Correction Issue #788

• An editing mistake in the article, “K-3 grade has higher student-to-teacher ratio, second grade class to have additional staffing,” incorrectly identified the hard cap. The student-to-teacher hard cap was maintained at 20:1, with Board of Education Vice President Brian Goldberg and Board members Lewis Hall and Lisa Korbatov voting to maintain the hard cap, and Board President Noah Margo and Board member Howard Goldstein against maintaining the hard cap. The article indicated that the student-to-ratio hard cap was raised to 21:1.

• In the article, “Bloom honors El Rodeo Volunteer Kassorla,” El Rodeo parent Jackie Kassorla was honored by Assemblymember Richard Bloom for 20 years of service setting up volunteer time to develop and fund eco-education green garden programs for schools and charities across the country, which includes El Rodeo.

“What’s in a Name? Some question whether BHUSD’s naming policy is being administered effectively” [Issue #788]

I have received and read Michael Libow’s e-mail drafted to a plethora of recipients. His position and allegations are both shameful and disgraceful.

Facts do not lie. The facts are that Mr. Libow paid $35,000 for a sprawling naming of the main quad of El Rodeo, which is a permanent fixture. The price at El Rodeo for the computer lab, hidden up on the second floor is $50,000. Then the kindergarten playground is priced at $150,000, despite it being in a location vastly inferior in visibility to the main quad of the school. So the most prime area was given to Mr. Libow at 80 percent less than the price of the playground? And speaking of $150,000 kindergarten play areas, funny how Mr. Libow landed the Hawthorne kindergarten playground for just $21,000, not $150,000. The sum of $21,000 doesn’t even get you a classroom at the end of the hall on the third floor! And let’s not overlook the main atrium of Beverly Vista carries his name for $21,750, when the teacher’s lounge at the same school costs more than double that amount. So someone at The Foundation or the Board of Education needs to explain to the people of this city how this came about. Now I realize that Mr. Libow repeatedly suggests in his email that I am ignorant, but even through the ignorant label he has bestowed upon me, I was able to figure out standard math and unusual circumstances.

Please understand that I am beyond appreciative to people who donate to the school and I am very appreciative of Mr. Libow's desire to donate at all. However, the act of philanthropy cannot demand a reward so greatly disproportionate to that which has been donated and cannot result in the donor receiving a lifetime applause totally inconsistent with the very published naming benefits released by The Foundation. The fact that Mr. Libow still remains comfortable with his prize in relation to his donation, especially in light of the factual revelation that the El Rodeo quad naming was given away for such an inequitable amount, surprises me. He is free to do as he wishes. I guess we will wait and see.

Finally, Mr. Libow's allegation that homophobia was behind my criticism of the naming, is both outrageous and irresponsible. I suppose, however, that in these times, throwing out the homophobia card has become a common tool to make everyone stand down and drop everything. It seems to scare everyone. If Mr. Libow, as he made a point to write, suffered bullying as a child at the hands of terrible people who taunted him over his weight and sexual preference, then he was indeed wronged by others. However, none of that has anything whatsoever to do with the facts presented here.

Marty Halfon
Beverly Hills

I'm disappointed by the one-sided coverage Beverly Hills Weekly displayed in its article on the Michael J. Libow naming at El Rodeo this week. The digital and print editions of the paper ran a photo and gave valuable inches of column space to a community member who is not an elected official, nor a member of the board entrusted with naming policies. Mr. Halfon is blissfully ignorant as to the difficulties facing our public schools' fundraising organizations, as well as unaware of the ways in which donations are serviced and of the naming policies, themselves.

Where are the voices of the knowledgeable others, who were available for comment and who, when asked, put comments on the record? Others who hold publicly elected offices and board positions in the district and the Foundation. Others who serve as district officials and volunteers. Others who invest their passion, time and efforts in the quest for increased funding for our public schools, rather than those who toss snide verbal Molotov cocktails from the sideline, safely after the fact of the donations given. Others who, when given the choice between philanthropy and criticism, choose to always give the former and eschew the latter.

Any who claim that they didn't know of existing philanthropic naming opportunities is being disingenuous. Or, perhaps, they don't read our community's newspapers - which cover every school site ribbon-cutting and naming ceremony. Or, perhaps they don't enter the five campuses, each of which has several "named" rooms, buildings, halls, and other spaces.

