In the article, “Lunch and learn with heart health care professionals,” the next event will be on July 24. The workshop will take place from noon to 1:00 p.m. at the new Roxbury Park Community Center. Call (310) 285-2537 to register.

PUBLISHERS NOTE:

Three letters to the editor appeared in last week's Beverly Hills Courier purporting to be from “Mel Klein,” “Rhonda Scheinblatt,” and “Shirley Lippshum.” None of these three individuals are registered to vote in Beverly Hills or are listed in the phone book. This raises the presumption that they are phony letters planted by someone in an attempt to discredit Steven Fenton's guest column that ran in the last two issues of Beverly Hills Weekly.

Beverly Hills Weekly welcomes all letters, either favorable or critical, however we have never published anonymous or phony letters, as we verify the identity of anyone who submits a letter to the editor. It is unfortunate that the Beverly Hills Courier continues to run letters from individuals whom they know to be fake.

Board of Education shakes up BHUSD school administration

The Board of Education unanimously approved new administrators for Beverly Vista principal and assistant principal and Hawthorne's assistant principal's position at Tuesday night's meeting.

Hawthorne assistant principal Christian

Christian Fuhrer

Fuhrer was named as Beverly Vista's new principal. Fuhrer was a former Horace Mann teacher for nine years before being promoted as assistant principal at Hawthorne. He is also a musician and music executive. His wife Christy Fuhrer is currently a Horace Mann first grade teacher.

"How did this Board of Education fall off track?" [Issues #769 and #770]

The question raised by your guest columnist, Steven Fenton, "How did this Board of Education fall off track?" has a simple answer. It was led "off the track" by your guest columnist himself, among others. In the four years he served on the Board, the Board spent unbelievable time forcing non-resident children out of the [BHUSD], pursuing criminal action against a former superintendent and a former employee/consultant (actions thrown out by the courts), and engaging in petty vendettas against each other. Is it any wonder that employees are apprehensive, perhaps even fearful?

The decline of BHUSD, which used to be at the pinnacle of school districts in the country is shameful. The district is not even at the pinnacle of LA County; there must be six or eight districts ranked higher than Beverly Hills at this time. Now, in this article, the Board's former member and president, who helped lead the district down the slippery slope on which it finds itself, writes an article containing no facts, no evidence, just a series of charges and innuendos based on nothing other than personal and ugly attacks. I'm surprised the Weekly published such an article which clearly reflects serious personal issues with the writer. There is certainly nothing in the article which would redound to the benefit of education of the students. The leader of the pack has now turned on the pack.

Perhaps writing the article, assuming he wrote it, made the writer feel better. It certainly did not do anything to enhance the district, or the kids they are educating.

STEVEN FENTON RESPONDS

I've respected former board member Richard Stone's dedication to our community and I always get a kick out of hearing from him. I'll wear this letter as a badge of honor because Richard also publicly admonished my Dad in years past. Richard has been right there with me as he (also) took a lot of similar heat when he was board president because (in my opinion) he led the district "down a slippery slope" when he presided over a board that in 1997 voted to fire Superintendent Sol Levine, a 20-year administrator, stalled construction over the 1993 Measure S Bond and suffered from employee morale issues. Richard's letter is effective in the sense that as members of the community we have the right and obligation to challenge our elected officials. He also knows that being a board member is complicated. I may not have all the answers, but I do know when things aren't right. And, in my opinion, things aren't right and that "pack" that he referred to, left its "leader" long ago.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

DATE: July 17, 2014
TIME: 1:00 PM, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard
LOCATION: Commission Meeting Room 280A
Beverly Hills City Hall
455 North Rexford Drive
Beverly Hills, CA 90210

The Planning Commission of the City of Beverly Hills, at its SPECIAL meeting on Thursday, July 17, 2014, will hold a public hearing beginning at 1:00 PM, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard to consider requests for the following entitlements:

Zone Text Amendment. A request to amend the Beverly Hills Municipal Code (BHMC) regarding development standards for floor area on single-family properties located in the Hillside Area of the City. Currently, the Municipal Code requires that any existing unimproved and uninhabitable space that is converted to habitable space, and does not otherwise meet the definition of a basement, be calculated as floor area. If approved, the proposed Zone Text Amendment would allow for existing unimproved and uninhabitable space to be converted to habitable space and remain exempt from floor area even if the space does not meet the definition of a basement. As proposed, this amendment would modify the floor area development standards only for properties within the Hillside Area of the City that range from 15,001 to 25,000 square feet area, and were constructed prior to 1997. This particular amendment is being requested in conjunction with a remodel and addition at the property located at 1127 Miradero Road; however, the amendment would apply to all Hillside properties with a lot area between 15,001 and 25,000 square feet and constructed prior to 1997.

Variance. In-lieu of the Zone Text Amendment, the applicant requests a Variance to allow the existing unimproved and uninhabitable space located within the first story of the existing single-family residence to be improved. Since the maximum floor area permitted by the BHMC has already been developed on the project site, the Variance would allow a floor area addition of approximately 1,722 square feet, which would cause the floor area on the site to exceed the maximum floor area permitted by Code.

The proposed Zone Text Amendment has been assessed in accordance with the authority and criteria contained in the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), the State CEQA Guidelines, and the environmental regulations of the City, and have been determined to be exempt from CEQA pursuant to Article 5, Section 15061 (b)(3) of the Guidelines, which states that CEQA applies only to projects which have the potential for causing a significant effect on the environment. Since the proposed Zone Text Amendment would only apply to spaces contained within the footprint of the existing residence, no potential for causing a significant effect on the environment exists, and therefore, the project is exempt from CEQA.

In addition, the proposed Variance has been assessed in accordance with the authority and criteria contained in the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), the State CEQA Guidelines, and the environmental regulations of the City. The project qualifies for a Class 1 Categorical Exemption for additions to existing structures that do not result in an increase of more than 2,500 square feet of floor area. Therefore the project has been determined not to have a significant environmental impact and is exempt from the provisions of CEQA.

Any interested person may attend the meeting and be heard or present written comments to the Commission.

According to Government Code Section 65009, if you challenge the Commission's action in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the City, either at or prior to the public hearing.

