for 51 years, Delshad is president of Magbit Education Foundation, a director of The Maple Counseling Center, a director of Sheba Medical Center and an active group leader with Jewish Federation and Ai Pac.

“While my actions were not intended to infringe upon a teacher’s discretion to assign a grade, I now understand that this is exactly what I did.”

Kelly Tabis

As reported in the Weekly [Issue 538], accusations of job performance deficiencies surfaced from high school administrators against the student’s teacher, and were used to defend the grade change from a

‘D’ to a ‘P.’

Tabis wrote that she will be on leave beginning Monday, March 15. She is scheduled to return to the high school Monday, April 12.

“During that time, I will do whatever possible to support our faculty, staff and students,” Tabis wrote. “Please know this is a mistake I will never make again.”

Tabis was on leave from campus, and could not be reached for comment.

Contracts of Principals Guidetti, Warren Not Renewed

The contracts of Beverly High Principal J Guidetti and Beverly Vista Principal Erik Warren will not be renewed for the 2010-11 school year, the Board of Education announced in a report from the closed session meeting last Thursday.

Both principals were released from their positions in a 4-1 vote by board members. Board member Myra Lurie dissented.

El Rodeo Principal Pat Escalante was concurrently promoted to BHUSD’s director of adult education and preschool development during Thursday’s board meeting.

The announcement arrives on the heels of Horace Mann Principal Dr. Dawnalyn Murakawa-Leopard’s promotion to the district’s director of human resources position, currently occupied by Dr. Alex Cherniss.

Erik Warren

“Although we have asked some people to take new positions within the school district, I believe strongly that there are still significant contributions to be made,” said Board President Steven Fenton. “I think there are certain people in our school district that have been in the wrong position, and would be better suited for other positions within the district, positions that are just as significant.”

Guidetti was hired by BHUSD in 2006, having previously served as principals of Calabasas High School and, for one year, of Hamilton High School.

Warren served as assistant principal at Beverly Vista under Irene Stern, who headed Beverly Vista from 1999 to 2006. Warren stepped up as principal of the school after Stern’s resignation. Prior to BHUSD, Warren taught in the Redondo Beach Unified School District.

According to the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing, Guidetti currently holds school counseling, multiple subject teaching and administrative services credentials, while Warren has administrative servicreview of the five school site principals required by the administrators' contracts.

Both Guidetti and Warren must decide whether to accept a credentialed teaching position in the district by June 30.

"We evaluate the principals each and every year," said Board member Brian Goldberg. "We made the best decision as board members based on all the information. It's never an enviable situation in the end. Nobody enjoys letting go of staff. We want the very best personnel in our district, so it's never easy or good to do transitions just for transition's sake. I cannot speak to the community openly and as transparently as I'd like to not because I don't want to but because the law doesn't allow me to."

Both Guidetti and Warren could not be reached for comment.

BHUSD to Begin Negotiations with Superintendent Search Firm

During the Board of Education meeting last Thursday, board members directed staff to negotiate a contract with executive search firm Morris & Berger. The contract will be reviewed by the board at its April 6 meeting.

Morris & Berger has experience with higher education, private schools and nonprofit organizations, including nine of the 10 University of California campuses, USC and Stanford University.

"I feel strongly that we needed to think outside the box, and although Morris & Berger is not a traditional public school, K-12 search firm, they are a top-notch education search firm," said Board President Steven Fenton. "I think their expertise in picking top candidates in all different facets of the educational world will lend itself brilliantly to our needs."

Fenton said although the board is thinking outside the box, Morris & Berger is "still tethered to the education world in a big way."

"We need to conclude negotiations with Morris & Berger, get community input and start the search," said Board member Brian Goldberg. "I'm very excited that we've narrowed the field down and started negotiations, but we don't have the luxury of waiting months and months. The community needs to see movement on this."

Goldberg said he would like to see the board appoint two members to a subcommittee as liaisons to Morris & Berger, preferably Board President Steven Fenton and Board Vice President Lisa Korbatov.

"I will be talking to our superintendent in the next few days about putting this committee together," Fenton said. "It's premature until I have an opportunity to talk to Jerry, but yes, I would like to be very much involved."

Goldberg said he didn't want to keep repeating what has been done in the past.

"We promised the community we'd do things differently, and Morris & Berger has a track record of working with the top private schools," Goldberg said. "I am very interested in thinking outside the box and bringing nontraditional candidates to interview."