I, and many others, question the motives of those who criticize the generous donors who have chosen to give to our schools - whether in naming opportunities, targeted giving, or in any other board-approved manner. At this moment, I'm aware of no significant wave of negative reaction to the recent Libow naming at El Rodeo. There is no outcry from elected officials, BHUSD officers, or fellow philanthropists whose names have become forever associated in our district with our children's education: names like Bosse, Nazarian, Konheim, Salter, Cherney and Nickoll to point out only a few.

Beverly Hills Weekly chose to ignore the voices of generous fellow givers, of the all-too silent majority of grateful parents and students, and of the knowledgeable insiders. (Note: the short, obtuse quote from Ronit Stone hardly reflects the respect she should be given as the President of the BHEF) Instead, the paper elevated Libow's critic (and competitor, in the world of Beverly Hills real estate) to a seemingly level playing field, giving him "free PR" with a photo and quotes under the guise of a news story. There is no news here, other than a community member has stepped up, once again, and donated generously, under BHEF, district, and board guidelines. And in the aftermath, as the adage says, "No good deed goes unpunished." Shall we continue to make it more and more uncomfortable to volunteer? To give? To donate?

The tiny handful of critics who have chosen to question the recent generous donation by Mr. Libow assail this as a vastly underpriced but extremely valuable marketing opportunity. I know Michael Libow. That is not, in any way, how he views his ongoing donations to our K-8's and to the high school. But to these critics, I say: "The naming policies are in place. The prices are set. If, as you state, this is such an exceptional and cheap opportunity for philanthropy (and/or self-promotion), there are multiple such opportunities waiting for your name. The Foundation's phone lines are open. I expect that we'll be hearing from you today."

Jonathan Prince
Beverly Hills

The Board of Directors of the Beverly Hills Education Foundation ("BHEF") wishes to correct information contained in the article that appeared in The Weekly concerning the generous donation by Mr. Michael Libow to BHEF and clarify misconceptions related thereto:

The donation made for the naming for the El Rodeo courtyard was $35,000.

The current available naming opportunities (published in The Weekly) were approved by the Board of Education at a public meeting.

Naming opportunities are open to parents, alumni, community members (and others!) who are interested in supporting our public schools.

Funds raised by BHEF, including $600,000 BHEF donated already this year, directly benefit students, teachers and schools in BHUSD. Please see our website for more information

Since its inception in 1978, BHEF has given millions of dollars to our schools to save existing programs and support new programs throughout our district, including art and music, robotics, STEM, counseling, foreign language, athletics, and many, many more. Just this year, BHEF underwrote the cost of a new position at the high school, the Dean of College Admissions.

BHEF is working with the district leadership and community members to create donor recognition opportunities throughout the district, including naming opportunities at profit hospitals, and other charitable organizations that rely on private support to ensure quality of service for their constituents.

Our twin goals at BHEF are to support the current needs of our students and to supplement our existing endowment to ensure excellence in our schools for years to come. Namings like Mr. Libow's help us meet our goals

Mr. Libow, a graduate of our public schools (Hawthorne and Beverly High) has demonstrated deep support of our schools over the years, donating well in excess of $100,00 to BHEF (in addition to support of our individual sites through their PTAs), joining the ranks of other very philanthropic Beverly Hills families who over the years have donated significant funds to our schools and have had areas of our schools named accordingly - the Salters, the Bosses, the Nazarians, the Cherneys, the Konheims, the Nickolls, to name a few.

We applaud Mr. Libow and the other generous souls in our community who have given and continue to give in support of our schools, whether they do so anonymously or

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF BEVERLY HILLS AMENDING THE BEVERLY HILLS MUNICIPAL CODE TO ESTABLISH AN HISTORIC INCENTIVE PERMIT

The proposed Ordinance would amend various sections of Chapter 3 of Title 10 of the Beverly Hills Municipal Code regarding Historic Preservation for the purpose of incentivizing the protection of significant historic resources by providing a permit process by which owners of locally designated historic landmark properties may request deviations from certain development standards set forth in the Beverly Hills Municipal Code. The proposed Ordinance would establish provisions for a new entitlement called the Historic Incentive Permit and would set forth the requirements and procedures for review and approval of those permits.

A resolution recommending City Council adoption of the Ordinance was previously reviewed and adopted by the Planning Commission on October 23, 2014.