If there are any questions regarding this notice, please contact Shena Rojemann, Associate Planner in the Planning Division at 310.285.1192 or by email at srojemann@beverlyhills.org. Application materials associated with the project are on file with the Community Development Department and can be reviewed by any interested person. Please contact the project planner listed above to schedule an appointment to view the application materials. Appointments should be scheduled 72 hours in advance to ensure the documents are available for viewing.

becoming a California State Distinguished School," Board of Education member Howard Goldstein said.

El Rodeo's interim assistant principal Alyssa Para will transition into Beverly Vista's new assistant principal position. Before serving as an interim assistant principal, Para was a K-8 physical education specialist, and a 2013 Apple Award winner.

"We are excited about what this combination of knowledgeable and successful administrators will bring to that school," Board of Education Noah Margo said.

Hawthorne's new assistant principal will be Richard Waters, who served as Beverly Vista's assistant principal since 2011. Waters is a Beverly High graduate and previously taught eighth grade at El Rodeo.

Pam Kraushaar and Joe Safier were both recommended as commissioners on the Kraushaar is currently the BHUSD Superintendent's office administrative assistant and Safier currently serves as a Citizen's Oversight Committee member.

Gold said that the time Kraushaar and Safier will begin their appointments will be determined once the commission restructuring process is finished. Most likely, Kraushaar will start her term in January 2015 and Safier will begin his term in June 2015. Both will be required

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

DATE: July 17, 2014

LOCATION: Commission Meeting Room 280A
Beverly Hills City Hall
455 North Rexford Drive
Beverly Hills, CA 90210

The Planning Commission of the City of Beverly Hills, at its SPECIAL meeting on Thursday, July 17, 2014, will hold a public hearing beginning at 1:00 PM, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard to consider a request to construct new, 20' tall cellular antennas on the roof of the commercial building located at 9301 Wilshire Boulevard. The Planning Commission will consider the following entitlements in reviewing the project:

Variance. A request for a variance to allow the installation of new cellular antennas on the roof of the building. The project includes a total of 12 panel-style antennas that would be contained within two separate rooftop enclosures. The antennas and enclosures would have a maximum height of 20' as measured from the adjacent roof deck, which exceeds the 15' height limit established in the Municipal Code for cellular antennas mounted on commercial buildings. The variance is requested to allow the antennas and enclosures to exceed the 15' height limitation.

This project has been assessed in accordance with the authority and criteria contained in the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), the State CEQA Guidelines, and the environmental regulations of the City. The project qualifies for a Class 1 Categorical Exemption for minor alterations to commercial structures, and the project has been determined not to have a significant environmental impact and is exempt from the provisions of CEQA.

Any interested person may attend the meeting and be heard or present written comments to the Commission.

According to Government Code Section 65009, if you challenge the Commission's action in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you or someone else raised at the public hearing described in this notice, or in written correspondence delivered to the City, either at or prior to the public hearing.

A school district in need of sunlight

By Jonathan Prince

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION:

I can't pretend to imagine what it feels like to sit in your chairs. To serve as an elected official in our education community.

To suffer the slings and arrows, to receive the plaudits, and to bear the responsibility of acting as the temporary stewards of our school district.

I can't imagine what it feels like. But I assume it's very uncomfortable.

How else can you explain Monday's unprecedented use of a public resource – the PACE email – for purely political purposes? How else can you explain the time and money spent with counsel to fabricate an official response to an op/ed piece written by a mere civilian in a local weekly paper?

Yes, I assume it's uncomfortable up there and I don't envy your position.

But I do have a few questions.

First, as a parent in the BHUSD, I trust that when I get a PACE email it will be important information about my child's experience at school. It will be about education. Or security and safety. Or about teachers and teaching. But yesterday, for the first time, this educational and informational tool was abused by the Board and our Superintendent. It was used to respond to Steven Fenton's opinion column in Beverly Hills Weekly. Not to respond to a law suit. Not to respond to action taken against our board or our district. But in response to a few column inches in a local paper. Why? Why abuse this tool in order to defend yourselves?

Second, we've been waiting for months – five and counting – to get the results of the investigation into the board leaks to the LA Times and to the Beverly Hills Courier, leaks which are ongoing as even more closed session information continues to find its way into those papers. We've been told that such actions take time, that there is due process, and that counsel must play a role in such decisions. Time, as in nearly six months to respond to the leak. And now we hear that our community may never hear the results of that investigation. Yet, you managed to be ridiculously fleet of foot in your response to Mr. Fenton's op/ed piece. We've never seen this board move so quickly. In only one business day, you managed to respond – I imagine, as a writer, myself – after multiple drafts and after counsel was consulted. Which leads me to ask why certain transparencies take so very long to come to light, but this defensive cloaked retort came about in only one day?

Third, why did you choose to respond in the first place? Mr. Fenton is a community member, a civilian, with an opinion. Even if you took umbrage at his tone, why respond? Even if you disagreed with his interpretation of the facts, why respond?

In point of fact, even if Mr. Fenton's interpretation of the facts was flawed or biased, would he be the first member of this community to write a personal editorial in a local paper based on less-than-perfect facts? Indeed, would he even be the first reporter from a local paper to do so? And, to be honest, would he even be the first elected official or even school board member to make public statements or judgments or even take action, based on less than entirely honest or realistic appraisals of events? In responding so quickly and publicly to Mr. Fenton's criticisms, you've done nothing more than give him credibility. They say that "nothing seduces like a denial." Well, we are seduced. Which leads me to my final question.

Although you cleared up a few terms of art – and administrator wasn't "fired," her contract merely "expired." Another administrator wasn't "fired" – she "resigned." A principal wasn't "fired" – he was "promoted." But your clever use of terminology continues to obfuscate the reasons behind such moves. Did the administrators want to stay? Or were they asked to resign? Did they want such promotions? I understand you feel that Mr. Fenton may not have gotten all of his terminology right, nor his facts in the way that you see them, but he did ask important questions. Questions that deserve a response which is honest and real. This board – notably two of you in your second terms – has made transparency your calling card. You have loudly claimed that you want nothing more than honest and open conversations, clean processes, and – as the famed Supreme Court Justice said – "a little sunlight."

I ask you: is the PACE email we all received an example of such transparency? Or is it continued obfuscation? Is it an honest and open examination of the issues brought forth by Mr. Fenton, or a defensive response that uses clever legal loopholes and verbal gymnastics in order to explain away such criticisms? Is it sunlight? Or just cloud cover?

