“Vicki’s Vision” [Issue #732]

A wonderful tribute to Vicki Reynolds and her vision of the long-awaited cultural center in Beverly Hills. One of the city council members, who served alongside of her, Maxwell Hillary Salter, was the first person to offer financial aid to the project, according to another key supporter, Fred Nicholas. My late husband flew to Washington, DC with Vicki & Murray Pepper to negotiate with the US Postal Service and purchased the property. The asking price was outrageous, but the settlement price was arranged. Now, thanks to Mrs. Annenberg, and an amazing number of key supporters, including Bram Goldsmith, Beverly Hills finally has a center for all of the arts!

City Council blocks overlay zone at City gateway

The Beverly Hills City Council rejected a proposal to establish an overlay zone that would have allowed development on three T-1 parcels at the City gateway at Wilshire and Santa Monica Boulevard.

Councilmember Willie Brien was the lone supporter of the proposal.

"I was very disappointed. I thought that we would have a much more positive response because there has been so much work on it and some of the people on the council had some real input into the process," said Maynard Brittan, owner of parcel one. "To be very frank there was a lot of opposition from the Southwest

The Wallis holds dedication and ribbon-cutting ceremony

The Wallis Annenberg Center for the Performing Arts, known as The Wallis, opened its doors on Oct. 15 following a dedication ceremony.

The center includes the historic 1933-constructed Beverly Hills Post Office, the 500-seat Goldsmith Theater, and the 150-seat Lovelace Theater. The new center will also include a theater school, café, gift shop and sculpture garden.

Wallis Annenberg and The Annenberg Foundation gave an initial grant of $15 million to fund the center. Bram Goldsmith, founding chairman of the Wallis Board of Directors, for whom the Goldsmith Theater is named, donated $5 million to the project.

Immediately after the ceremony, attendees were invited to enter the Grand Hall, located in the former Beverly Hills Post Office, now known as the Paula Kent Meehan Historic Building. Meehan contributed $5 million to the post office's restoration.

The Wallis' Board of Directors includes Chairman Jerry Magnin, Vice Chairman of Planning Richard Rosenzweig, Vice Chairman of Development Vicki Reynolds, Vice Chairman of Operations Arnold Rosenstein, Secretary Ronald D. Homeowner's Association, which was very well organized, and they are obviously a political force and they had some very convincing arguments about the extent of development that's going on and all the action in that neighborhood specifically and especially the traffic."

Under the proposed overlay zone, property owners developing T-1 parcels alone would have been allowed to build one-story structures up to 18 feet tall with a 0.5 FAR, or 500 square feet of building for every 1,000 square feet of developable land. If property owners jointly developed T-1 and C-3 properties, the T-1 property adjacent to the C-3 property could be built up to three stories at a maximum of 45 feet with a 1.5 FAR.

City Planner Jonathan Lait, who gave a presentation to the city council prior to the public hearing, said that the final environmental impact report showed one unmitigable traffic impact at South Santa Monica Boulevard and Wilshire Boulevard.

The final environmental impact report considered the worst case scenario of development in the area, which assumes all sites are redeveloped at the same time at a maximum height and density. Lait said the scenario was unlikely to be realized.

Brittan and Jeff Wilson, owner of parcel two, both attended Tuesday's meeting, and both individually encouraged the city council to adopt the proposed gateway zone.

Brittan said that the Planning Commission had approved the proposal unanimously. Brittan reminded the council in his comments that the approval would not authorize a development and that the city would maintain oversight on future projects.

"Nothing can happen to our property unless we have guidelines," said Wilson.

Approximately 15 speakers addressed the council on this proposal with the vast majority in opposition of the overlay zone. Former Mayor Les Bronte spoke in favor of the proposal.

Leading the opposition was Ken Goldman, on behalf of the Southwest Homeowners Association.

Goldman argued that the re-zoning proposal would increase the maximum building square footage to 327,600 feet, whereas currently there is only 73,000 square feet of development. Goldman said the S. Santa Monica Boulevard and Wilshire Boulevard intersection was already one of the worst in the country.

"I think the residents were very pleased by all the homework that every one of the councilmembers had done, the thoroughness with which they asked questions and made comments, and the fact that they all obviously understood and took the residents' concerns into consideration," said Goldman in a phone interview.

Common concerns shared by the speakers were negative impacts on the residents' quality of life, increase in traffic, and overdevelopment in heavily developed area.

Mirisch said in a phone interview he did not feel the proposal was beneficial for the city or the residents.