Goldberg said Morris & Berger was the only firm to present a plan to bring in a major stakeholder.

"They're the only firm that said they would come out, meet with the community, do initial interviews and wheedle it down to five or six candidates," Goldberg said. "They had a modified, closed search that was doable and made sense so we can maximize the potential

New Modeling Agency Seeks to Employ, Celebrate Senior Citizens

Margaret Lauderdale-Barnes, who is "proudly" in her 60s, wants to empower those over 50, and is looking for mature, sophisticated seniors to join her modeling and talent agency, JustAskkme.

"This company is driven to provide seniors the opportunity to display their photos in an arena that is competitive," Lauderdale-Barnes said. "These seniors delineate sophistication, elegance and assured beauty that the years have accentuated."

Lauderdale-Barnes started the company three years ago after attending her son's concert. Her son, who goes by the stage name Mowie Hypnosis, is the lead dancer for Madonna. Lauderdale-Barnes noticed at the concert many older women in the audience, as well as an older woman in a video.

Her son and daughter, Ja-Sada, who is studying to become an attorney, encouraged her to launch the agency, which now manages a diverse group of clients by finding jobs for them in commercials, movies and videos.

"I see myself as bold and beautiful, and there are many senior citizens with pride and dignity who deserve their chance," said Lauderdale-Barnes, adding that she believes there is a demand. "Agencies may have one mature model and 3,000 young ones.

One of her current clients is a former backup dancer for Sammy Davis, Jr.

A former model herself who will soon receive her master's degree in sociology from Cal State Dominguez Hills, Lauderdale-Barnes said she is fulfilling a dream.

"A lot of us in our age group have unrested dreams," she said. "In our younger years, we put our dreams on hold to take care of our families. But because you postpone, you don't forget. My clients and I are fulfilling a dream."

Lauderdale-Barnes said physical appearance doesn't matter; she is seeking all types of models. Interested people can apply at the Web site, www.justaskkme.com or by fax or mail.

Those accepted will receive a contract, Lauderdale-Barnes' representation and a photo shoot at the company's Los Angeles office with hair, makeup and wardrobe stylists.

Lauderdale-Barnes, who said she would like to see a senior version of Project Runway, is also seeking names of those interested in creating fashion lines for seniors.

The agency is receiving an overwhelming number of calls. An orientation conference will be held at the Marriott Hotel in Marina del Rey. Please call to make your reservations at (310) 538-8903.

BHHS Girls' Basketball Team Loses In State Tournament

Norman boys' volleyball team wins tournament.

By Steven Herbert

Beverly High's hopes of advancing in the CIF State Girls Division II basketball tournament essentially ended in the first quarter of their 80-39 loss at Hanford in a second-round game last Thursday.

The Normans trailed 30-11 at the end of the first quarter as they were outscored 28-4 after taking a 7-2 lead.

"We didn't play very well," Beverly Hills coach John Braddell said. "We struggled against their pressure. We didn't react well to situations that presented themselves."

The Normans "kind of fell apart" after center Chelsea Austin was called for her third foul in the first quarter, Braddell said.

"They play aggressively on defense," Braddell said. "Things are officiated a certain way up there. You have to understand that's going to happen to you and you deal with. We just didn't deal it very well."

The result was "very disappointing," Braddell said.

Beverly Hills trailed 50-23 at halftime and 75-36 entering the fourth quarter.

The Normans committed 28 turnovers to the Bullpups' 13. Beverly Hills was out-rebounded 39-30. The Normans made 13 of 45 shots, 28.9 percent, while Hanford made 31 of 68, 45.6.

Beverly Hills made three of 10 3-point shots, 30 percent, while the Bullpups made six of 25, 24 percent. The Normans made 10 of 19 free throws, 52.6 percent, Hanford 14 of 21, 66.7 percent.

Morgan Mason led Beverly Hills with 10 points. Natalie Moy added nine, Jaina Abdul-Mansour seven, her twin sister Miranda Abdul-Mansour six, Austin four, and Lisa Kliman three. Jaina Abdul-Mansour, Kliman and Moy all made 3-point baskets.

The Normans lost to the Bullpups, 90-65, in a first-round game of the 2009 state tournament.

Hanford lost to Santa Ana Mater Dei, 70-61, in the Southern California Regional semi-final Saturday night.