This Ordinance has been assessed in accordance with the authority and criteria contained in the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), the State CEQA Guidelines, and the environmental regulations of the City. The City has determined that the adoption and implementation of the Ordinance will not have a significant environmental impact. The City Council will consider the recommendation to find the Ordinance exempt from the environmental review requirements of CEQA pursuant to Section 15061(b)(3) of Title 14 of the California Code of Regulations, as well as Sections 15308 and 15331 because adoption of this ordinance is an action to protect and preserve historic resources.

At the public hearing, the City Council will hear and consider all comments. All interested persons are invited to attend and speak on this matter. Written comments may also be submitted and should be addressed to the City Council, c/o City Clerk, 455 N. Rexford Drive, Beverly Hills, CA 90210. with acknowledgement, whether they give $100 or $100,000. Giving is the answer. Questioning why someone gives is counter-productive.

We welcome ongoing input from the community, and the opportunity to engage in meaningful dialogue with any families or organizations that have interest in supporting our effort to guarantee continued quality in our public schools, and we look forward to working with prospective donors on ways to support our schools and commemorate their gifts. We encourage anyone, including current and former parents, alumni and community members who wish to support our schools to call BHEF at (310) 557-0651 or email president@thefoundation.org and explore the available naming and other giving opportunities.

A big thank you to Lili Bosse and Julian Gold for everything you have done for Beverly Hills.

Now that you have chosen to keep the ball rolling in the right direction with your re-election bids, I just hope that no one else runs for City Council so you both can focus on your jobs and not on an election process.

Besides, we just went through that and it is time to enjoy this upcoming most festive time of year.

Land to not seek re-election; Prang has yet to resign

Assessor candidate Jeffrey Prang has yet to resign from his West Hollywood Councilmember position as of November 10.

If Prang were to win the Assessor race, he would need to resign from his seat on the West Hollywood City Council. He has until before he is sworn in as Assessor to resign.

Should Prang resign, the West Hollywood City Council would need to appoint someone to fill Prang's seat for the remainder of his term, or call a special election. Since Prang did not resign on November 9 in time to have his seat consolidated with the March election, a special election would be held on June 2 if the City Council does not appoint a temporary councilmember.

The cost of a special election to the City of West Hollywood would be approximately $100,000 to $150,000.

Meanwhile, West Hollywood Councilmember Abbe Land will not seek re-election in March.

Abbe Land

Land has served on the City Council for 18 years, and served as the city's Mayor five times. Along with Land, West Hollywood Mayor John D'Amico's and Mayor pro-tempore John Heilman's seats will be up in the March 3 election according to West Hollywood City Clerk Yvonne Quarker.

Land was first elected in 1986 to fill a vacancy when Mayor Valerie Terrigno resigned after being convicted on federal charges of embezzling money from a non-profit organization.

In 2012, Land was named executive director and CEO of Trevor Project, a non-profit organization focused on suicide prevention among LGBT young people. According to WEHOville, Land's job requires a lot of travel and attention.

Land could not be reached for comment.

EBI defaults on contract

The BHUSD's campus security program, Evidence Based, Inc. (EBI), will no longer provide services to the BHUSD campuses due to financial difficulties, the BHUSD announced on November 6.

BHPD field training officers and beat officers will be responsible for checking on the schools responding to calls for service. There will be no cost to the school district, according to Lieutenant Lincoln Hoshino.

Previously, the School Resource Program that was provided by the BHPD was eliminated due to budget cuts.

According to the press release, "while the district has fulfilled its contractual and payment obligations to EBI, EBI has undergone a series of financial difficulties that have placed the firm near bankruptcy." To provide financial relief to EBI, the District was open to changing the contract.

The City Council approved to cover half of EBI's cost to the district for the 2014-2015 school year on an October 21 meeting, which would have been $440,712 of the total $881,423.

Campus safety officers had not received a paycheck for three weeks from EBI, according to the press release.

EBI campus security officers' hourly wages were between $25-35, based on their contract, with the majority of the officers earning $30-$35 an hour.

Other costs includes $3,500-$4,500 in equipment issued to each officer, which includes uniforms and computer and radios compatible with BHPD frequencies. Each school site has a safety officer vehicle, which are leased at $10,000 per vehicle per year from EBI, and includes insurance, fuel, and maintenance.

The BHUSD gave a notice of termination on November 4, and according to contract stipulations, EBI would have to continue providing its services for nine days after the notice.