"Anytime you look at a statement of overriding considerations which means that there are impacts that you're willing to accept, there should be major public benefit," said Mirisch. "I'm not sure what public benefits [this proposal] does offer beyond as I mentioned where often one hears, wouldn't you rather have a beautiful new building than an ugly dilapidated lot? I can't accept that kind of reasoning."

Vice Mayor Lili Bosse asked staff why they had recommended approval of the overlay zone instead of presenting pros and cons.

Brittan whose office is on the 40 foot lot adjacent to parcel one said his lot does not satisfy his needs or that of the surrounding community. He purchased parcel one in 1999. Brittan said the improvements proposed were for the benefit of the surrounding community.

"It's a very natural, routine, planning procedure to acquire property for rezoning adjacent to a lot that is nonconforming. My office is only a 40 foot lot so it was a natural planning phenomenon to acquire the property behind it for redevelopment," said Brittan. "To be very frank, we were encouraged to do it because the powers to be in city hall at that time were encouraging redevelopment for that depressed neighborhood."

Beverly Hills Tennis Club to surprise Jefferson High School students with new uniforms

Mitchell Dawson

The Beverly Hills Tennis Club will host members of the Jefferson High School tennis teams for lunch at the club this Saturday, where the students will be surprised with new team uniforms.

"This whole program is to help increase self esteem in these students which will be enhanced by having great uniforms and great equipment and the last thing that's part of our charge here is hopefully to create enthusiasm for students to participate in tennis or any other sport," said Mitchell Dawson, president of the BHTC.

Dawson met with Communities in Schools, a nonprofit organization that identified Jefferson High School as a school in need of tennis equipment.

The boys' and girls' teams currently play without proper equipment or team uniforms. Initially, Dawson went to BHTC members requesting racket donations. However, through donations from BHTC members, over $8,000 were raised to purchase the team's uniforms and additional equipment.

"At that time, it was really just tennis rackets. I knew we'd get tennis rackets, but I never thought we'd be able to get people so excited to help with funding [for] uniforms. That was like a fantasy that came true," Dawson said.

Members of the club came forward with

Beverly Hills designates piece of art as City landmark no. 15

The Beverly Hills City Council designated the Millard Sheets Mural located at the entrance of the Civic Center parking garage on Rexford Drive as the City's 15th local landmark at the council's meeting on Tuesday.

The City's newest landmark is unique in the sense that it is not a specific architectural property, but applies only to the mural itself. The designation does not preclude the mural from being moved to another location. The parking garage itself is not included.

"I would really appreciate if perhaps you can carry back to the Cultural Heritage Commission a request that we more clearly define that intersection of fine art and something that is historic and has to be preserved because at least for me, it's a very fuzzy line and I would rather understand it more completely than appear to be capricious in our decisions," said Councilmember Julian Gold.

The designation was unanimously supported but some councilmembers had concerns about designating a piece of artwork as a landmark.

"I'm a little concerned that if we're now designating fine art as historic, how would you manage that?" said Councilmember Willie Brien. "I'm not sure that was the intent of what we were trying to do."

City Urban designer Bill Crouch said that though it is artwork, it is also a cultural resource.

The Cultural Heritage Commission had initiated nomination proceedings for three Millard Sheets murals in the city located at the city parking garage, 9245 Wilshire Boulevard and 9145 Wilshire Boulevard at its July meeting.

Gold questioned whether the other buildings with murals would be historic or if only the murals specifically would be landmarked.

Crouch said that was something the commission was discussing at the moment – whether the entire buildings or the murals should be considered culturally significant. Crouch said that was the reason why the commission only recommended the mural above the parking garage for designation on Oct. 9.

The mural was installed above the parking garage located at 450 N. Rexford Drive earlier this year. The mural originally hung in the motor court of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel. It was installed in 1974. The piece was taken down in pieces and donated to the city in 1987, when it was put into storage for over 20 years.

The work of art satisfies criteria for local landmark designation. The work is identified with important events in the history of the City, it's associated with the lives of significant persons, such as Hernando Courtright, former owner of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel, it embodies a distinctive characteristic of style, type, period, or method of construction, and it represents the work of someone on the City's list of Master Architects, according to Crouch.

"Although Millard Sheets was not an architect, he was a real proponent of blen-

GAIL'S IN CHARGE

The Weekly's interview with Health and Safety Commission Chair Gail Millan
by Andrea Aldana

So what's new with the Health and Safety commission?

Well, we just selected three new members [Daniel Nazarian, Myra Demeter, and Gary B. Ross] that have been [approved] by the city council. We met with our city council liaisons [Dr. Julian Gold and Dr. Willie Brien]. We have some new issues that we'll be continuing to work on. This year as chair, because I have more of a health background, I really wanted to focus on health issues.