Baseball

Arcadia Elks Tournament

Beverly Hills 10, El Monte 5

Ben Jones pitched five hitless innings, went two-for-two and scored three runs, helping lead the Normans to the victory in their opener March 5 at La Cienega Park.

The senior right-hander allowed just one runner – on a full-count walk in the third – and struck out five.

"He was throwing his fastball, curveball and change-up for strikes," Beverly Hills coach Vonzie Paysinger said.

Paysinger said he took Jones out after five innings after throwing nearly 80 pitches because he didn't want to put additional stress on his arm.

The Normans scored the first 10 runs.

Beverly Hills combined four hits — Joey Livingston's triple, A.J. Fortier's double and Henry Evans' and Cody Vallez-Norton's singles — and two walks for six runs in the third inning.

The Normans added three runs in the fifth.

Fortier was hit by a pitch leading off the inning. Vallez-Norton, the No. 9 hitter, followed with a double. The next two batters, Jonas Brock and Jones, both singled. Charlie Bennett reached on base on an error by Lions freshman shortstop Antonio Ruiz. Shane Shapiro singled one out later, driving in Jones.

Bennett's one-out double in the first drove in Jones, who walked, with the first run.

El Monte scored two runs in the sixth and three in the seventh off relievers Jay Christen and Ben Sitman-Sommers.

Beverly Hills led in hits, 13-7.

Alhambra 5, Beverly Hills 4

The Normans allowed three runs in the first inning "that they shouldn't have scored," then "played good baseball" March 6 at Alhambra, Paysinger said.

The Moors combined three singles, two errors and a walk for their three first-inning runs.

"We were in the wrong spot in the first inning," Paysinger said.

Alhambra increased its lead to 4-1 in the second. The Moors loaded the bases with one out on leadoff hitter Ryan Pinon's single and back-to-back walks to Jonathan Beltran and Greg Saldate. Pinon scored as Juan Crespo grounded into a force out.

Beverly Hills mounted a two-out rally in the fifth that resulted in two runs. Brock reached on an error by Beltran, the Moors' center fielder, and Jones and Bennett followed with singles.

"In the sixth inning we struggled to throw strikes and they scored another run on us which proved to be the difference in the game," Paysinger said.

The Normans scored in the seventh on back-to-back singles by Brock and Jones and Bennett's ground out, but Shane Shapiro grounded into a force out with runners on first and second to end the game.

Beverly Hills scored in the first as Brock led off with a single, moved to second when Jones was hit by a pitch thrown by Gary Acuna, and scored on Bennett's single.

The Normans led in hits, 6-4.

Bennett, the starter, took the loss, allowing four runs on four hits, striking out two and walking three in five innings.

"We played well," Paysinger said. "We did what we wanted to do."

The Normans are scheduled to play host to Honolulu Kalani today at 3 p.m. at La Cienega Park in an intersectional game, at Norwalk Friday at 3:15 p.m., and play host to Lynwood Firebaugh Tuesday and Sherman Oaks Buckley Wednesday, both in nonleague games at La Cienega Park beginning at 3:15 p.m.

Liberty Christian Tournament

The Normans defeated Irvine Crean Lutheran South, 25-23, in the championship game March 6, winning the title in Jon Ramin's debut as their coach.

"I thought we played really well all together as a team," Ramin said. "Everyone came to play. Our serve receive was really good. We passed the ball really well. Our offense was flowing very smoothly. Defensively, at times we were a little shaky, but for the most part, we played solid.

Beverly Hills finished first in its pool, defeating Liberty Christian, 25-7, 25-14, splitting two games with Huntington Beach Marina, 15-25, 25-20, then defeating Garden Grove Crystal Cathedral, 25-10, 25-17, and Avalon, 25-14, 25-9.

In championship bracket play, the Normans defeated Torrance Pacific Lutheran, 25-20, in the quarterfinals and Capistrano Valley Christian, 25-12, in the semifinals.

Norman senior outside hitters Joseph Hakim and Martin Shapiro junior libero Jason Nik drew praise for their play from Ramin.

El Segundo Vistamar def. Beverly Hills 25-22, 25-20, 25-21

Hakim had 10 kills and Nik 20 digs in a nonleague match at the Swim-Gym March 9.

