“Rudy Cole -- Election thoughts” [Issue #683]

Your Nov. 1 “Election thoughts” column is not only timely, it is informative - especially for those who consider ourselves locals after 10 years or so in town. Your political history of city government in the Weekly is enlightening indeed.

What really resonated was your observation about low voter turnout. Looking at the election figures from past years, I’m disappointed that more of us don’t make it to the polls. But I’m even more distressed that our residents don’t participate as much as they could in day-to-day governance. Every two weeks I review the Council’s synopsis of city commission meetings, and most of those meetings pass with no public comment at all.

As you may recall, I’m supporting safer streets, intersections, and outreach programs to encourage more people who live, visit or shop Beverly Hills to make trips by bicycle. It comports with our environmental sustainability objectives (i.e., as a ‘green city’). But a dispiriting aspect of my advocacy effort is that City Hall simply doesn’t encourage public participation in governance. Elected officials generally don’t make an effort to communicate key policy issues to stakeholders; and our website aged not so gracefully for too long and collected broken links that impeded stakeholder civic discovery. And isn’t that what we want more of?

I was recently reminded to drop you a note after watching Inside Beverly Hills - the half-hour with Mr. Kolin, Ms. Briskman and Dr. Gold. You see, I’m not only a motivated stakeholder; I’m truly interested in local governance. Especially local government that is transparent, that invites involvement and is accountable - the three points that Mr. Kolin made.

Yet my experience with City Hall has been different. For years I’ve complained to staff about the city not noticing meetings online in a timely fashion. I’ve reminded our communications officials (and IT people) about how few posted public documents (like department work plans, agendas, synopses and/or commission minutes) make my work more diffi-

Waxman defeats Bloomfield; Bloom narrowly leads Butler

Henry Waxman

U . S . Representative Henry Waxman (D-Los Angeles) defeated candidate Bill Bloomfield (I-Manhattan Beach) to represent the newly formed 33rd Congressional District. With all precincts reporting, Waxman received 53.72 percent (126,880) of the vote and Bloomfield received 46.28 percent (109,297) of the vote.

As of press time, Santa Monica Mayor Richard Bloom was narrowly ahead of Assemblymember Betsy Butler (D-Marina del Rey) in the 50th district assembly race by 218 votes. Bloom had 50.08 percent of the vote and Butler had 49.92 percent of the vote with all precincts reporting, but not all provisional votes had been counted. Bloom led with 69,280 votes. Butler had 69,062 votes.

Metro's Measure J failed to pass with 64.72 percent of the vote. The measure needed 66.7 percent for approval. The measure would have extended by 30 years the existing one-half cent sales tax that was approved via Measure R in 2008 and currently set to expire in 2039.

Voters approved Proposition 30, the governor's tax plan to help fund public education, with 53.9 percent of yes votes beating rival Proposition 38 that was rejected by 72.3 percent of voters.

The Los Angeles County Registrar-Recorder/County Clerk estimates that 792,658 ballots remain to be processed, after the semi-final Election Night tally. The estimate includes outstanding vote by mail and provisional ballots collected at the polls, as well as Vote by Mail ballots received in the mail by 8 p.m. on Election Day, according to a statement released Wednesday afternoon.

Complete election returns are available at www.lavote.net. See our chart on page 4.

Fifty-three carrier routes proposed to move from Maple Drive Post Office to West Hollywood location

The USPS will not finalize a sale of the Post Office at 325 N. Maple Drive until all aspects of the proposal are approved, according to spokesperson for USPS Rich Maher.

"[The plan] involves several moves, moving West Hollywood [routes] to Bicentennial and Beverly Hills [routes] to West Hollywood," said Maher. "At this point in time, we haven't begun any modifications of any buildings or anything until we get through the process and everything is approved and goes through the appeal periods for different moves."

The USPS announced on Oct. 30 approval of the sale of the Maple Drive location with plans to lease a smaller facility for retail services. The 53 carrier routes that are based at Maple Drive are being proposed to move to a location in West Hollywood at 820 N. San Vicente Boulevard, located 1.3 miles away.

Typically, carrier routes begin in Beverly Hills from 10 a.m. to 10:30 a.m.