On November 5 at approximately 10:30 am, EBI informed its officers that the termination was effective immediately, and vacated the campuses the same day.

"Due to EBI's termination of the campus officers, the officers are currently without the necessary insurances required to perform services on the District's campuses," the press release stated. "The District and former EBI Supervisor Joe Chirillo are feverishly working to find the necessary elements to affect a rapid solution."

EBI's contract was to expire in May 2015, when it would go out for a competitive bid. Originally, EBI's contract was not selected out of a bid process.

EBI's Campus Safety Program Vice President Joe Chirillo, a retired BHPD Lieutenant, did not return phone calls from the Weekly.

Assistant Attorney General David Hansen said that Cole has yet to take responsibility for his acts, according to the Tribune. Cole has been allowed to live in California with an electronic monitoring device since March 2013. Hansen said that Cole has not paid the $9,000 bill for the service.

Cole was arrested in September 2012 in Dana Point in connection to a failed artificial sweetener business deal between Mamtek and the City of Moberly, Missouri involving a $39 million bond. An additional $8 million in funding came from private investors, and another $500,000 in grants and services from Moberly. The Weekly covered the charges in issue #677's cover story.

Further investigations by the Attorney General's Office and Randolph County Prosecuting Attorney Mike Fusselman showed that Cole used more than $700,000 in Mamtek funds for his own use, including $281,046 to stop the foreclosure of his Beverly Hills home. Investigators determined that Cole knowingly made false promises of bringing over 600 jobs to the city of 14,000 residents.

"Cole lied to the people of Moberly and conned investors in his project in order to steal hundreds of thousands in bond money for himself," Missouri Attorney General Chris Koster said in a press release. "Today's prison sentence brings a measure of closure to the pursuit of justice for Moberly."

WHERE A MAN STANDS

Beverly High Principal Carter Paysinger and former Board of Education member Steven Fenton on their recently released memoir

By Nancy Yeang

The subhead of the book, “the true story of an unlikely leader and an unlikely friendship,” what does that mean?

CARTER: I came from South Los Angeles. At the time that I was in Los Angeles it was just called Los Angeles. Since I was a kid, it became South Central LA and now it's South Los Angeles.

As a student, coming from my neighborhood into Beverly Hills was unlikely, but it happened. Being a leader, not just attending the school or coming to work at the school, but being a leader at Beverly High is considered to be unlikely.

STEVEN: Carter and I come from different races, different religions, different economic backgrounds, but we are the same person. We share the same set of values, morals and ethics. We're teammates who have always been stronger together than apart.

CARTER: Throughout the years I've developed great relationships with many families in the city. Steven and the Fentons were one of the first families that I've established a great relationship with.

But that friendship [and] the fact that it was unlikely for me to attend school at Beverly Hills, or even work here in Beverly Hills, lends to that subtitle.

Why did you want to write the book, and why did you want to write the book together?

STEVEN: The idea for the book came from our agent, Lacy Lynch [who is a senior literary agent and TV/Film representative at Dupree/Miller & Associates.] They represent a lot of people in the inspirational space [like Tony Robbins, Maria Shriver, Joel Osteen, Dr. Phil and the late Stephen Covey] and I think that's why they responded so favorably to our story.

[Lynch] asked me if I would be interested in writing a book with Carter.

CARTER: My initial thoughts were, “I really don't have the time to do that.” I really wasn't interested in it at first but then thought about it and agreed to do it.

Carter, when you first went to Beverly High you said you had “one foot in the door and one foot in the hood.” Was there ever a moment in Beverly High when you felt like you could be who you are?

CARTER: I've always had a strong sense of who I am.

In Beverly Hills, I had great friendships when I was a student here. I didn't try to pretend to be wealthy or anything like that. When I was in the neighborhood that I grew up in, I felt that I had great relationships there and I was being me there as well.

The only thing was that I just kept my two worlds separate. I very rarely had my friends from my neighborhood join me and come with me to any functions in Beverly Hills and vice versa.

Tell us about how the both of you met.

STEVEN: I met Carter when I tried out for the freshman baseball team in 1985. I had heard quite a bit about him from my brother Gary who was a junior at the time. My brother used to film all the football games and was a member of the baseball team. He spoke very highly of Carter.

CARTER: I knew Steven's dad, Frank [Fenton]. He was a School Board member and I was a young teacher and coach. Frank and I had a good, pleasant relationship

When Steven was trying out for the baseball team, I noticed right away that he was the smallest kid out there trying out.