School Super Out

Anneberg in, quick takes

By Rudy Cole

Although no school board member or the school superintendent will comment, this column has learned that interim Supt. Jerry Gross will leave the district at the end of April and not June 30 as had originally been planned. The June date could have been extended even longer.

Apparently the board voted in closed session this week to end Gross' contract early. The date chosen was the earliest the board could act since his contract required a thirty day notice. Although the vote was secret, it was probably not unanimous. The vote was in closed session.

The action came as the board begins a search for a new school superintendent and following earlier moves to demote or reassign four school principals.

One school parent, who asked not to be named, but who is very active in PTA, called the board personnel decisions "incredible and divisive." At the last board meeting, several other parents strongly protested the wholesale removals of the four.

Gross first came to the district in November, 2008 for a three month interim period while the board began a search process to replace Kari McVeigh, who had suddenly resigned as superintendent. At the end of that period, Gross was asked to accept a longer contract with both he and the board having the option to opt out with a thirty day notice, which the board did this week.

The "reassignment" of the school principals required different actions, but really meant removing them from their current jobs. Under contract requirements, the principals would either have to be given different management positions or allowed the options of accepting class room jobs.

This is the status of the four principals:

High School: J Guidetti, out, but could accept teaching job. (Expected to leave the district.)

Beverly Vista: Erik Warren, out, but could also receive teaching assignment. (Could stay at lower level assignment.)

Horace Mann: Dawnalyn Murakawa-Leopard, "promoted" to director of personnel effective July 1, 2010.

El Rodeo: Pat Escalante, "promoted" to director of adult education and pre-school development. No date yet given.

All of this comes at a time when the district is retaining a search firm to find a "permanent" school superintendent.

Commentary: One of the reasons many of the current board were elected was to "restore" some order in our schools and end the constant changes in the top administration jobs. In recent years, eight school superintendents have come and gone as have countless other administrators. Clearly, some of these comings and goings were in the interest of the district, but now the obvious questions are: Is this board trying to micro-manage and, equally important, why not wait until a new top gun is hired who could make his or her own decisions on administrative positions?

Gross has, by all accounts, walked a careful and highly professional line in attempting to work with a school board that has itself changed direction, goals and policies, and he has done so extremely well. Gross is of one of the most respected school leaders in the state and brought to the district a wealth of experience in administration and curriculum implementation. Having him remain during the selection process could have made for a much smoother transition.

In most districts, lower level positions, including school principals, are the responsibility of the super and seldom the board, although boards make the final, legal call. One of the most controversial changes was in 2006 when Irene Stern was "removed" as principal of Beverly Vista. The then-board took the political flack for this because they felt compelled to support then-school Supt. Jeff Hubbard, who had clashed with Stern. This may have been one of the reasons then-board member Alissa Roston lost her reelection. Ironically, Hubbard left within months to accept a super job in Orange County.

Will this apparent turmoil in the schools impede finding a really qualified and, hopefully, long-term new superintendent? It could. Any really exciting candidate is going to wonder why the district has had so many comings and goings in so many jobs, no matter who serves on the board.

As for finding someone "outside the box," that does include enormous risks. When Los Angeles followed that mantra and selected a highly respected, retired admiral of the U.S. Navy, it proved less than productive. Education process and leadership requires so many learning talents and training experience that simply possessing administration talents is seldom sufficient.

What this district really must have is someone with a vision for change but also a solid resume of demonstrated insights into modern educational programs. We should set the bar high, but in a rational and responsible manner. Whoever is selected should then be given time and support from the whole education community. When that happens, this board should return to making policies and permitting the super to really administer and to actually lead our district.

Note: No school official, or Dr. Gross, were sources for this story. Although I have obvious reservations on recent board votes, the board does have talent and dedication. They need to take a deep breath and slow down precipitous actions.

Beverly Hills has had some pivotal, historic events that impacted our community significantly: The decision to form an independent school district; creating our own police and fire departments; purchasing and preserving the Greystone Mansion and grounds; adopting a city manager form of government, creating a new city hall, library and police station; limitations on height and density and the Will Rogers successful drive to bring us our own post office.

Those who accomplished all of these were the leaders with vision and courage that helped define us as a community. They built great schools, they established outstanding programs for seniors, they made sure we acquired valuable land for parks, and they gave us a city government that has been remarkably free of corruption. The private sector has been no less imaginative: Fred Hayman, the Mahboubis, the Tronsteins, Jerry Magin and others brought us Rodeo Drive.