"They'll have a mile further to drive," said Maher. "We might have to adjust some routes a little bit to keep them at approximately 8 hour [shifts]."

Maher said that if the additional mile affected any routes, it would probably only affect one or two routes.

Under the proposed plan, modifications will be made to the West Hollywood facility to accommodate the extra routes and 24 carrier routes will move from West Hollywood to the Bicentennial Station Post Office at 7610 Beverly Boulevard, which currently has 53 carrier routes and the capacity for at least 80, according to Maher. The distance between the West Hollywood office and Bicentennial post office is 2.1 miles.

The modifications to the West Hollywood facility will remove retail services from the location. The USPS plans to lease a smaller facility in the West Hollywood area for retail services only.

"There are several things that have to happen here before this becomes a reality," said Maher. "We're not going to sell until we've secured leased facilities and everything has been approved."

Maher said the Beverly Hills location is currently in an appeal period and the West Hollywood location is in a public comment period, which would have to go through approval as well as an appeal period.

The Maple Drive location is on the market to start to develop interest, said Maher.

CBRE has the United States post office national contract. Blake Mirkin, executive Vice President of CBRE, is the listing agent. CBRE would not release the appraised value of the 160,000 square foot building because the building is going up for bid and releasing the value could affect the final price. Commercial realtor Tom Korey said there is not a hard answer to what the building may be worth because the final price on a single-purpose building such as a post office ultimately depends on what the buyer intends to do with the space.

The effort to make Beverly Hills bike-friendly continues

The City Council will consider implementation of a bike rack program during their study session on Tues, Nov. 13. The item was continued from the Oct. 23 meeting

Staff has proposed 33 designated City-initiated bike rack installations, 11 in phase one and 22 in phase two.

The recommendation is to install new or additional racks at City-owned properties such as parks, parking structures and municipal locations, implement City-initiated installations in commercial districts and approve guidelines for a rack on request program for local businesses.

According to Martha Eros, transportation planner, the bike racks are part of a bigger program to introduce new bike facilities to the city. She said after an assessment, the City concluded that additional bike racks in the city are needed.

"We do have approximately 21 [bike racks] in the main triangle but we want to supplement that," she said.

On Aug. 23, the council agreed to move forward with two of five bike routes as part of a City pilot bike program. Members of the community who wish to comment on the City's bike pilot program are invited to Tuesday's evening meeting when the City Council will consider design specifications for the proposed routes. Staff will be presenting formal designs on the two routes.

The proposed routes are a Class II bike lane on the east and westbound travel lanes on Burton Way between N. Crescent Drive and the east City limits; a Class III route with sharrows on the north and southbound travel lanes of North Crescent Drive between Wilshire Boulevard and Park Way; and a Class II bike lane on the north and southbound travel lanes of North Crescent Drive between Park Way and Sunset Boulevard.

A Class II bike lane is a separate lane for bikes in between parked cars and the car travel lanes. A Class III bike route is one shared between bicyclists and cars with sharrows, which are markings on the street.

Nahal Yashar volunteering at a school in Guatemala

Beverly High junior reflects on a summer in Guatemala

Nahal Yashar, a junior at Beverly High spent three weeks this summer in Guatemala as a journalism fellow with the Walking Tree Travel program.

“We need our eyes to be opened and really have an open mind to experience this world because I was so narrow minded when I left for the trip, I didn’t know what to think,” said Yashar.

Yashar had trouble thinking of just one thing she had learned during her trip.

“Leaving Guatemala, [I learned] having money and having all the materialistic things do not make you happy. My father at my home stay said that no matter how much you make or how hard you work, if you’re going to come home to water and food with a good family and good people that surround you, that’s what really matters in your life.”

Every week, Yashar was required to write a short article documenting her experiences. She wrote a longer article reflective of the entire program at the end of the trip.

Yashar said she lived with a Guatemalan family for 10 days. She recalled it was probably the most difficult part of her trip because she did not speak Spanish and found it difficult to communicate with them.

The program included re-painting a Guatemalan school for 10 days. She described the school in the village as falling apart with a bad roof.