STEVEN: I think I was about 5' 1", barely 100 pounds. I had just finished playing junior varsity soccer and before that freshman football.

CARTER: But [Steven was] probably the most intense and determined kid out there and he reminded me of myself, because when I came to Beverly I was one of the smallest kids trying out for the baseball team. I knew I had to impress the coaches and everyone around, and I wanted everyone to know that I belonged on the baseball team. That's exactly what I saw in Steven. He just stood out right away.

We both played the same position. He was a second baseman and I was a second baseman. He could play and I felt like I could play, but because of our size and not knowing anyone, I thought it was important for me to really show what I could do and I got that same feeling all over again watching Steven.

Steven, did you make a point to introduce yourself so directly to Carter since you've heard about him before?

STEVEN: I did. I went up and introduced myself to him right away at the beginning of tryouts.

I had the great fortune as having Carter as my coach all four years at Beverly.

What about when the both of you reunited?

STEVEN: Right out of college, I started my career in the mailroom of the William Morris Agency. I led a very fast life in the entertainment industry. The faster I ran the further away Carter became. I didn't realize back then how destabilizing that was for me.

For many years in my 20s and into my 30s, I would go over to Beverly [High]. That was my safe haven, that baseball field. When no one was around, I would lie down at my position at second base. Looking for a sign, looking for strength, trying to reconnect again to my former life.

I was in a very bad place in my life during my mid 30s. Like so many nights in the past I drove to Beverly [High]. I got out of my car and the door to the Konheim athletic building was open. I decided to walk through.

CARTER: Close to 20 years after [Steven] graduated, [the football team and I] we were out in the football field [and] we were coming into the locker room.

STEVEN: All of a sudden I started to hear the clicking and clacking of cleats. I lifted my head up and there were two kids in a football uniform walking towards me. The kids suddenly turned to the right to go into the team locker room.

CARTER: Then that hallway that leads into the locker room I was just kind of standing there, and I saw this guy walking toward me. [He] looked like he could have been a parent, but the closer he got to me I recognized immediately who he was.

STEVEN: Carter appeared from behind [the kids]. There he was right in front of me. It turns out it was halftime of a football game. I looked at Carter and Carter looked at me. I put my arms around him and gave him what felt like the hug of a lifetime.

CARTER: I was just excited to see [Steven].

He was one of my favorite students. It was like we hadn't lost touch at all, like nothing had ever changed.

Carter, in the book you wrote, “There would be times I would be judged by my appearance and not the content of my character. Sometimes it would be subtle and easy to forget – like hearing the click of a car door locking as I walk by – and sometimes it would be more difficult to shrug off.” Do you still feel the same way?

CARTER: Not as much, but it still happens and not just in Beverly Hills. I was raised to feel that these types of issues are not my issues, not my problem. I just happen to be who I am.

You refer to what your mom told you, “It's not enough for you to be as good as everybody else, you have to be better than them,” several times throughout the book.

CARTER: My parents really followed Martin Luther King Jr. and that was one of the things that they would preach: “Be the best that you could possibly be.” My mom and dad instilled that philosophy into our entire family. It's not good enough to be good. You have to be better than the person that you're competing against, regardless of what it's for.

In fact, I can hear her still saying, “Whatever it is you choose to do, you be the absolute best at it.”

You just strive to be the best at it. I spent most of my younger life playing sports, and it just fed right into that culture.

In the book you wrote, “We’re working our butts off because our work is important. But what if Beverly isn’t the same school anymore? What if it’s turning into something else altogether?” In what ways did Beverly High change?

STEVEN: During those days it was very difficult for people to get promoted from within. I don’t think they put a premium on continuity, hard work or loyalty.

CARTER: Over a 15-year period, we had a huge turnover in leadership. Superintendents were coming and going, district office personnel were coming and going, and then some of my mentors were leaving and that was really concerning to me. Ben Bushman, Chuck Kloes, Dick Douglas – they were all retiring or seeking other employment.

These were guys that I looked up to when I was a student here, and they were teachers. Then [I came] back to work with them and they became my mentors. After a while, I’m seeing these guys leave one at a time. Leaving because of the change in the direction, the change in leadership. I wasn’t sure what the district’s goals were anymore. I thought, “Well how much longer should I stay before I leave?”