Either way, I ask you to stop. On behalf of all of those parents and families you emailed on Monday, please stop. Stop suing and being sued. Stop attacking and defending. Stop acting as a board run by personal and official legal counsel. Stop treating professional educators as employees who "report" to the board. Stop stooping to such lows as responding to a personal letter in a local newspaper using the privileged tool of our families' private email addresses. Stop listening to rumors and innuendo. More importantly, stop spreading them.

Stop all of it. And start doing what I hope you really wanted to do when you first ran for office. Act as a Board of Education.

Hire excellent teachers and give them a safe and creative environment in which they can teach. Hire superb administrators and staff, and let them run the schools without micro-managing and invasive personal issues. Build and rebuild our school buildings, as well as the programs inside of them – both in the educational curriculum and in the important athletic and extra-curricular areas that are vital to the experience of our students. Live up to the claim you make in your response, that you are "working diligently to make our district the envy of the nation," instead of the punch-line to some stale joke.

No, I don't know what it feels like to be sitting in your chairs, but I imagine if you get back to acting with integrity as the temporary stewards of an 80-year-old district, if you get back to thinking about the students first, if you get back to the transparency and honesty that you say are your calling cards, if you remember that the Superintendent may indeed report to you, but that you report to us – the people of this community – then those seats will be a lot more comfortable.

WHO IS ELAN CARR?

Straight talk with the Congressional candidate in a Weekly exclusive

By Nancy Yeang

The Weekly sat down with 33rd Congressional district candidate Elan Carr and his wife Dr. Dahlia Lainer Carr.

Dahlia, you are a 1991 Beverly High graduate. Tell us about that and being a Madrigal Singer.

Dahlia: Beverly Hills High School is a very special place. I came to Beverly from an orthodox Jewish based school [also in Beverly Hills], so it was a bit of a shock.

I graduated [from] Hillel [Hebrew Academy] in eighth grade. In ninth grade I started at Beverly [High]. It was very new, I didn't know very many students there, but it's a great school [and] a great community. Beverly Hills is wonderful. It's a small town in the middle of a large metropolis. Beverly High has that feeling of a small community high school but with the resources, the wonderful teachers and wonderful academics in a large urban center. I loved it.

I found my niche when I was part of the [performing arts] department; drama, choir, [and the] Madrigals. I was very fortunate to work with [the late] Joel Pressman and he was a great teacher [and] a great mentor. It was a very special place to go to high school.

Elan: It's a special place for me as well even though I didn't go to school there because a Beverly [High] classmate of Dahlia's introduced us. That's how we met. So I have loyalty to Beverly [High].

Dahlia, your mom Esther Lainer runs the Olympic Pharmacy in Beverly Hills.

Dahlia: My mom is a pharmacist. For many years she was the head pharmacist at the Thrifty, which is now Rite Aid on Canon [Drive]. In about 1987, one of her co-pharmacists, Vida [Hakimfar], [and she] decided that they wanted to open up a pharmacy together and they did on the corner of Olympic and La Peer.

Elan: They didn't take over a different pharmacy.

Dahlia: They did not. They started it from scratch and they're one of the last remaining, small, community pharmacies that we have around. She has quite a loyal following. She's been a fixture in that strip mall for over 30 years. It's pretty amazing.

Elan: She's an old school pharmacist in the way that she treats.

Dahlia: She's a chemist. I'm a doctor and I will often find myself calling her [with] certain questions about certain medications or concoctions that she knows better than I.

She's really an invaluable resource for not only her patients but to other people in the health care profession. She's really a very special lady.

My brother [Arik Lainer] is also a doctor. My brother and I would say that our mother was our doctor growing up. We saw her as an example of a health care professional who was very passionate about helping people. That was absolutely who she is and what she's about. My brother and I both saw that in her and wanted to really emulate her and be like her.

Dahlia, you mentioned that you're a physician. Do you ever talk about health care policy with Elan?

Dahlia: Of course.

Elan: I always say that Dahlia is my secret weapon in this campaign. These anecdotes we hear in the news, she sees it every day. Patients come in and their health plans are canceled or they say, "My primary doctor doesn't take insurance," so now it's gone to a cash practice. [Dahlia] really lives these issues.

How do these conversations come up?

Dahlia: Often, I'll tell him, "Guess what? A patient of mine came in today and they are on one of the California Choice plans and this is what they were complaining about and this is the issue."

Elan: This was before I entered the race by the way.

Dahlia: It's a problem we talk about a lot. Our health care system has been problematic for some time. It has been in need of repair and we've been seeing this build up. We've been discussing this for years.

Elan, how do you respond to people who say, "Great candidate, wrong party," since the district is overwhelmingly Democratic?

Elan: I think it's a different time. I think people today are far more inclined to look at issues and to look at candidates. My campaign is about issues and it's about solutions. It's not about labels.

Now, some people invariably say, "I vote X," or "I vote Y," because some people will. But I think the majority of voters today [are frustrated], and the frustration stems from the hyper partisanship we see in Washington where people are unwilling to compromise, reach across the aisle, work with others and move the country forward. I share that frustration, a lot of voters do. I know Dahlia does.

My campaign is about solutions and I say, without any hesitation, I'm about reaching across the aisle and working with others to fashion real solutions to the real problems affecting us. That's getting a lot of traction. We're seeing a good number of crossover voters.

In what ways do you feel voters are reaching out to you without considering party affiliation?

Elan: Every event I attend [is] not [a] Republican [event]. Every event I attend, whether it's a fundraiser event or simply a community event, is well attended by Democrats. Not an event goes by where Democrats don't come up to me and say, "You're our guy." Sometimes they're institutional type Democrats, not just, "Well, I happen to be a Democrat." They're people who are involved in the Democratic Party. One of the people who got me to run for this office is a Democrat who's a Democratic election lawyer. I'm being endorsed by Democrats.

People are more ready than ever before to look at the candidates and to look at solutions. That's how it should be. I don't want people voting for me simply because of party affiliation. I want people to say, "I care about solutions," or, "I want to move the county forward." That's how we should vote in every election.

We're very excited about the climate. It's unfortunate that there's so much well deserved frustration with Washington D.C.