Walking Tree Travel is a summer program for teens to participate in service projects in seven countries in Central America, Asia or Africa. Yashar, as a journalism fellow received $500 toward her trip. Yashar estimates the total cost was close to $5,000.

Nahal Yashar knew she wanted to volunteer out of the country, so when a Walking Tree Travel representative presented at Beverly High she signed up and was chosen to be a journalism fellow.

“For a while, I’ve been dying to go out of the country and do something to give back and help,” she said. “Guatemala was always on my destination list, it triggered me I had an instinct to go on that program.”

Yashar said she is now trying to get her articles published.

early voting in Norwalk is because we literally have everything here, all ballot types and all ballot groups,” said Gonzales.

Different ballots are sent to different residents depending on where a resident in L.A. County lives. A registered Democrat in Chatsworth would receive a different ballot than a registered Republican elsewhere, she said.

Early voting has been open since Oct. 9 in Norwalk, said Gonzales. Weekend hours started on Oct. 27 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Total number of early voters as of Sunday, Nov. 4 exceeded 10,000 voters.

Any person who had been in line prior to 4 p.m. was allowed to cast their ballot. Though polls closed at 4 p.m., Gonzales said the last ballot was cast around 7:30 p.m. Sunday night.

Early voting closed at 5 p.m., Monday, Nov. 6.

Final resolutions for local historic landmark designations for eight properties approved by Cultural Heritage Commission

The Cultural Heritage Commission held a special meeting on Tuesday to vote on resolutions to recommend eight properties they had previously approved for landmark designation on Oct. 9 to the City Council.

“When we take action on an item, in order to take formal action, we need a resolution,” said Cultural Heritage Commission Chair Noah Furie.

Furie said though at the last meeting, all properties on consent calendar had been recommended by the commission, the commission decided that changes needed to be made to the resolution to include more details of the process and the criteria and findings made.

“All of the resolutions on the consent calendar were all adopted by the commission recommending that they move forward to the Council," he said.

Seven of the properties appear on the National Register of Historical Places. They are Greystone Mansion, the Beverly Hills Main Post Office, Beverly Wilshire Hotel, Beverly Hills Women's Club, the Virginia Robinson Estate, the Frank Lloyd-Wright-designed Anderton Court shops on Rodeo Drive, and the 1960-built Karasik House on Spalding Drive designed by Frank Lloyd Wright, Jr.

The eighth property is a 1940's built residence at 603 Doheny Road designed by master architect James F. Dickason and was submitted to the CHC by former Mayor Mark Egerman so the property could qualify for the Mills Act.

A resolution was approved to nominate the Doheny Road residence to appear on the Local Register of Historic properties, as well as a resolution to approve a Mills Act contract for the residence.

The Mills Act was passed by the state of California to encourage preservation and rehabilitation of historic properties by offering tax incentives to property owners.

"We're very happy all these are moving forward," said Furie.

The Fox Theater and the Harold Lloyd Estate, two properties that appear on the National Register of Historic Places, have been continued to the commission's January meeting due to more time needed to work on some of the issue related to the properties, said Furie.

The Harold Lloyd Estate had been previously recommended at the Oct. 9 meeting, but was continued to consider concerns raised by the owner, according to the agenda.

Small task force formed to review R1 standards

A small task force comprised of Planning Commission Chair Craig Corman and Vice Chair Brian Rosenstein has been formed in order to possibly review R1 standards for the City.

"The feeling is that it might be a good idea to look at the R1 standards in context of current development of the city," said Corman.

They will be meeting with various groups and representatives over the next couple of months to discuss whether or not it would be a good idea to modify the standards at all.

The City Council has budgeted a consultant for the review, but Corman said the process is in the very beginning stages and no decisions have been made. He said it is unclear whether any changes to the standards will be made at all.

The purpose of the task force is to "take a temperature of the community," he said.

"The task force will investigate it now until the beginning of next year. Nothing is going to happen overnight. It could be six months to a year, if anything gets done," he said.

Corman said one of the things the task force will be looking at is basements. Historically, subterranean basements were cult and dissuade engagement generally. Lest I'm perceived as a crank, I've also suggested ways to invite stakeholders in, and to make visiting beverlyhills.org more rewarding.