Now, we will be defined by an incredible new sense of place. At long last we will have a cultural resource that matches our interests in the arts: The Wallis Annenberg Center for the Performing Arts, which broke ground at a magnificent ceremony last week at our historic post office structure.

Ten years in the making and thanks to a great leadership team of civic leaders and professionals, the Center is expected to open in two years.

The most significant contribution to the Center's creation was the generous gift of Wallis Annenberg, for whom the Center is named. However, many others also merit recognition, not only for their generosity, but leadership.

First, the Center was fortunate to have as executive director Lou Moore who came to Beverly Hills following thirty years of experience in not for profit and commercial theatre.

Aside from Annenberg, other million dollars or more contributors were the Goldsmith Family Foundation, Paula Kent Meehan, the David Bohnett Foundation, Burton Green Fund, Betty and Fred Hayman, the Lovelace Family, Janet and former Mayor Maxwell Hillary Salter and the Jamie and Steve Tisch Foundation.

So many people deserve our appreciation but two that will always be remembered is Vicki Reynolds who, as mayor, really pushed the right political buttons that made the acquisition of the post office possible and Bram Goldsmith whose leadership of an incredible board kept the project on tract and on purpose.

Mohr and the board have a vision of a performing arts center that could combine entirely new theatre and more traditional performances. Our Center could energize interest in and greater support of theatre everywhere. The possibilities are very exciting.

The ground breaking ceremony and the history of how this all really happened will be the subject of this column next week, unless something more dramatic happens in our schools, such as privatizing the system. But for now, as others have said more eloquently, this does give Beverly Hills a great new "sense of place."

Quick notes: The Patti Tanenbaum-assisted fundraiser, a Scrabble Tournament/party for "BookEnds Believe in Kids" was a great success.

Winners of the spirited and mostly friendly tournament were Madelyn Murray and Heather De La Vega with a score of 393.

Among competitors and attendees were: former mayor Robert K. Tanenbaum, Assemblyman Mike Feuer, Marcia Hobbs, Eleanor Bartman, Robin Keefe, cofounder of the organization, Thomas Safran, the Burdoff family, Connie and Councilmember Dr. Willie Brien, Commissioner Sandy and former mayor Dr. Charles Aronberg, Michaela Pereira, (KTLA morning show co-anchor who served as emcee, Kevin McIdd (Grey's Anatomy), Howard and Mary Lynn Gottfried, former board president Nooshin Meshkaty and several hundred others. The event was held at The Mark.

The first of a likely chain of an exciting new eating experience, "Crepe Republic" will have its grand opening this Friday at 8516 Third Street at 4 p.m., and readers are invited.

Not your usual Crepe experience, the items are natural, fresh ingredients, very varied from breakfast tastes and juices to crepes suited for luncheons and snacks.

A similar, sister operation in Sacramento opened to really rave reviews, including a major piece in the magazine "Sacramento."

The co-owners are highly entrepreneurial and health conscious chefs and business managers: Yana Bakshevskaya and Leana Aivazian, and they are certainly as attractive as Wolf Puck.

Yes, they have take out and delivery. But come to the opening and if you can spell the co-owners last names from memory, you will receive my personal thanks. For more information: 310.652.7772. Hopefully, their next venue will be in Beverly Hills.

What can you say about Jimmy Delshad's induction as mayor ceremony? It was really, really big as Ed Sullivan might have said. At an earlier press conference, Delshad made a comment that will be remembered: In a message to the people of Iran, Mayor Delshad said: "In a free and democratic society, a free person can rise from obscurity to success and even mayor of Beverly Hills." Good words.

Rudy Cole served for eight years as a member and chair of the city's Recreation & Parks Commission. He was also President of the Greystone Foundation and served on three other city committees. Rudy can be reached at: Rudy@bhweekly.com.

IF YOU BUILD IT, THEY WILL COME

The Weekly's interview with Architectural Commission

Chair Zale Richard Rubins

By Kimberly Cheng

Tell us about yourself.

I was born in Toledo, Ohio and raised in Atlanta and Albany, Georgia. Our family moved out to Los Angeles in 1963 after my high school graduation.

I attended Valley College, University of Arizona and received a B.A. in Graphic Design with a minor in Marketing from California State University, Northridge.