You've said in a previous interview with the Weekly in Issue #750 that Washington D.C. is in a state of gridlock and dysfunction. Tell us about what you will do differently.

Elan: Push the issues that we care about. It's not a mystery. We care about the flight of businesses and jobs in California. People care about schools and education. The fact that our schools, by and large, [are] not worthy of our children, that's unacceptable in this country and in this state. People are concerned about safety about protecting American families.

The way to make a difference is to say, "This is what I was elected to do [and] this is what I'm going to do," and to reach across the aisle and compromise and say, "Let's put labels, party and blame aside."

I was interviewed by a reporter [who] was baiting me and said, "Are you running against the President?" I said, "I'm not running against anybody." I'm running for a better future. There's plenty of blame to go around. If we want to portion blame both sides can do that with quite some justification, but I'm not interested in doing that. However, we got into the mess that we're in. Fine, let's now talk about a better future, about moving the country forward. I think that's what voters want, that's what voters deserve; moving the country forward, and that's what our elected leaders should be doing.

Kevin McCarthy (R-Bakersfield) was recently named as House Majority Leader. Do you feel this is good for California?

Elan: I think it is. He's a good guy, I know him. He's very conscientious and I think he'll do a terrific job. I'm actually very excited about it.

You mentioned that the education system is not worthy of our children. What would you specifically do to improve the education system?

Elan: I'm a gang prosecutor. I prosecute 17, 18, 19-year-old kids. I get to know my defendants, I see where they come from and it's heart wrenching. They come from ruined communities [and] ruined schools.

Classrooms need to be safe, disciplined [and] nurturing places for our children. When class gets out, there needs to be after school programs so that our kids don't have to define themselves and derive self-worth from criminal street gangs. That's why they go to street gangs. Gangs offer them peer support. Gangs offer them a feeling of importance, of power, and of self-actualization. Everyone wants to feel important [and] everyone wants to feel that they're doing something. Shame on us for not giving them healthy, safe vehicles for doing that and they have to derive this sustenance from criminal street gangs.

A classroom is a place of structure and discipline. You can't learn if a teacher is not invested, passionate and competent. It doesn't create a safe learning environment. I'm not saying all [classrooms are like that]. I'm a product of a public education. I went to a public high school, Dahlia went to a public high school, and we both went to public universities. We know that public school can work. I'm not in any way suggesting that there aren't wonderful examples, we're products of it. But that shouldn't be the exception. That should be the rule. In far too many cases, especially in the inner cities, schools are a place of total chaos and gang activity.

I'm very proud to have the endorsement of a very publicly involved Democrat; he was president of Harvard Democrats. He grew up in an El Salvadorian neighborhood [in a Los Angeles inner-city] who had to tutor gang members for protection. That's crazy that we have schools like that. [He] is an example of a terrific kid who worked hard and ended up getting a scholarship to Brentwood School, then a scholarship to Harvard University and became president of Harvard Democrats. Now, he's an inner-city teacher [and] came back to L.A. to try to fix the problems that he grew up with. I'm so proud leaders like that are endorsing me.

Now, how would I do that? Federal appropriations. We appropriate a lot of money [and] a lot of it's wasted. We need to be smarter in the way we appropriate money. When the federal government appropriates money for education there has to be targets [for] after school programs and job training in the schools. We all know about targets that exist now, [such as] the common core, but what about teachers [being] paid at a certain level that's indexed to the average salary in a community? That would overnight elevate the teaching profession to the place it should be. How about federal appropriate conditions that have to do with teacher accountability and that teachers have to be evaluated and be [held] accountable for their performance? These are things that can be done right away that would work immediate changes and I think we need to do it.

[There have been] decades and decades of too much talk and not enough action. Our kids are desperate for the kind of classrooms and schools that they deserve to have.

Along the lines of party splits, the Republican Party is split between the Tea Party wing and the Establishment Republicans. What do you think about that?

Elan: I think that there are always splits. There are always differences everywhere you look. There are plenty of differences of opinion in the Democratic Party. There's the left and the centrist. I think all of us need to be focused on solutions, not about labels. If I believe it's not about Democrat/Republican labels, it shouldn't be about Tea Party and left and all of these labels.

It should be about what works and what doesn't work. The truth is there's so much common ground that brings us together when you look at some [of] the disputes. Never mind Congress, Congress is especially polarized, but look at America. Look at the polarization in our country today. We need to come together and find common ground. There are always differences, and that's normal. But if we obsess about the differences that set us apart, we'll ignore the vast majority of issues and areas where we do have common ground. Our future as a country depends on us focusing on common ground.

Everyone wants safe schools. Everyone wants a good economy. Everyone wants clean air and clean water. Rather than obsess about distinctions and differences, we need to come together and move the country forward together. We're all in the same boat.

[Dahlia is a Democrat]. We don't just talk the talk, we live that way, and we agree on practically everything we [discuss].

Tell us about how the both of you met.

Dahlia: One of my friends from high school was throwing these parties for Jewish singles and he invited me. I went because my high school friends were going and I wanted to see them. It turns out that [my friend's] older brother is a fraternity brother of Elan's. Darren invited Elan, and Steve invited me, and that is where we met.

Elan: The rest is history. It was love at first sight for me. Dahlia barely remembers our conversation.

Dahlia: I know, it's so embarrassing. But I do remember that I definitely liked him, and as I was leaving I had spoken to other high school people.

Elan: We knew people there, so Dahlia knew people, I knew people. We had a great conversation but then we were also talking to our friends and mingling.

Dahlia: So I left, and the person I was with said, "Oh did you get that guy's phone number or did he get your phone number?" and I said, "Oh no, I didn't." But I can't walk back in to this party.

[Elan] was going to Israel the next day. There's a tradition where you give them money for charity to give in Israel, and it's supposed to protect them. Like God would protect them because they're on a mission to do good. That's why I went in there and I said, "I'm going to give him this dollar." But it turns out that he had already asked for my phone number.

Elan: She had left because her friends had left and I said, "Oh no, I didn't get her number." I went up to [Steve] and said, "Hey Steve, that girl Dahlia I was talking to," and he says, "Oh yah, she's a classmate of mine." And I said, "She left, I didn't get her number," and he says, "No problem, I'll get you her number."