All for naught, I'm afraid. After the reliable initial response from staff, follow-up flags. Problems remain. If the council-manager form of government is alive and well, as Mr. Kolin says, the transparency and accountability he champions is somewhat lacking, in my opinion.

And let me add one other observation: from the discussion at the end of your show's episode, it was clear (to me) that your guests see public participation narrowly, perhaps through the lens of Team Beverly Hills. That is, they applaud engaged citizens who sit on our commissions and committees. And these are, to a person, educated, responsible and well-intentioned people. But what of those of us not on the Team? Those who want to participate to make our city better but don't sit at the dais?

Is it that they're simply not invited? One of the missed opportunities I've seen in the past few years is that City Hall hasn't seized the opportunity to make its case to stakeholders on issues that affect them. The city-created parking ballot initiative a few years ago was a disaster, for example. Roxbury redesign tapped into local frustrations without reaching a larger audience. Who's even spoken up about what our library needs to keep pace with surrounding cities? Most residents have checked out, so to speak, and I would like to have heard your guests talk about participation where it matters.

I didn't hear much concern for those folks who aren't showing up or contributing suggestions. That huge silent majority for whom, I suppose, good emergency response and trimmed lawns are sufficient. I don't necessarily see their absence as approval. If my experience is any indication, Beverly Hills residents have checked out for a reason: City Hall's professional staffers don't necessarily welcome the input however well-intentioned or constructive.

My perception is that 'we the people' simply aren't in the chain of command- which from your episode I take to mean we're not the City Manager!

Thanks for opening a window onto City Hall in order to show how local government at least should work. I say, let's not let others - they who may have an agenda - succeed in defining our local government for us.

City votes Yes on J

Other reflections on the election

By Rudy Cole

So, you want to know how Beverly Hills voted in the election? So would we, but despite our ability to measure precise distances to the galaxies, the technology available to the County Registrar of Voters simply is not able to provide final vote figures until hours after the election, including how we voted. (Anyway, past my deadline)

To be fair, the Registrar did efficiently complete the count of absentees and poll votes early Wednesday morning, and tallying the provisional is more difficult – requiring validation of signatures – and doing hand not machine counting.

However, why the first and largest numbers of ballots can't be separated immediately by community is puzzling, as are the unacceptably long lines at the Registrar's office for early voting.

In races on which we could have an impact, the one that is the most hard to predict is the contest between Assemblywoman Betsy Butler and Santa Monica Mayor Richard Bloom in the 50th district.

As of Wednesday morning, only 228 votes separated Bloom, who is leading, from Butler, with each receiving close to 70,000 votes. There could be as many as 5,000 uncounted, late ballots.

Incidentally, provisional is a term used for late arriving absentees, including those delivered to the polling place. It also means challenged or questionable ballots and is the single most contentious arena for recounts.

Interesting how Bloom has survived. When this race began, it seemed likely that the contest would be between the two women candidates: Butler and Torie Osborn, both well funded and with strong endorsements. But Osborn faded in the primary, and Bloom emerged as the underdog contender to a candidate who would have an incumbent designation, even though she had moved into the new district, opting not to run in her own.

Obviously, this "carpet bagger" tag hurt her in the runoff.

The most interesting and probably surprising election was for Congress between incumbent Henry Waxman and Bill Bloomfield. Waxman won, but not by nearly as large a margin as he has in almost every election in decades.

Bloomfield spent mostly his own millions on what people assumed was a quixotic challenge to a popular, entrenched incumbent. Waxman is one of the most powerful members of the Congress and his seniority obviously benefited his district. But that district was changed when new lines were drawn by a citizen panel and the Democratic registration numbers were not all that staggering. Enter Bloomfield.

When he first began running his television spots, it was not even clear what office he was seeking. They were messages for good government, independence and apple pie. The value was increasing his name recognition.

When Bloomfield survived the primary, coming in second and thereby earning a place on the final ballot, his strategy took a dramatic turn. He began TV and mailer attacks on Waxman that began to have an impact.

Bloomfield had also changed his registration from Republican to Independent, and that helped, as did the blizzard of hit pieces.