That’s when I paid more attention to what was going on and I needed to look at all of my options at the time.

STEVEN: There was very little continuity left in the school district. The institutional knowledge was eroding quickly.

Why do you think that this was happening?

CARTER: At the time, I was told there was a philosophy of doing away with the old and starting new. I don’t think anyone wanted to even start by trying to connect the old with the new. For me, that was like trying to reinvent the wheel. We had been so good for so long and to just sever ties with the old and to start brand new was probably not the best way to go. I was a witness to all of it.

STEVEN: The school district was going through an identity crisis for a very long time.

To put it in baseball terms, if you’re a hitter and experiencing a slump, you’re probably going to change your stance, your swing, even the bat you’re using. Whatever it takes to end that slump. I think the school district had tired so many different ways to end their slump that the district didn’t know who it was anymore. There was very little institutional knowledge left.

Given the recent “Program Improvement” developments, do you feel it’s on the right track?

CARTER: Beverly High is one of the best high schools, not only in our state, but in the country.

STEVEN: This is the responsibility of the Board of Education. As [Board member] Brian Goldberg likes to say, “the buck stops with the Board of Education.” Maybe there needs to be a “Program Improvement” designation for the school boards.

Steven, You originally wanted to run form the City Council, and then changed your mind to run for the Board of Education 2007. Why?

STEVEN: My original goal was to run for my dad’s seat on the city council. After doing research on the district, I felt I could be more impactful as a member of the school board. I had a vision for how to get the district back on track.

Carter, you wrote that you dad said, “But in California some people will smile at you and pretend they like you, and all along they have a white sheet in their closet.” How did you feel when the people you thought would support you in becoming a principal didn’t?

CARTER: I was disappointed during the process. When Steven and I first talked about this, I told Steven that I didn’t think it would be easy. I thought that there would be some opposition. I didn’t think Steven really understood that, but it turned out that the both of us didn’t understand the depth of the opposition.

I think the majority of the people that didn’t speak on my behalf were quietly supportive. I have some great relationships in the city of Beverly Hills with many families and I think that the support had been there all along.

It’s much easier, especially with issues that are controversial, to stay neutral, and you can

The book is available on amazon.com and barnesandnoble.com. Heaven is for Real producer T.D. Jakes recently acquired film rights to the memoir.

Steven and Carter will hold a book signing at Porta Via on Wednesday, November 19 from 5:30 pm to 7:30 pm stay neutral by not saying anything. I think that that was the case. I think that it was safer for people to support me silently than to declare one way or the other.

The book ends with Steven’s marriage to Leeza Gibbons, and Carter’s achievements as Beverly High Principal and his daily routine. What’s next for the both of you?

STEVEN: I’m looking forward to serving my community again in the future.

CARTER: I’m driven to continue to work as hard as I can to make sure that Beverly [High] is one of the best high schools in the country.

Also, and I talk about it in the book, my faith is what helps keep me going. Family, friends and faith is what I live by.

Belk and Snowden release joint video statement on internal investigation results

Police Chief David Snowden and television producer Charles Belk released a joint video statement on November 4 on internal investigation results after the producer was mistakenly arrested in August.

“Our department has conducted an internal review of the events surrounding Mr. Belk’s arrest and identified areas that could and should have been handled differently,” Snowden said.

Brianna Klouste was arrested by the BHPD at the Citbank on Wilshire on August 22. She was wanted by the FBI and LAPD for a series of bank robberies that took place in the course of over two years.

Belk was in the area of the bank robbery and was misidentified by a witness.

“Further investigation ultimately determined that the second subject in the bank was not involved in the robbery,” according to a statement released by Snowden. “This subject was an irate customer whose actions were misinterpreted by the witness.”

“The errors or shortcomings identified are all foundational principles of good basic police work both at the field officer level and the investigator level,” the statement said. “An officer must follow up on all leads, verify facts, and seek to apprehend the guilty while attempting to exonerate the innocent.”

The BHPD acknowledged that they did not provide a phone call for Belk while he was detained, and the five-hour period that Belk was held in custody could have been shortened if the police department had reviewed video evidence earlier.

“I truly understand that law enforcement officers have a really tough job to do and I get the basis for why I was initially stopped,” Belk said. “I look forward to working with the city to address the issues that followed though from that stop.”