I have been a self-taught commercial photographer for 38 years, specializing in tabletop small product photography, with an emphasis on jewelry and reflective objects. Over the years I have shot all types of product and have had the luxury of working with many high-end product designers including furniture and accessories. I started shooting architectural photography over the past five years and had found it was a true passion on many levels.

Last year I had my first fine art photography showing at the Affaire in the Gardens, and was awarded the Mayor's Purchase Award. My fine art work is a natural extension of both the architectural photography and my extensive skills in digital retouching. Being so well received has motivated me to continue this aspect of my career.

Tell us about your family.

My family has been part of the Beverly Hills community for 14 years this August.

My wonderful wife, Brenda, and I have been married for 23 years. My daughter, Rachel, is married to Josh Goodman and lives in Austin, Texas where they both work for Apple computer.

Our son, Max, is a sophomore at Beverly High. He is a captain on the JV Lacrosse team. He is currently enjoying his first architecture class and participates in the theatre arts program, where we are privileged to photograph the plays for the student shows.

Max is also the family celebrity — one of the rare people who celebrated his Bar Mitzvah twice, once being on national TV at "Hell's Kitchen."

Tell us about the Architectural Commission.

The Architectural Commission serves at the pleasure of the city council. Its purpose is to review new construction and significant changes to commercial and multi-family buildings and signs. Our focus is the outside of the project, that which is visible from the public right of way. We have no jurisdiction over the interior scope of a project.

We are also empowered to advise the city council on matters dealing with historic preservation.

The size and scope of large-scale projects are generally reviewed and defined by the city council or the Planning Commission.

Our input on these projects is to ensure that the Architect uses quality materials and details that compliment the surrounding built environment.

We have seven members on our commission: Barry Bernstein is a developer with an educational background in architecture; James Blakeley is an interior designer; Fran Cohen, our vice chair, is a businesswoman with a background in architecture and infrastructure; Paul Langh is a landscape architect; Walter Meyer is an architect;

Allen Rennett is an attorney.

The descriptions of each member's talents may be brief, but it is difficult not to be effusive about these and the other former commissioners I have had the pleasure to serve with. They are each wonderful people and quite talented in their disciplines. They each bring a skill set to the table that allows us to look at projects with the necessary experience to make decisions, which we think greatly benefits the city. I feel the city and I have been extremely blessed to have these people as members of the Architectural Commission.

It also goes without saying that without the clear guidance and dedication of our staff we would not be effective at all. And especially to Donna Jerex, who manages the city's Urban Design Program, AC & DRC.

What is the commission working on right now?

Our commission is entirely project driven. One of the determinants of course is the economy. In the past we could have had as many as 18 projects per meeting. Presently, with the economic downturn we are averaging around seven items per meeting.

How does the Architectural Commission compare to the Design Review Commission?

The purview of the Architectural Commission is commercial and multi-family buildings (apartments and condominiums). Single-family dwellings are the purview of the Design Review Commission. There is no crossover of responsibilities.

What has been your favorite project to work on since joining the commission?

We have been fortunate to have many wonderful projects come before the commission.

And for totally different reasons I have two current favorites.

There is the 9033 Wilshire project where the architect had a remodel project, which took a rather non-descript building and turned it into what I hope will be a classic for years to come.

The other was a project that was particularly vexing to the commission and city. Yet, it was ultimately satisfying to see the city council support our decision to hold the developer to his word.

It is important for everyone to be aware that when a project is not built to its agreed upon state that the rules are such that the applicant can be required to bring it back to that originally agreed upon state.

How did you get involved with the Architectural Commission?

While I was getting involved more and more with my architectural photography I saw an ad in the Weekly. I answered the ad, feeling that my experience and background would allow me to fill the "Graphic's Chair" on the commission. So with a little chutzpah and a portfolio, I marched myself in and had a successful interview. It also must be said very clearly that the interviewers took a chance on me, and for that, I am eternally grateful.

How does your day job help you as the Architectural Commission chair?

I have found that since I am so visual it helps me cut through a lot of the clutter and see the architect's vision as it is presented. I see color and form easily. Taste is something each of us brings to the table, and my discipline as a graphic designer and photographer allows me the ability to see the overall essence of a design.

While my fellow commissioners all bring a diversity of skills and technical knowledge, I am always pleased at our ability to come to a harmonious decision, even when we disagree.