Waxman has survived, and it was not all that close, but he will clearly be spending more time in his district before the next election. As for Beverly Hills, he has been a good friend to our community.

I do have one Beverly Hills result, and it is really fascinating. Despite all the school board opposition, the well organized anti-J lawn signs, Beverly Hills voted in favor of extending the tax for Metro by a vote of 5,875 Yes and 4,342 No! The school board and many local activists unleashed a campaign against J, which would extend funding for county transportation needs, to make a statement on Metro's plans to tunnel under the high school. Obviously, the community did not listen to the more extreme voices in this discussion.

Although it was very last minute and had no effect on mail-in ballots, and that is close to a majority of votes cast in Beverly Hills, the Beverly Hills Chamber of Commerce made a surprising endorsement of J last week.

It is also important to separate the evaluation and impacts these votes would have on City Council campaigns. The far greater turn out in national elections could explain why voters gave J a nod in our community but not help candidates on the Yes side in the municipal vote where far fewer people go to the polls.

Frankly, and although I oppose tunneling under the high school, the community fell for a distraction that could never have any real impact on the route decision makers. Extending bond money funding under J, even if defeated, would have almost no real effect on route planning. What troubles me is that this was one more effort to distract the community from what the school board is spending on lobbyists and lawyers to fight Metro – and so far without any measurable results. Education money is far too scarce to waste on hopeless efforts.

As for all those people who placed "No on J" lawn signs all over the community, I understand your angst and appreciate your desire to have an effect on the route decision. The same can be said of some school board members who have been swept along in this effort. But there are others who see this as a partisan tool, a chance to hit some local elected officials and, yes, Democratic office holders outside our city, who are backing Metro.

When we repeatedly mount campaigns that lose, when we point to our neighbors as not marching in lock step, we are doing real harm to our efforts to achieve any kind of compromise on tunneling. The "No on J" strategy was a no starter, made us look weak and played into the hands of those who are more interested in dividing than unifying our community.

Clearly, what the decision makers learned is that the voters of Beverly Hills are independent and do not routinely follow emotional appeals, even those made by the Board of Education. Those rationalizing the loss will argue that they won because J did not receive two thirds of the vote locally. True, but as an expression of fairness and reality, the vote by our electorate sent a strong message to the naysayers, including those we believe were very well intentioned.

ELECTION THOUGHTS

You really have to credit Gov. Jerry Brown for conceiving and succeeding on Measure 30, he saved our schools.

It really runs in the family. His father, Gov. Pat Brown, was the political architect who led the state in creating the nation's finest institutions of higher learning – the entire University system. A struggling, second tier college and university system was advanced under Brown's leadership, leading to an incredible growth in new industries, including high tech. Good schools and not just good weather, expanded our economy,

If we are hurting economically, it is in part because we have forgotten our dedication to education, slipping into almost the bottom state ranking of per student spending. Why is our economy down? Place the blame where it belongs, those who fight educational support.

The reelection of President Barack Obama should send a message to both Democratic and Republican members of Congress. Despite his impressive win, the country remains deeply divided and people are distraught over Washington grid-lock.

However, although the president has a clear mandate, his victory did not lead to a return of Democratic leadership to the House. Yes, there were strong wins in the Senate, but the Congress continues to have a big Republican majority. The president needs to reach out, and Republicans need to be there, to restore confidence in our government. In two years, the Congress will really feel how voters handle more failures at compromise.

Credit Gov. Mitt Romney with a gracious and unifying election night concession speech. There is considerable speculation about his being offered a cabinet post, possibly Commerce. Just not likely, but well worth consideration.

The election made a kind of history that received almost no attention, but speaks well for our country. This is the very first campaign where no nominee of either party for president or vice president was a Protestant, White Male!

Secretary of State Hillary Clinton will exit soon, she is really exhausted, and John Kerry will be her likely replacement. Israel has few better friends, next to Joe Biden.

Speaking of religious tolerance, and although it was not the first time the cry of Rome, Rum and Rebellion was used against a Democrat, the anti-Catholic hysteria in the 1928 presidential election reached a low level of bigotry.

Anti-Catholics were charging that if New York Governor Al Smith won the election, the Vatican would run Washington.