At that point I knew I could get her number, so I was mingling with others. and then she was trying to figure out the same thing. She ended up coming back and said, "Didn't you say you were going to Israel? Here's a dollar for charity." I said, "Oh that's so nice, and by the way, I don't think I ever got your number."

Was this when you were still serving in the military?

Elan: I was, but I wasn't deployed yet. We were dating for about a year before I was mobilized for deployment. That was difficult. These deployments are far more difficult for the families who stay back. We're so busy. [When] you're on deployments, [there's] a million things to do, but [for] the families, it's tough.

How were you able to keep in touch?

Elan: We weren't engaged yet [and] it wasn't clear yet at that point what the future was.

Dahlia: We decided that we were going to...

Elan: ...stay together...

Dahlia: ...and see what happens. Thank goodness that worked out.

Elan: She didn't date anyone here in West L.A. I didn't date anyone in Iraq. I got the better end of the deal.

Dahlia: Thank goodness for technology. He was able to use a phone every now and then to call me and we were able to e-mail. We were able to stay in contact and communicate.

Elan: It's not easy to go to war, but it made me appreciate how much easier it is today than in previous generations. We have computers [and] we have phones. I was thinking [about] World War II [and] these kids went away [for] three years or two years [and] a letter takes weeks.

Dahlia: It's funny, Elan has this tradition. He calls everybody on their birthday. Every day he has a few birthday calls to make. He was able to keep [the tradition] up when he was in Iraq and many people say, "I will never forget the birthday call I received from Baghdad." He was very diligent about that.

Elan: We got engaged a few months after I got back.

Dahlia: It was worth it.

Do you still have that dollar Dahlia gave you?

Elan: No, I gave it away to charity at the Western Wall.

Dahlia: In fact he e-mailed me when he was there and said, "I just want you to know..."

Elan: ...I just gave your dollar away.

Tell us about your family.

Dahlia: We just had a baby two months ago, [Sam]. He's so sweet. We have two daughters; six and a half [year old] Hannah and three and half [year old] Rachele. They're wonderful, they're very sweet. They have us wrapped around their little fingers. They're very special. Of course every parent thinks that their kids are special, so we think that ours are very special.

Elan: [Hannah] is at Pressman [Academy] day school. [Rachele] will be joining her next year.

Dahlia, it seems like politics is new for you.

Dahlia: Elan was eleven years old when he became politically aware. I've been aware of politics, and since marrying him, [even] more so, but this experience has been very eye opening about this world that I've never been a part of, and eye-opening for Elan as well.

In what ways has it been interesting and eye-opening?

Dahlia: We've gotten to meet a lot of very interesting, passionate people who care so deeply about this country, this district [and] these cities and it's been wonderful to see.

Elan: That's the greatest pleasure. Meeting wonderful people who you admire and believe in you. It's overwhelming.

Dahlia: It's a wonderful experience. We're busy [and] we get pulled from all sides, but he takes it all with great aplomb. He handles that kind of pressure and stress very well. [Elan] as a [District Attorney]. There's a constant juggle, especially when you're on trial there's constant juggling, and he handles it very well.

How do you balance everything with your careers and family life?

Elan: We make it work [and] we're very attentive parents. We spend a lot of time together on date nights and we're there for each other and for our kids. Not everyone is like that and for us it's very important.

Dahlia: We have an incredible support system. Elan's mom and stepdad live in Westwood [and] my parents live very close by. They are very involved and they help a lot.

Elan: It's great for them and it's great for our kids who adore their grandparents. For kids to have grandparents in their lives, it's wonderful.

Dahlia: I grew up living next door to my grandparents for a long time, and I had a very close relationship with them. If you can have that, it's a wonderful gift to give to your children. We're very lucky to be able to do that.

Elan: Mine were very much in my life as well. [Though] they were not next door, they were in Israel, but very close [to me] as well.

Tell voters why you're a better candidate than your opponent Ted Lieu.

Elan: I have a track record of service. Every opportunity I've had to stand up, help people and keep people safe, I've done it. I joined the army before 9/11 because I wanted to serve. I volunteer[ed] to deploy to Iraq. In Iraq I led an anti-terrorism team. I saw the war on terrorism up close and personal. I was shot at, I was in the presence of car bombs and then I prosecuted terrorists in Iraq. When it comes to keeping people safe overseas I've got a great track record.

Then I came back here as a gang prosecutor. I deal with the most challenging issues that we can deal with. Those issues aren't just punishing criminals because it's not just about putting them in jail. It's about stopping crime before it starts and that means fixing our schools [and] taking care of our kids. As a gang prosecutor I know what it takes to take care of our kids so that they don't go to crime in the first place. I think that makes my track record different and very much relevant to what we're doing today.

Schools need to be taken care of, jobs need to be brought back to California so that when our kids graduate from schools [they] will have economic opportunity and a place to work. That's critical. I think those are the issues that voters want to hear and want to talk about and those are the issues my campaign is about. I think we're going to be able to gain a lot of traction with the voters on that from both parties.

RANK AND FILE

BHPOA President Detective David Williams discusses the new board

By Nancy Yeang

What are your goals as BHPOA President?

It might sound like a cliché, but my goal is to make the association the best association [or even better] for an agency our size.

There are a lot of perceptions of our city from outside the City of Beverly Hills, be it from people from Los Angeles, Santa Monica, [or] abroad. The law enforcement community really holds us [in] high regards. My goal is to make sure that we're not only meeting [those] positive perceptions but that we do what we can to exceed that.

Tell us more about the size of the BHPD and the perceptions that you mentioned.

We're a smaller agency. We're surrounded by the Sheriff's Department and by LAPD. LAPD [has] 10,000+ officers and with the Sheriff's Department you're talking somewhere around [10,000] or less.

Some of the perceptions they have of us are they think of the unity, camaraderie, [and] our partnership with the community. The fact that we have police and community together on our cars is something we truly mean [and] stand by. You have to believe that. It can't be a simple thought, it has to be a way of life. Every day when you go out and work, you do the best that you can to keep that police and community together. We have to keep that slogan on our cars true to light on a day-to-day basis.

The perceptions from agencies outside of us are that we have a lot of community support, that we take care of our citizens here, and that we make sure that we keep this city safe.

I've worked for three different agencies and in the police agencies that I've worked for [Beverly Hills is] unparalleled in terms of the support we get from our community. The other ones didn't even come close. They were good agencies and we went out there and we did the best that we could do. But at the end of the day, I haven't seen anything like [the BHPD's] relationship with our community.