This year, we'll continue the work of disaster preparedness. We're going to focus on making sure our businesses really are prepared, so we'll be continuing [that] outreach as well as to the citizens. One thing that's really unique about our commission is the sense that we really get out there, roll up our sleeves and go out into the community to do educate, to be a presence, [and] to really make sure businesses understand how to best take care of themselves both on a personal level and as a business. What are your obligations? What might happen? As much as people realize that we could have an earthquake, [or] we could have some sort of disaster, it's sort of the last thing most people want to think about and prepare for and so that's a lot of what we do.

For me, healthy lifestyle is really sort of our overall theme going forward and really helping people understand the importance of things such as exercise, diet, immunizations, and [other] things you should be doing to really take care of your health.

Pedestrian safety: walking around town, it's amazing how people are so distracted. I've seen people at a red light or you're down to zero in terms of the countdown and that's when they start walking, sometimes very slowly, with no awareness or they're on a cell phone or they're texting so [the commission will be] trying to educate people about the dangers of that.

The other thing is we really wanted to look into and start identifying what are some of the special needs that the seniors of our community have in terms of health and safety? What we'd like to do is really come up with some programming and some information and look for ways that we could provide this information in already existing venues in the city, so perhaps looking at things like the farmers market or the Beverly Hills Active Adult Club.

Three new commissioners have been recently appointed by the city council. What will that transition be like?

They have not joined us yet. We had a very unique situation when we first started. There were seven of us and we all started at the same time. Even though I had worked with most of those individuals or had known them in other opportunities, it was like a whole fresh slate. I have to say this is probably in both my personal and professional life one of the best experiences I have ever had because I got to know each of those individuals in a whole different way. There's no ego involved and really in our commission what's so wonderful about it is [that] it is really about the work -- being out in the street, going door to door, reaching out to businesses, and educating and working with the neighborhood watch.

We have had our first new commissioners because our first two rolled off and it is always bittersweet because it's been such a unique special experience working with the original seven, but now as we have our two new individuals, uniquely, they brought a different perspective, different interest, different expertise and were individuals that were very active in health and safety issues on their own. It's been a very seamless, kind of wonderful transition.

I think again it'll be seamless. [The new commissioners] will bring new perspectives and fresh ideas. Because we've always focused on the work and getting involved, I'm sure it will be equally wonderful, but again I will miss my dear friends that will be leaving.

How did you become involved with the commission?

I'm very lucky. I've been over at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center for over 25 years. In the department that I work in, I've had the ability to work directly with Dr. Linda Burnes Bolton, Vice President and Chief Nursing Officer, Cedars-Sinai Health Systems. I grew up in Beverly Hills. I have deep roots here and ever since I've been young, being involved in the community was what was role modeled to me. It's a very important part of who I am. It's a big part of nursing. You really need to know what's going on and be comfortable reaching out and being a part of that.

Many years ago, I worked with [City Director of Emergency Management] Pamela Mottice-Muller in a CPR program prior to the one [the city] has now. Many years ago when it was there, I would volunteer and help. They would train the eighth graders before they went to Yosemite in CPR, so I was involved in some hands on training with that because I somehow got the word and was happy to do that.

When my own kids got to Beverly Vista, I felt there was really an opportunity during "Health and Safety Week" to pull it up a notch. The school was very open and luckily working with the Dr. Linda Burnes Bolton, who has always supported my work personally in the community as well as my work at Cedars-Sinai allowed me to have time to develop with some of the other parents at the time and with Mottice-Muller a really great experience during safety week. With my colleague, we were able to develop a whole curriculum to go into Kindergarten through eighth grade, having an interactive health and safety experience for the children. They would invite us into the classrooms that they wanted and we would give a presentation during safety week. That was the first time I got involved.

In terms of community health, my job at Cedars-Sinai has evolved over the years. I'm the nurse liaison. Whenever we do a free community health screenings—and it could be that we go out and do free blood pressure screening, prostate screening, a variety of health screenings -- I recruit and train all the nurses, so my job has become really community health. What I was doing personally, I was also doing professionally and again professionally, my boss really supported giving me that opportunity to go out into our schools and community to provide education.

I just really loved this and I was informally doing a lot of these kind of things and when this opportunity came up to do it in a more formalized way I just thought, "Boy, this has my name on it." It seemed like a perfect match for what I was already doing in the community.

What are your goals for the commission as chair?