At Smith's press conference when he conceded defeat, a reporter asked him if he had had been in touch with the Pope. "Yes, I have," Smith said. "I told him to unpack."

Final thoughts: We live in the greatest nation in the world, in part because of our diversity. It's time to lower the level of our anger, to find reasons to agree and not divide, and enjoy the security and freedoms we all enjoy. So many hysterical voices of gloom and doom, from all sides, diminish us as a people. Our own elected officials and City staff must be doing something right – we remain solvent, safe and open – a city government that is the envy of municipalities everywhere.

More on the election next week, and the delayed Local Hero section.

He also said it could be worth looking at whether larger houses in the central area with up to eight to 12 rooms should have more off-street parking depending on the number of rooms in the houses.

Corman said that these are few examples and the more they meet with people in various areas, the more they will learn what issues are important to people. They will also be meeting with members of the Design Review Commission.

"Every few years, the City looks at what's going on in the development of the city," he said. "We don't know what, if anything is going to come of this."

Charitable Solicitations Commission releases list of organizations that fail to fulfill City's requirement

While most organizations that hold fundraising events in the city comply with the city of Beverly Hill's requirement to donate at least half of its proceeds back to the organization, the following list of organizations have repeatedly failed to fulfill that requirement:

Advertising Industry Emergency Fund, Beverly Hills Bar Association, California Society of CPAs, Los Angeles County Police Canine Association, Jewish Big Brothers Big Sisters, Janie Bradford Hal

Scholarship Fund Inc., and Operation Africa

The city also requires that organizations submit financial statements within 60 days of the issued permit's expiration. The City listed six organizations that have not submitted information within 90 days of the issued permit's expiration:

American Friends for Meir Panim - Care for Israel, Children's Cancer Research Fund, GLASS Youth & Family Services, Maternal Fetal Care International: MFICI, United States Mission, and Entrepreneur Mentor Society

Horace Mann teacher hosts mock election for K-5 school on Election Day

Social Studies teacher David Foldvary and his eighth grade students hosted a mock election for K-5 students at Horace Mann.

Foldvary's class was set up with polling booths and K-5 students received "I Voted" stickers after voting for a presidential candidate via picture ballots of either President Barack Obama and Republican candidate Mitt Romney.

"It's an opportunity for eighth graders who study U.S. History to answer questions for Kindergarteners," said Foldvary.

If the younger students wanted to know what a particular candidate believed in, the eighth graders would be able to answer based on projects they've focused on in class, he said.

While participation in the mock election is optional, all Horace Mann teachers had signed up to participate.

During the 2008 election, Foldvary was in his second year at Horace Mann and proposed to bring the mock election to the school. He had 100 percent participation from K-5 classes in both 2008 and 2012. Foldvary is now in his sixth year at Horace Mann.

"One of my earliest recollections of participating in civics was at Beverly Vista when I was in fourth grade and then I remember going into what was then the Multi-purpose room and we voted for president. It was something that was very memorable for me and something that I wanted to institute at Horace Mann," said Foldvary.

On Oct. 30, 237 Horace Mann students also participated in a statewide mock election where they were able to vote for president and the California ballot measures. Sixty percent of students voted for Obama, while 34 percent voted for Romney. Dianne Feinstein, candidate for U.S. Senate, won 77 percent of the votes. Proposition 30, the Governor's tax measure for schools, narrowly beat rival measure Proposition 38. Proposition 34, regarding outlawing the death penalty, narrowly passed with 50.6 percent yes votes and 49.3 percent no votes.

The results at Horace Mann typically reflected the victors at the statewide level for middle school students. All middle school social studies classes participated in the MyVote CA mock election on Oct. 30. For the statewide election, Obama and Feinstein were both victors, though by slightly smaller margins. Proposition 30 also beat 38 at a state level, but the state results on the death penalty proposition differed from Horace Mann with 50.1 percent voting no on the death penalty proposition and 49.8 percent voting yes.

Foldvary said it's an opportunity to show his students that their vote is most likely reflective of how the adult population will vote on Election Day. Once the results were posted, he compared the school results with the state results and will later compare his student's votes to how adults voted on Election Day.