The other thing that parallels what I said would be community outreach. I know what our agency were like 11 years ago when I started here, and I want to make sure that they always get better. At the end of the year, we [should] say we really did [well] this year, we really provided the best service that we could provide, we kept the city safe, we held people accountable [who] come to this city and try to commit crimes.

What are some of the changes you've seen throughout your time with the BHPD?

We had quite a few officers retire in the last few years and our agency has gotten very young very quick. But with good recruitment we've been able to bring on brand new officers who [are] consider[ed] pre-service; people in the academy who are hired with no prior experience with the exception of the city academy we send them to. Then we have laterals; officers who worked at other agencies with at least one year [of] experience.

I think the department has done a very good job in their efforts to replenish the amount of officers we've lost. It's created a lot of opportunity because when [officers retire] year-to-year, it takes a little bit longer for you to get certain positions or exposure to certain positions. [When] these tenured [officers] retired, it actually afforded the opportunity [for current officers,] with regard to their assignments or assignments that they were interested in, that they wouldn't have pursued until later and instead they pursued it a little bit sooner.

It's created some benefits in some ways, but there are some growing pains when you get young really quick [and] then having to reestablish your experience. That experience only comes over time.

But the quality of our work hasn't diminished. It's a matter of mak[ing] sure that we're much quicker to get people educated and maintain what our goal is day-to-day which is keeping the city safe.

We interviewed outgoing BHPOA president Detective Sergeant Michael Publicker in the Weekly's cover story issue #701. He said that he wanted to "set up succession planning so we have the younger officers and the younger generations becoming interested in the association and becoming an active part in it." What is the importance in having the younger generations become more involved in the association?

First and foremost that is an outstanding idea. With our membership, which is a very good membership, we really try to encourage younger officers to always be involved in the association. It's not a matter of simply saying, "Well I voted." Get involved with your association because your association is going to be hands on with the community. You don't want your community involvement to simply be whenever they see you in uniform [or] they've called the police because they need assistance for something.

You also want it to be a situation where [the community] want[s] to reach out and actually see and talk to the people protecting the city. That's one of the ways you can go about it, is being involved with your association.

I'm totally in agreement with succession planning. I believe that several of the officers don't know about it [and] they're not sure if they can do it. I've spoken to several officers and told them some of the new things we would like to do.

One of the things is [in the association] meetings we would like to have Skype-like system. Sometimes it's difficult [to attend meetings] for people who may have kids or they might live far away. They want that information but it's not always readily [available] to them.

Why did the BHPOA members want a new Board of Directors?

We're trying to look at something a little bit new. To a certain degree, it would probably be unfair to have any one group or any couple of individuals to confidently have to float the boat for everybody else. When your name is called, you have to be ready to get up there and say, "You know what? This needs new ideas in and let's go forward and do these different things." That's how you get people around you motivated.

I think that the entire time that I've been here there have been a couple of people on the board who have done an outstanding job. They maintain their service on the board through and through, with the exception that if they have to have a different assignment that may be conflicted with their involvement on the board. As thankful as I am for people like that [who] are dedicated and don't mind putting that kind of time in, you have almost even ask yourself, is that really fair? They're not given that opportunity to sit back and reap some of the benefits that either they've established or that people [who] have succeeded them can established.

It's a lot of work and it's not easy. In its entirety, the membership as a whole [spoke] about a lot of different ideas, and it was a matter of going into a direction where we can do a lot more outreach. We can get a lot of fresh people in, get them motivated, get them out there and be the best that we can be.

What are some of the association's challenges?

It's not so much what our challenges are. I think we have a really good membership and [a] good group of people. I don't know if I could ask for a better group of [six board members] to work with.

I don't see, when I think challenges, anything that's major. Our main thing is we have to be very disciplined, and [be] understanding [of] our relationship with our community. I'm very big on community relations. I think this was something that was taught to me when I got here. I can tell the difference when the police agency has a good relationship with their community and when the police agency is simply working in the community. The people in this town balance their rights with their responsibilities, and the mere fact that they address that they understand what the responsibilities are in the community is fantastic.

I just think that we need to make sure we're constantly breathing new breath into our relationship here and into our community and even into our agency. As long as we continue to do those things and be very disciplined about them, then our challenges can be more like tasks versus challenges.

What type of cases do you specifically work on as a detective?

I'm assigned to the high tech crimes unit. I do computer forensic examinations. Our main goal is to provide support for our detective bureau for our detectives [who] work robbery, burglary, financial fines, [and] vehicle burglary. If we have suspects [who,] for instance, we catch during the commission of a crime [and] they have a phone. We would do the phone examinations that could determine who that suspect [was] talking to, who he talked to during the time that the crime [was] being committed, [and] what text messages were sent from him to maybe associate the individual in that crime. We do that at the level of cell phones, but we go as far up as computers [and] I pads. If it's digital evidence, we bring it in, process it and give the case agency the information that they need to know to help further prosecute their cases.

– Detective David Williams

The Supreme Court recently ruled in the Riley v. California case that police must have a warrant to search cellphones or smartphones of the individuals they arrest. How has that affected what you do?

That law says that from this point forward we can no longer go into a phone without a search warrant. It used to be that if you arrested an individual and he had a phone, prior to this Supreme Court ruling, they basically felt that a cell phone would be no different than your wallet. You can look at X, Y, and Z.

Now the courts have ruled that if you want to get into a phone, because of the amount of information that's inside it, it goes beyond being considered a wallet of sorts, and therefore you're going to need a search warrant.

You have to have good reason and probable cause [for a search warrant.] This has to be all spelled out and provided to a judge. We've done that in the past under the circumstances where it wasn't an incident to arrest. We've had to write warrants where maybe we arrest the person at their residence, via a search and arrest warrant, to arrest them there, take whatever property, we come back, we produce a search warrant, we take it to a judge, the judge reviews it in whole, they sign it off, and then there's a process that goes after that.

This law isn't something we're foreign to because there are situations that are going to require you to have a warrant to look at a phone. Not every phone you're going to get, you're going to automatically go into, even in the past.

This is simply an attention to detail. We totally understand it [and] no one's bitter about it. It's the law and it's our responsibility to follow the law.