I think, number one that we continue on with the work that we're doing. I think highlighting the new areas such as pedestrian safety [and] a healthy lifestyle. What can we do as individuals and as families to really pay attention to access the services that we need? I agree with my co-commissioners that there may be some special [senior] needs that we want to really reach out and look at. [Another goal is] to work seamlessly with our new incoming commissioners and [make] sure that they're comfortable and can hit that ground running and that everybody on the commission continues to enjoy that experience and really make a difference.

You are a registered nurse and education programs coordinator at Cedars-Sinai. Tell us about that.

I really have the perfect job for me and it's very interesting. I'm an education programs coordinator at the Geri and Richard Brawerman Nursing Institute at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center. I get to work with and teach in a variety of different programs related to nursing professional development. But the main part of my job is bringing together all of the things in the world that I love which are community service and being a nurse. I am, as I said, the nurse liaison for community health education screening programs. The Department of Community Health and Education [works] with our community partners throughout Los Angeles County. Some of them are senior centers, churches, temples, and [other] different venues. They work with them to decide what kind of program and health screening we will provide and each of these programs provides not just an actual physical screening, such as blood pressure or diabetes screenings, but there's always a very important element of education for the individuals [so] that they understand the information that they're receiving and what the follow up needs to be. Unfortunately, there are many individuals in Los Angeles County that may not have had or did not have their own healthcare practitioner, so we also provide referrals for them to get services or to follow up with the care that they need.

My job is really the coordination. My job is essentially no matter what program Cedars-Sinai Medical Center is doing, I recruit and train [the nurses] and make sure it's the right complement of nurses, and [while] on-site, coordinate that, and my job is to oversee everything.

You are simultaneously serving as the president of The Maple Counseling Center. What's new at the TMCC?

The biggest issue right now that we're facing is really our location. We are hoping to stay because for over 40 years, we have been in Beverly Hills. Actually interesting enough, growing up here my mother was one of the original para-professional counselors involved with The Maple Counseling Center in a professional sense. She took training over at UCLA to become a para-professional and provide counseling services. After my father died in 1994 -- It was before there was a lot of information on care giving—what I realized was that people caring for a loved one at home really didn't have a lot of resources. I developed a program at Cedars-Sinai for a while where people could call in who were care giving who might need support, connection, and information. I would take those phone calls and I found myself more and more referring them to The Maple Counseling Center. Growing up with it, it was clearly important to my family but it was mom's thing, but just coincidentally years later, I realized professionally the importance in the services. So that's how I got re-involved and I've been with the Maple Center for a number of years now on the board. This is really an exciting opportunity. Our programs continue. The quality is wonderful. It's not just services in terms of individuals or family counseling, there's also group opportunities. We provide services at the school level. I think the biggest issue right now is we really need to settle on our home so we're currently negotiating and hoping we'll be able to stay here. It looks like there's not a lot of opportunity, just economically, within the city at this time so we may need to move outside the borders, but Beverly Hills adjacent. We're very mindful and regardless, there will be no interruption of services.

In addition to continuing our excellent services and programs, we're having our biggest fundraiser [Endless Summer Bash] on Oct. 30. We have also brought on Jamie Powell who is our development director and I think [she] brings a new energy and perspective. I'm very excited about Jamie helping us reach out into the community and really make people aware that this is a valuable resource and treasure. I think with mental health, it really matters, but I think it's a subject that people aren't really sure of or comfortable with.

What are your priorities as president of the board?

As president of the board, number one, making sure we have a stable permanent home. That's really important and weighing on my mind and [also] that we continue to have the funds that we need to continue the work of The Maple Counseling Center. We are a fundraising board and that is important. [A priority is that we] continue to reach out to new friends, reconnect with old friends and really make sure we have the means to continue the important work.

Your husband John Millan served on the Board of Education from 2003-2007. Do you have any interest in running for office?

It was a wonderful experience for John, I think, seeing his own personal growth and just the integrity that he and his other board members brought to the process. What was nice was that it was about the work and really doing the best for our children. It was phenomenal.

You know, it's an interesting question. I really never thought about it. Who knows? I think the truth is whether it's that or something else, I would hope I will always stay involved in the community because that was the way I was raised. I'm fortunate enough to have a wonderful husband of 35 years –we just celebrated our anniversary [Tuesday]. I think what's so wonderful is we've always supported each other so I know whether he goes on and continues to do things or I do, that we will be there for each other. Our kids have been terrific over the years of being a part of that and I would hope until the day I die that I'm doing something whether it is in an official capacity or not. That is really a key important part of who I am is doing what I can do to really make a difference and leave the world a little better off if I can.

Tell us about your family.