Choicelunch bigger impact to general fund than anticipated

The Board of Education agreed to move forward with Choicelunch as the lunch provider at K-8 schools at a special meeting on Wed. Oct. 31. At the Oct. 23 Board of Education meeting, Lewis Hall made a motion to approve Choicelunch as a new

ALL IN THE FAMILY

The Weekly's Interview with Charitable Solicitations Commission Chair Jan Block

By Andrea Aldana

So, you were recently named chair of the Charitable Solicitations Commission?

Last month was my first as chair and I was chair 5 years ago. So this is my second go-around and I will be coming off the commission as of February. In fact, there will be two vacancies in February. It will be myself and my vice chair Judy Hennings. We came on at the same time.

Our mission is to look at the financial statements and make sure everything runs smoothly. All we basically do is monitor different charities that do various events. We become like the watchdogs of various charities and we verify that they are legitimate. Tonight [Nov. 7], I am presenting in front of Team Beverly Hills. Every year they have a group of citizens that have volunteered to give their time and they run through various departments that function in the City, and each commission speaks in front of Team Beverly Hills. I thought I knew a lot about the City, but once you go through Team Beverly Hills, you learn a lot. You go through the police department and the fire department. They give you previews of what commissions do. Commissioners meet with them. It's a fabulous experience. Many people who have gone on Team Beverly Hills have gone on to be future commissioners, but it's not a prerequisite. I'm just speaking tonight on behalf of the Solicitations Commission.

Can you tell us about your experience as president of BHEF?

It was a wonderful feeling where we were raising funds to implement additional programs that were not in the budget. It must have been at least 10 years ago. I've always tried to raise money for our schools and for the community. I believe in public education. I like public school because of the diversity of the population you meet. And now I do the opposite, I make sure all funds that are raised are done so in the appropriate manner. This is the only commission I've ever been on. You want to make sure the money is going to where they say it will.

"I've always tried to raise money for our schools and for the community. I believe in public education. I like public school because of the diversity of the population you meet."

--Jan Block

What drew you to the Charitable Solicitations Commission?

Because I've been on the opposite end. I've had to complete financial statements for charities that I was involved with and I wanted to work from a commission's standpoint. [In Beverly Hills], at least 50 percent of [event] proceeds have to be allocated to the respective charity. If they don't, then they are on a list which is published by Beverly Hills under our commission. If they have been on the list three times, then we have the right to refer them to the attorney general. Our police department is our liaison for the commission so we work with [them.]

Tell us about yourself.

I work in real estate. I've been a broker for the past 35 years and I've worked for Coldwell Banker in Beverly Hills for the past 18 years. I graduated from Beverly High and we moved back to the City with my son who is now 34 when he was 5. I always stayed in Los Angeles. I went to Pepperdine University, when it was at 79th and Vermont, not the beautiful campus in Malibu. I was a business major. We lived in Studio City and we moved here to Beverly Hills because of the schools. The schools mean a lot to me.

Can you tell us more about your family?

I met my husband after college and we were married in 1976 and we have two sons, Justin who is 34 and David who is 25. Justin works with his father, they're both attorneys, and David is in sales. They both graduated from Beverly High, so they're second generation. We have two grandchildren from Justin and his wife Larissa: Jaelyn Marika is two and Griffin Emerson who is two and half weeks old. It's fun. I get to re-do. I get to take care of my granddaughter on Mondays and it's just a lot of fun. Larissa is a professional photographer. Both of my sons live in Los Angeles. They're two great kids. I'm very fortunate both of them have decided to settle down here. Justin went to Pitzer College and then Pepperdine Law School so he stayed close by and he played baseball in high school. He works in the office with his father. And David went to Santa Barbara Community College.

Your husband Alan Block serves on the Recreation and Parks Commission?

Yes, he does. You know they're totally diverse commissions. He deals with what's happening at the park, the trees, and Roxbury Park. Mine has to do with various charities. We want to give back. It's just very important to both of us. I think everyone says that who is on a commission. I've made wonderful friends through the schools, through El Rodeo and also the high school and we're very fortunate.

Do you plan to continue to be involved with the community when your term ends in January?

Yes, but I have not decided what I'd like to do. I'll find something. We have opportunities to do volunteer work. I'll find a place for myself.