How did you get involved in detective work?

I worked patrol at [the Monterey Park Police Department and the Cal State University Police], and when you come here you start off working patrol. It just so happened that the City of Beverly Hills had the opportunity to start up their own forensic unit. They were looking for collateral officers who would work patrol, or whatever their full time assignment was, and come in and learn [to] work in forensics. The full-time positions are detective positions because it involves a lot of investigations and processing of digital evidence.

I [was] interested in the collateral division. I've always been [involved in technology] and I'm into gadgets. I [applied for it,] interviewed for it and I got the opportunity to come into the unit. I learned a lot, and I'm still learning. It's ever changing Eventually a detective position [became] open. I maintained my collateral duty but I went into the detective bureau working with investigations in identity theft, which was very rewarding. The investigations are a little intense [since] you're dealing with a lot of information [and] a lot of data. You have a clientele of citizens, businesses and business owners. It was really an introduction to me as to how financial crimes work [and] how identity theft, fraud, and forgery work. If I had leave the unit that I am in now, I would actually go back and work in financials.

High tech crimes [are] very interesting because it gives you a slightly different perspective of how your offenders operate, on how they function, [and] on the things that they do to conceal digital evidence. It's very rewarding, I love it.

How did you come to Beverly Hills?

I used to do recruitment for both the Monterey Park Police Department as well as the Cal State University Police. I actually came across [retired officer] Ray Valdillez, who used to be a background investigator here, and he also did recruitment for Beverly Hills. We used to run into each other at the recruitment expos. I hadn't done a full year yet [and] the first time I ran into him was at Cal State L.A. and he tells me, "You ought to consider coming over to Beverly Hills," and I still didn't know a lot about Beverly Hills. I didn't think much of it. I was still in my honeymoon stage of being a full-time police officer.

After that we ran into each other about three or four more times and then he told me, "Why don't you come out to the department and I'll give you a tour."

I came out, he gave me a tour and the environment seemed very professional and very polite and I said, "Wow, this is neat. This is a little different than where I'm from." That was probably half of it.

But the true turning point that made my decision easy to come here was [when] I [went] on my ride along in 2002 with Sergeant Mark Rosen. [He's] a captain now.

When you ride with LAPD, nine times out of ten you're going to be riding with a sergeant. When you ride with San Gabriel PD, Monterey Park, or Cal State, you're going to be riding with an officer. There are only some agencies where they'll only let you ride with a supervisor.

I was enjoying the ride along and he's explaining things to me. I decided to ask him, "I'm just curious, what is the community support like here?" He looks over at me and he says, "Oh, our community loves us." My initial reaction was, "Oh really?" and he goes, "Yah." I [thought] "Well you know, that's kind of a loaded question to be asking. What was he supposed to say?" It wasn't that I didn't believe it, but I kind of expected him to say that.

[Rosen] responds to a traffic collision, and the collision was on little Santa Monica and Wilshire. He says, "We're going to go to this accident," and I said, "Okay."

When we get there, I was in a suit and tie and he was in uniform. We got out of the car, he said, "Sit tight. I'm going to walk over here and see if these people are okay."

This guy comes up behind me and he says, "How you're doing officer?" and I [said] "I'm okay." He goes, "Is everybody okay in this accident?" I said, "Oh yah, I think everybody's okay. I think it was a non-injury but we're over here to check and make sure everybody's okay." Then he looks at me, saw my badge and said, "Oh, are you in Beverly Hills?" and I said, "No." He said, "Oh, where do you work?" and I said, "I work for Cal State University Police." He said, "Are you thinking of coming over here?" and I said, "Yah, I'm in the process, I'm thinking about making the move and coming over here." Unsolicited, he looks at me and he said, "We love our police department," and I sat there and looked at him and went, "Wow."

[When] we have so much going on in the world right now, if you bring it down and talk about the communities and the struggles that different communities have to go through, for this agency to be able to maintain that kind of a relationship and rapport where people unsolicited tell people they don't even know, "We love our police department here," there's something to be said in that. I think that was the true turning point.

As a member or even as a board member of the POA, how can you not want to maintain that?

What are some upcoming events for BHPOA?

We have the pancake breakfast that's coming up. We have the Black and White Ball. We have our holiday party which involves our retirees as well as our current employees. Our retirees don't necessarily show up to talk shop, but when you get to mingle with them, it affords us the opportunity to show our retirees, look have far the department has come and we can also show our existing people, look at where we've come from.

You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. If no street address or other common designation is shown, directions to the location of the property may be obtained by sending a written request to the beneficiary within 10 days of the date of first publication of this Notice of Sale. To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of MORTON LESTER GREENBERG. A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by JEFFREY GREENBERG AND JUSTIN GREENBERG in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES. THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that JEFFREY GREENBERG AND JUSTIN GREENBERG be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 08/05/14 at 8:30AM in Dept. 5 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.
Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. ## PROJECT 15-01

CITY OF BEVERLY HILLS PROJECT ADMINISTRATION 345 FOOTHILL ROAD BEVERLY HILLS, CALIFORNIA 90210

REQUEST FOR PREQUALIFICATION OF BIDDERS AND PREQUALIFICATION INSTRUCTIONS FOR:

VARIOUS SITE & BUILDING REPAIRS FOR GREYSTONE ESTATE

Notice is hereby given that the City of Beverly Hills ("CITY") has determined that all bidders for Various Site & Building Repairs for Greystone Estate ("Projects") must be pre-qualified prior to submitting a bid on these Projects. It is mandatory that all Contractors who intend to submit bids, fully complete the prequalification questionnaire, provide all materials requested herein, and be approved by the CITY to be on the final qualified Bidders list.

Contractor's License: In accordance with provisions of Section 3300 of the California Public Contract Code, the City has determined that the Contractor shall possess a valid California Contractor's License Classes C 33 – Painting and Decorating and C39 - Roofing or other appropriate license classification under the State Contracting Code at the time the contract is bid. Failure to possess such license may render the bid non responsive and bar the award of the contract to that non responsive Bidder.