I grew up here in Beverly Hills. My parents are [the late] Paul and Barbara Miller, and I have three wonderful siblings that are all still here in Los Angeles. I have two brothers and a sister. My immediate family is John and we've been together for 35 years and we met in college. John graduated the year before I did but at graduation we became engaged and then started our life here in California. When it was time for [our kids to go to] school, we realized that nobody used public school and that was really important to both John and I, so that really was our impetus to move to Beverly Hills. I had a wonderful childhood here in Beverly Hills. My mom and dad were very involved in scouting. My mom was the PTA president. She's 80 and she still gets together with the PTA presidents. It was a wonderful time and place because my dad walked the entire neighborhood to school. It was like a small village and John and I came back and I've found that we've been very lucky. We have two daughters. Caitlin is 28. She went to Hofstra University and came back after she graduated and while she doesn't live at home, interestingly, she works at Concord Music Group [in Beverly Hills], so even though she's an adult on her own, she's not far from home. My daughter Mackenzie graduated Indiana University a year and a half ago and when she came back last August, she had an internship with Mottice-Muller and her big project was the CERT program. She's just started a new job at American Jewish University as an admissions counselor. This is her ideal job because when she was at Indiana, a big part of what she did was lead the freshman tours, so she is very excited.

A year from now, what do you hope to have accomplished in your leadership roles at the TMCC and on the commission?

I [hope] that all the work that we've identified, we're well on our way [and] that we're successful with it. I think at The Maple Counseling Center that we've increased the visibility, highlighted the importance and really gotten people engaged to support the work of The Maple Counseling Center. I think that's really important. I would hope that we are so successful that we continue to look and add more programs but more importantly that we really keep with our mission, which is to never turn away anyone because we don't. If they can't afford it, we still work with them. With the commission, [I hope] that we continue with the goals [and] the work that we've set out to do and that we really make people more aware of doing a better job of taking care of their health and safety [and] that we not only care for each other but as a community, we continue to work to really build a better stronger community that's more aware of health and safety issues.

ding the fine arts with architecture and this is another example of that," said Crouch.

"I absolutely agree with the recommendation," said Vice Mayor Lili Bosse. "I don't have any problems at all with the methodology of how you arrived to it. I think the findings that are required are quite narrow. I think there are few pieces that will fit into those findings. I think you did a wonderful job in defining them."

BHHS Football Team Routed by Inglewood

Beverly High lost to Inglewood, 49-0, in its Ocean League opener Friday night at Coleman Field.

The Normans had a punt blocked and returned for a touchdown on its first possession. The Sentinels (3-3, 1-0 in league play) had a 65-yard touchdown pass on a double reverse its first offensive play.

Beverly Hills coach Charlie Stansbury said his team was shut out because Inglewood has "some big physical kids and they had the ability to play man-to-man with us."

"We took shot at trying to throw the ball and it didn't work out for us," Stansbury said after the Normans lost for the 24th time in their last 28 games, falling to 0-6 for the season. "In the run game, we got some chunks here and there, but there were able to put pressure on us and kind of limit our running game a little bit."

This was the fifth game this season Beverly Hills has allowed at least 41 points and the fourth it scored seven or fewer.

Norman receiver-safety Harry Green and running back Damiyon Brown drew praise for their play from Stansbury.

Beverly Hills is scheduled to play host to Santa Monica (3-3, 1-0) Friday night in an Ocean League game at Nickoll Field. The opening kickoff is scheduled for 7 p.m.

The high school football website Calpreps.com projects a 62-0 Santa Monica victory.

Daniel Agachi, Yoav Gelfer, Josh Louis, Joe Maisterra and Aron Selimovic each scored once for Beverly Hills.

The Normans began the tournament at Estancia High School in Costa Mesa by defeating Notre Dame, 11-4, in a pool play game Oct. 4.

Fox, David Kotlarenko, Shegarian and Keon Youssefzadeh each scored once for the Normans.

Friedman made one save.

Beverly Hills edged the Edison B team, 9-8, in a pool play game Oct. 4, with Kotlarenko, Michael Nassirzadeh, Segal, Shegarian all scoring twice and Gelfer once.

Friedman made 10 saves.

The Normans concluded pool play by defeating Rancho Alamitos, 19-9, Oct. 5 as Shegarian scored six goals and Segal four.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: HIU MING TAO
CASE NO. BP141789
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of HIU MING TAO. A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by COSIMO BORRELLI AND YUEN LAI YEE in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES. THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that MICHAEL AUGUSTINE be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent. THE PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The WILL and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act . (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 10/29/13 at 8:30AM in Dept. 11 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law. YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk. Attorney for Petitioner VIVIAN L. THOREEN LINDSEY A. KERNAN HOLLAND & KNIGHT 400 S. THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Alex Gorodetzki be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250.