I am especially grateful to Walter Meyer, an accomplished and respected architect, who has graciously afforded us his additional personal time in helping the commission through the technical aspects.

What style of architecture would you like to see more of?

Diversity, diversity, diversity. As long as it is quality and allows Beverly Hills to make a unique statement. Little boxes all in a row may satisfy some people's need for order.

I want to see buildings of merit and character that will ensure Beverly Hills as a place of beauty, taste and quality.

We are unable to dictate design to the applicant, but I have seen that through our constructive critiques many bland buildings have been greatly improved and we have all benefited from this discourse.

In Allen Rennett's interview as chair last year [Issue 519], he said the commission often has conflicting opinions that can make it confusing for applicants. How do you respond to that?

We cannot dictate to anyone exactly what to design or not to design. We can inspire them to bring a project forward that uses the best of their abilities and conforms to the city codes.

We are fortunate to have a group of commissioners who are generally unanimous in our opinions — but we are in no way monolithic. We are only interested in having a "better face" for Beverly Hills. So when we do not agree, we try to create a motion, which gives the applicant the ability to present us options for a solution. Often times we find that it is this diversity of opinion that brings out a compromise that is better suited to solving the problem at hand.

What are some challenges to working on the Architectural Commission?

One is the reduced budget, which does not allow us bus tours of projects. These were a good way for all of us to look at a project and have the benefit of each others input. To me, personally, the only other challenge is not meeting more often. I love what I do and really like my fellow commissioners.

What are your goals as commission chair?

I would like to see more coordination and better ways to communicate between the Architectural Commission, the Design Review Commission, and the Planning Commission.

It would also be helpful for the Architectural Commission to always see items before the Planning Commission and city council.

I think this would help speed up the process and also create a better ability to inform the applicant before a lot of expense has been made. The Planning Commission and city council would then have our design input before rather than after they see it.

Another goal is to see that the sign code is made more current so it can deal with many of the new trends in signage.

What else are you involved in?

I just graduated from Team Beverly Hills.

I cannot say enough about what a wonderful and informative program that is. My hat is off to city staffers Gisele Grable, Genevieve Row and Chairperson Larry Kohn. They do much to inspire those who wish to serve the city. For anyone who has the desire to participate in city government, you must try to participate in this program. It will really help you grasp what is involved in running this wonderful city.

I have also been involved in photographing the award winners for the Architectural Commission and the Design Review Commission. It is a real honor and privilege for me.

What will the commission work on in the future?

We would like to see changes in the municipal code that will accommodate new technologies and how they affect Beverly Hills. Digital displays, signage, and materials — everything is changing and Beverly Hills needs to meet this challenge with clear-cut rules.

We have the annual awards where we recognize the outstanding architectural works in the city for the last year. These awards are presented before a city council meeting and hopefully are an inspiration to those who wish to bring their projects to the city.

What are your plans after you leave the commission?

As is often said, it is much more satisfying to contribute and serve than to simply take. I would certainly continue to offer my services and myself and become a member of another commission.

We live in a small city; yet, there are so many intricate layers of work, which must be done to keep Beverly Hills unique and successful. I have a great deal of respect for all the people that devote their time and skills to make this happen. For me, it is invigorating and satisfying to partake in our city's march into the future.

This Architectural Commission, as I tell anyone who asks, gives me a great deal of satisfaction and you cannot pay me enough for the joy I derive from being a commissioner.

38-year-old Haim was rushed to the hospital Wednesday, March 10 where he was pronounced dead from an apparent drug overdose, though those close to him have said Haim was preparing for his comeback and was allegedly cleaning up prior to his death.

Newlander, a Beverly High Class of 1988 graduate, said he hadn't seen Haim in about a year and couldn't comment on Haim's alleged prescription medication abuse.

"The thing about Haim is he was such a nice guy and a good friend," Newlander said. "I do think that he was headed for a comeback. I know he was struggling with things. I think he had a lot of talent and a lot left to give us as an actor. It's just sad that he didn't get a chance to have another shot."

According to Ed Winter, the Los Angeles County assistant chief coroner, four bottles of prescription medication were discovered in the Burbank apartment he shared with his cancer-stricken mother. The prescriptions include Valium, Soma, Vicodin, and an antipsychotic medication, reported TMZ.

"I talked to his mom the morning after I heard," Newlander said. "I gave her my condolences. That was really all she had time for."