No bid will be accepted from a Contractor that has failed to comply with these requirements. If two or more business entities submit a bid as part of a Joint Venture, or expect to submit a bid as part of a Joint Venture, each entity within the Joint Venture must be separately qualified to bid. The last date to submit a fully completed questionnaire is 2:00 PM Thursday, August 7, 2014. [Insert time, including a.m. or p.m., and date - month, day, year]—Contractors are encouraged to submit prequalification packages as soon as possible, so that they may be notified of omissions of information to be remedied or of their prequalification status in advance of the prequalification deadline for this Project.

Answers to questions contained in the attached questionnaire are required. The CITY will use these documents as the basis of rating Contractors with respect to whether each Contractor is qualified to bid on the Project, and reserves the right to check other sources available. The CITY's decision will be based on objective evaluation criteria.

Pre-qualification approval will remain valid for one (1) calendar year from the date of notice of qualification, except that the CITY reserves the right during that calendar year to adjust, increase, limit, suspend or rescind the pre-qualification ratings based on subsequently learned information and after giving notice of the proposed action to the Contractor and an opportunity for a hearing consistent with the hearing procedures described below for appealing a pre-qualification determination.

While it is the intent of the prequalification questionnaire and documents required therewith to assist the CITY in determining bidder responsibility prior to bid and to aid the CITY in selecting the lowest responsible bidder, neither the fact of prequalification, nor any prequalification rating, will preclude the CITY from a post-bid consideration and determination of whether a bidder has the quality, fitness, capacity and experience to satisfactorily perform the proposed work, and has demonstrated the requisite trustworthiness.

The prequalification packages should be submitted under seal to the Office of the City Clerk, City of Beverly Hills, 455 North Rexford Drive, Room 290, Beverly Hills, CA 90210. The following should be clearly marked on the outside of the package "CONFIDENTIAL PREQUALIFICATION STATEMENT FOR VARIOUS SITE & BUILDING REPAIRS FOR GREYSTONE ESTATE"

The prequalification packages submitted by Contractors are not public records and are not open to public inspection. All information provided will be kept confidential to the extent permitted by law. However, the contents may be disclosed to third parties for purpose of verification, or investigation of substantial allegations, or in an appeal hearing. State law requires that the names of contractors applying for prequalification status shall be public records subject to disclosure, and the first page of the questionnaire will be used for that purpose.

Each questionnaire must be signed under penalty of perjury in the manner designated at the end of the form, by an individual who has the legal authority to bind the Contractor on whose behalf that person is signing. If any information provided by a Contractor becomes inaccurate, the Contractor must immediately notify the CITY and provide updated accurate information in writing, under penalty of perjury.

The CITY reserves the right to waive minor irregularities and omissions in the information contained in the prequalification application submitted, and to make all final determinations. The CITY may also determine at any time that the prequalification process will be suspended for the Project and the Project will be bid without prequalification.

Contractors may submit prequalification packages during regular working hours on any day that the offices of the CITY are open. Contractors who submit a complete prequalification package will be notified of their qualification status no later than ten business days after submission of the information.

The CITY may refuse to grant prequalification where the requested information and materials are not provided by the due date indicated above. There is no appeal from a refusal for an incomplete or late application, but re-application for a later project is permitted. Neither the closing time for submitting prequalification packages for this Project will be changed in order to accommodate supplementation of incomplete submissions, or late submissions, unless requested by the CITY in its sole discretion.

In addition to a contractor's failure to be pre-qualified pursuant to the scoring system set forth in the prequalification package, a contractor may be found not prequalified for either omission of or falsification of, any requested information.

Where a timely and completed application results in a rating below that necessary to pre-qualify, an appeal can be made by the unsuccessful Contractor. An appeal is begun by the Contractor delivering notice to the CITY of its appeal of the decision with respect to its prequalification rating, no later than two business days following notification that it is not pre-qualified. The notice of appeal shall include an address where the Contractor wishes to receive notice of the appeal hearing. Without a timely appeal, the Contractor waives any and all rights to challenge the decision of the CITY, whether by administrative process, judicial process or any other legal process or proceeding.

If the Contractor gives the required notice of appeal, a hearing shall be conducted no earlier than five business days after the CITY's receipt of the notice of appeal and not later than five business days prior to the date of the Notice Inviting Bids for this Project. Prior to the hearing, the Contractor shall, in writing, be advised of the basis for the City's pre-qualification determination.

The hearing shall be conducted by a panel consisting of three members of the Department of Capital Assets senior management staff (the "Appeals Panel"). The Appeals Panel shall consider any evidence presented by the Contractor, whether or not the evidence is presented in compliance with formal rules of evidence. The Contractor will be given the opportunity to present evidence, information and arguments as to why the Contractor believes it should be pre-qualified. Within one day after the conclusion of the hearing, the Appeals Panel will render a written determination as to whether the Contractor is pre-qualified. It is the intention of the CITY that the date for the submission and opening of bids will not be delayed or postponed to allow for completion of an appeal process.

Please contact Julio Guerrero at the Office of Project Administration, at jguerrero@beverlyhills.org for any procedural questions or concerns regarding this project.

Don't sell your life insurance policy until you know the rules!

Most people over the age of 70, who want to sell their old insurance policies for more than their cash surrender value, are not getting the most money from their assets.

AVOID RISKS OF INSURANCE FINANCING STRATEGIES

Others, who expect to create "something from nothing", participate in insurance financing plans without having full knowledge of the chances they are taking. You can avoid these risks by becoming informed of established procedures and you won't make costly mistakes.

Alan Kaye Insurance Agency is a leader in the field of insurance and estate planning with over 40 years of experience. We work with most of the major life insurance companies and have access to their resources to be able to provide the latest in planning strategies.

THREE ESSENTIAL RULES THAT CAN PREVENT YOU FROM MAKING COSTLY DECISIONS

- Provide full and accurate descriptions of all offers relating to the sale of your policy.
- Acquire at least five offers from unrelated insurance purchasing companies.
- Complete background checks on potential purchasers to make sure they are financially and commercially acceptable firms to do business with.

ARE YOU COMPLETING A LIFE INSURANCE SETTLEMENT OR JUST SETTLING?

What kind of insurance professional is helping you sell your old life insurance policy? Are you dealing with a life settlement specialist? Are you represented by a licensed professional with E&O Insurance that covers life settlements? Has your agent explained the risks involved in financing your life insurance?

Call us today to find out what your insurance is really worth and we will help you decide whether to sell, surrender, keep or replace your old insurance policy.