Would you be interested in serving on another commission?

I may be, but I have not decided that at the moment.

Where do you see yourself in five years?

Continuing my enjoyment of life and being thankful. I see myself with a beautiful life and a beautiful family. Family means a lot. That's what life is about.

distributor so as not to impact the general fund more than $100,000.

The special meeting on Wed. Oct. 31 was held so the board could give further direction on the agreement because Chief Administrative Officer Dawnalyn Murakawa-Leopard said it would be impossible to deliver the necessary amount of lunches to the K-8 schools while staying within the $100,000 price range.

Depending on the school lunch program decided upon, the agreement with Choicelunch is expected to impact the general fund by $200,000 to $280,000.

According to Board of Education member Noah Margo, the board gave staff direction to move forward with Choicelunch, but work on negotiations about providing free and reduced lunch to Beverly High.

Margo said bringing branded food to Beverly High was also in negotiations.

The decision to approve Choicelunch as the new lunch provider was approved upon receiving a letter from Chartwells, the current food service company, saying it would prematurely end its five year contract with the district as of Nov. 16. According to a staff report, there is not enough time to conduct a more formal request for proposals or other competitive solicitation process.

Under the agreement with Chartwells, the district did not bear any cost of the food program.

The agreement with Choicelunch is for the 2012 to 2013 school year.

BHHS Football Team Routed in Season Finale

An injury-depleted Beverly High football team ended its season with a 41-0 loss at Culver City Friday night in an Ocean League game.

The Normans had about 20 varsity players in uniform and were forced to start at least five sophomores, including one making his varsity debut, according to coach Donald Paysinger.

Beverly Hills (2-8, 1-4 in league play) was out-gained 307 yards to 58. The Normans' deepest penetration was to their own 43-yard line.

"We didn't play well," Paysinger said. "We were trying to put a team out there with a bunch of injuries and we didn't get it done."

The shutout was the fourth suffered by the Normans this season. They were held to seven points or less in three other games and outscored 290-98 for the season. Paysinger said the team met his pregame goal of playing hard.

Beverly Hills forced Culver City (6-4, 3-2) to punt on its first possession. The Centaurs scored touchdowns on each of their next five possessions and led 35-0 at halftime.

The Normans are 0-8-2 against Culver City since 2002 including a 43-0 loss in 2011.

Beverly Hills finished fifth in the six-team Ocean League, failing to qualify for the Southern Section playoffs for the second consecutive season.

The Normans were also 2-8 in 2011, their worst record since 1993, when they were also 2-8.

BHHS Boys' Water Polo Team Defeats Torrance

Beverly High defeated Torrance, 12-8, in an Ocean League boys' water polo game at the Swim-Gym Oct. 9 with Devyn Maggio scoring three goals and Bernardo DiPietro, David Prokopenko and Keon Youssefzadeh each scoring two for the Normans.

Goals by Maggio, Prokopenko and Ariel Rafalian gave Beverly Hills a 3-0 lead with one minute, 22 seconds left in the first quarter. Yusuke Kojitani scored for the Tartars with four seconds remaining in the quarter.

The Normans also led by two at half-time, 6-4, with Justin Kim, DiPietro and Youssefzadeh scoring for Beverly Hills in the second quarter.

Prokopenko, DiPietro and Youssefzadeh scored in the third quarter to give the Normans a 9-4 lead. Kojitani scored the final goal of the quarter.

Maggio scored to give Beverly Hills a 10-5 lead with 5:55 to play. Two goals by Michael Walla-Ruiz and one by Kojitani pulled Torrance to within two, 10-8, with 1:15 left, but David Kotlarenko and Maggio scored in the final 37 seconds to seal the victory for the Normans (8-7).

Beverly Hills goaltender Hans Tercek made six saves.

The Normans lost to Santa Monica, 12-5, in an Ocean League game at the Swim-Gym Oct. 11, with David Hakakian and Prokopenko both scoring twice for Beverly Hills and Maggio once.

The Normans trailed 5-2 at the end of the first quarter, 7-3 at halftime and 8-3 entering the fourth quarter.

Tercek made six saves.

You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property.