Haim's mother, Judy, told Access Hollywood last week that she received an early courtesy call from the L.A. County Coroner's Office, telling her that an autopsy found her son had an enlarged heart, and his lungs were filled with water. Though Judy said her son's cause of death was due to pulmonary congestion, Winter said a drug overdose has not been ruled out. He would not confirm whether the four prescription medications were found in Haim's body.

Results from toxicology tests are expected in about six weeks.

"My association with Corey doing 'Lost Boys' was while I was a student at Beverly High," said Newlander, who is currently writing, acting and directing. "I was kind of a minic celebrity at Beverly High for doing this, and that was the time I knew Corey most. It was shooting the film and after that for a year we were hanging out. For me, it was another family I had with the people involved in 'Lost Boys.' So Judy was kind of an aunt to me at that time."

Haim's close friend and "Lost Boys" costar Corey Feldman recently appeared on "Larry King Live" to discuss Haim's death. During the interview, Feldman said Haim was nearly broke, with no money and no car, and was living in a month-to-month rental apartment caring for his mother.

"I had a lot of really great times with Corey," Newlander said. "When I got 'Lost Boys,' it just felt really surreal. I was hanging out with him on the set and the Coreys. It was a really great memory for me."

Los Angeles Marathon To Pass Through Beverly Hills Sunday

The Los Angeles Marathon course will include Beverly Hills for the first time in its 25-year history, with a group of wheelchair competitors entering the city where Santa Monica Boulevard meets Doheny Drive at approximately 7:20 a.m. Sunday, organizers said.

The first group of runners is expected at approximately 7:55 a.m.

The marathon course will continue south on Doheny Drive to Burton Way, then east along Burton Way until it becomes the south portion of Santa Monica Boulevard.

The course will head south at Rodeo Drive to Wilshire Boulevard, then west to Santa Monica Boulevard. The course will continue along Santa Monica Boulevard until the western city limit.

The best places in Beverly Hills to watch the race are on Burton Way, between Foothill Road and Rexford Drive, where a small block party will be held in the median, and Rodeo Drive, between Santa Monica Boulevard and Wilshire Boulevard, organizers said.

Street closures will occur immediately adjacent to the Beverly Hills route from approximately 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. Crossing points will be established on Canon Drive, at Santa Monica Boulevard, for southbound traffic, and Rexford Drive at Burton Way for northbound traffic, organizers said.

A record field of nearly 25,000 is expected for the 26-mile, 385-yard race.

"The marathon is providing a unique opportunity to connect the communities of Los Angeles," Mayor Jimmy Delshad said. "This is a terrific occasion for Beverly Hills to join with our neighbors to celebrate and showcase our vitality, diversity and unique spirit."

BHPD, BHFD Announce Nominees for 2010 American Legion Police Officer, Firefighter of the Year Awards

The Beverly Hills Police Department has nominated Officer Dale Drummond of the patrol bureau for this year's American Legion Police Officer of the Year Award. The city's fire department announced their nomination of Fire Captain Bruce Lessing for the American Legion Firefighter of the Year Award.

Dale Drummond

Drummond has made 23 felony arrested in the past year — including charges for robbery, burglary, narcotics and stolen vehicles — as well as 79 misdemeanor arrested. He also took 41 drunk drivers off the road. Drummond, who has worked for BHPD for less than three years, pulled in the highest overall statistical performance of the patrol bureau. His father, Dale Drummond Sr., was a retired veteran BHPD detective who received numerous awards.

"We are very fortunate to have him as a member of our department and believe he is quite deserving of the 2010 American Legion Police Officer of the Year Award," said Lt. Tony Lee.

Bruce Lessing

Lessing is a 26-year member of BHFD, and has served with distraction in a variety of position and assignments. Prior to coming to BHFD, Lessing worked as a federal firefighter for eight years — four years with the U.S. Forest Service and four years with the Department of Defense. He has a total of 34 years in the fire service. In Beverly Hills, Lessing has served as a firefighter, a shift mechanic, a fire engineer and a suppression fire captain. He currently serves as the deputy fire marshal.

"[Lessing] is a truly deserving individual with a long and distinguished career of public service behind him," said Deputy Fire Chief Mark G. Embrey. "He is well-known in the BHFD as a hard worker, a 'go-to' guy who gets things done, whatever the conditions and whatever effort is necessary."