Belk will produce a training video based on lessons learned from his experience and make it available for free to any law enforcement agency. He will make himself available for personal appearances to BHPD personnel “to describe the perspectives of an innocent man... to help further sensitize law enforcement to the impacts that their actions can have.”

Belk has also raise more awareness for the “#autoerase” campaign to help erase arrest records for innocent people, and seek administrative and legislative changes. He has also launched a new nonprofit organization “Fitting the Description” which will build awareness and assistance to individuals who are wrongfully detained or arrested.

Neuromuscular Disease Foundation to honor Bendetson and Sharf

The Neuromuscular Disease Foundation (NDF) is holding their Black and White ball honoring Heidi Bendetson and Stacy Sharf with the Advocate’s Award tonight at The Beverly Hills Hotel.

Bendetson is a board member at Beit T’shuvah, which is a residential treatment center and synagogue. There, she brought volunteer designers together to change the residents’ dormitories into inviting living spaces where they can feel respected and cared for while healing.

Sharf is active with Beit T’shuvah Design Project and Volunteers of America-Blue Butterfly Village. Both organizations renovate and decorate housing units for homeless female veterans and their children and for people in recovery.

Bendetson and Sharf founded the LA Jewish Genetic Disease Prevention Project to screen for specific genetic diseases. Over 300 people have been screened so far. The goal of LA Jewish Genetic Disease Prevention Project is to provide low cost screenings to all Jews of child-bearing age to inform them on their carrier status.

The nonprofit organization, NDF, was founded in 2006 to raise HIBM awareness and help fund for neuromuscular disease, including HIBM, research and treatment. HIBM is a rare genetic disorder that causes the muscle to waste and get weaker.

The black and white formal attire event will begin at 7:00 p.m. with cocktails and the dinner and program will begin at 8:00 pm.

Adrienne K Polish features non-toxic formula

Aesthetician Adrienne Kahen is ready to launch her new, non-toxic, nail polish line, Adrienne K Polish, in mid-December.

“I love nail polish,” Kahen said. “When I had the opportunity to make the non-toxic [nail polish] that was more of an incentive for me [to pursue it].”

Adrienne K Polish is a “Five Free” nail polish, meaning it doesn’t contain five carcinogens that are present in other nail polishes: formaldehyde, formaldehyde resin, toluene, DBP (dibutylphthalate) and camphor.

Exposure to carcinogens has been linked to asthma, cancer, and reproductive problems in peer-reviewed studies.

Phthalates, some of which are banned in Europe but not in the U.S., are used to make nail polish flexible and chip resistant. Formaldehyde vapors are an irritant and can trigger asthma. Formaldehyde resin can also be an allergen.

Adrienne Kahen

Adrienne K Polish

Toluene is a skin and respiratory tract irritant. Camphor has been used in medicine as a counter-irritant for infections and in the treatment of pain and itching. It also acts as a cover on nails, which deprives them of nutrients and causes yellow staining.

There are not many “Five Free” nail polish products available, Kahen said.

“Unfortunately, nail polishes cannot be made entirely with organic ingredients to this day and my goal is to produce the safest possible,” Kahen said. “Non-toxic is safer and more people now are more concerned on what they put on their body and what chemicals they’re exposed to. [The nail polish] is good for little hands, like toddlers, and pregnant women can feel safe to put them on.”

Other non-toxic nail polishes may be “Three Free” which typically do not contain formaldehyde, toluene and camphor.

“It will still be full of substances that make it harden,” Kahen said. “You and the person doing your nails, if it isn’t you, are still inhaling VOCs [volatile organic compounds] when [the nail polish] is being applied and removed.”

For the past year, Kahen, a Beverly High graduate, worked with a company based in the United States to help develop her USA made product and the color shades that she wanted in her line. Not only is the formula “Five Free,” but it also features a no chip or crack formula, which creates long lasting wear for the nail polish.

Kahen also owns a jewelry line, Adrienne K Jewelry.

“I can wear the nail polish on my hands along with the rings that I carry so they complement each other in a way,” Kahen said.

Adrienne K Polish will be made available in beauty supply stores and boutiques. Gift packages will be offered which feature three nail polish shades for a better price. Once the nail polish becomes available, the suggested retail price will be $10.

Visit <https://www.facebook.com/pages/Adrienne-K-Polish/582332505229675> for more details on the product.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Steven Oppenheim be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on Dec. 9, 2014 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 5 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250.
