Board of Education elects new president and vice president at organizational meeting

The installation of the 2016-2017 Board of Education officers took place on Tuesday, Dec. 6 at Beverly High.

Vice president Mel Spitz was unanimously voted president. He was sworn in by Superintendent Steve Kessler.

Board member Lisa Korbatov was unanimously named vice president. She was sworn in by Board member Noah Margo. In his speech, Spitz repeated the pledge he made one year when campaigning for election to the Board. He pledged to provide leadership to resolve financial and organizational problems, promote transparency and restore confidence within the community. He also promised to deliver results.

“Within the coming weeks we will demonstrate to staff and the community beyond the shadow of a doubt that we must stop deficit spending without delay or the District will become insolvent,” Spitz said. “Accordingly, we will reduce expenditures significantly in the upcoming school year. We have no alternative. In making decisions we will select the options that are the least impactful on the educational program. Our deliberations will be in open session, and we will encourage staff and parents to attend and provide input.”

At the installation meeting, the Board also adopted the re-stated Mission and Vision Statement. Spitz encouraged residents to go online and familiarize themselves with the statement.

“Our re-stated mission is clear and concise. It is to enable each student to achieve academic excellence and meet the goals

Mayor John Mirisch pulls nomination papers for City Council reelection

Mayor John Mirisch pulled nomination papers on Friday, Dec. 2 with the City Clerk's office for reelection to City Council during the March 7, 2017 race.

As of Monday, Dec. 5, incumbent Vice Mayor Nancy Krasne, City Treasurer Eliot Finkel, Metropolitan Water District Board member Robert Wunderlich, Traffic and Parking Commissioner Lester Friedman and resident Vera Markowitz have all filed nomination papers for the City Council election.

Planning Commissioner Howard Fisher is the only candidate for City Treasurer as of press time.

Candidates preparing to run for Council have until Dec. 9 to pull their papers and return their completed forms and signatures, presuming incumbents Mirisch and Councilmember Kathy Reims submit reelection papers. Reims pledged not to run for Council in March. The deadline will extend to Dec. 14 if she does not pull papers.

Longtime Beverly High teacher Salvatore Occhipinti leaves $200,000 to BHUSD

Salvatore Occhipinti

$200,000 to the Beverly Hills Unified School District after his death.

Board of Education Vice President Lisa Korbatov announced his donation at the Board Installation on Tuesday.

Occhipinti taught history for 35 years at the high school. He retired in 1985.

Toward the end of his career, his curriculum focused on teaching Modern Civilization. His course also hosted the infamous “Culture Vulture.”

Mayor John Mirisch had Occhipinti for 10th grade European History and remembers him as one of his favorite teachers.

“‘Culture Vulture’ became legendary at [the high school],” Mirisch said. “It was [an activity] that reminded us history is about much more than just dates and names. I’m blown away by the donation. I think it shows, not only did he make an impression on his students, but there was a mutual affection. It is one of the qualities that makes our city and our [schools] so special.”

City in search of Community Services Assistant Director

The Community Services Assistant Director position is currently vacant. The first round of interviews took place last week, according to Community Services Director Nancy Hunt-Coffey.

The Assistant Director is responsible for planning and managing services provided in the department's four main areas: the Beverly Hills Public Library, Recreation and Parks, Human Services and Administrative Support.

In addition, the Assistant Director will also support the work of the department's Recreation and Parks, Fine Arts and Human Relations Commissions.

The annual salary range for the position is $148,968 to $201,552, according to the City's brochure detailing the job description.

In an email to the Weekly, Hunt-Coffey also indicated second round interviews are expected to take place during the first part of December.

“I'd love to bring someone onboard in January [2017],” Hunt-Coffey wrote.

City officials continue to tackle challenges of going smoke free in Beverly Hills

The Health and Safety Commission engaged in a more detailed dialogue regarding the legalities behind enforcing a policy regulating smoking for multi unit housing, during the Nov. 28 meeting.

On Oct. 24, the Commission was presented with initial information on the framework for this type of policy. Some of the commissioners expressed concerns regarding the feasibility of its enforcement.

Senior Management Analyst Kevin Kearney returned to the Commission with a report explaining code enforcement may model its regulation after the “Barking Dog Enforcement Program.”

“I think this a good framework to gain a better understanding of what code enforcement [might] do once a policy like this goes through,” Kearney said.

The “Barking Dog Enforcement” model requires a series of complaints to the City, followed by warnings to the offender, before Code Enforcement officers conduct site inspections and issue citations, according to Kearney's presentation.

Code Enforcement Manager Nestor Otazu explained the citations issued are administrative and have a much lower level “preponderance of evidence than in the criminal remedy.”

“It isn't very difficult to hear dogs bark,” Otazu said. “Our observations are directly linked to someone's voluntary consent to allow us in. It does become difficult to enforce that way.”

Commissioner Myra Lurie anticipates problems with the policy's overall practice. When researching other municipalities with smoking regulations for multi unit housing, she was unable to find effective examples of enforcement.

“I don't see anywhere there has been any kind of effective enforcement that has [actually] resulted in any kind of citation or a court order,” Lurie said. “Perhaps after you go through these multiple steps of complaints, and talking to [the offender] it all works out at some stage, [but] my point is I can't see any evidence that there's been any situations where it's gone to the last step in meaningful numbers considering how much has to go into enacting [this program].”

The financial impacts are currently unknown, as the costs are dependent on the nature of the final policy design, according to the staff report. Enforcement costs will generally be associated with additional staff salaries/wages by code enforcement and/or the police, if required by the final policy outcome.

The report also noted depending on quantity of complaints, Code Enforcement may need to hire an additional secretary or a dedicated code enforcement officer.

Directly following the Commission meeting, the community was invited to an outreach session where several members of the public spoke in favor and against regulating smoking for multi unit housing.

Executive Director of Smoke Free Air for Everyone Esther Schiller explained to the Commission “there is no constitutional right to smoke.”

“The problem for landlords and condominium boards is there is a liability issue if someone gets sick,” Schiller said. “The laws that have been passed so far do require landlords to produce a no smoking lease, but not necessarily to enforce the law. It's very helpful if the City will.”

City Council has encouraged greater smoking regulations throughout the City. Kearney attended the Council meeting on Tuesday to give a short presentation about the current regulations and an update on the Health and Safety Commission's progress.

The City regulates smoking in accordance to state law. The City has also adopted additional regulations to define where smoking is permitted. The City currently regulates smoking within five feet of open air dining except while actively passing through. Smoking is also regulated in city parks and public and private plazas.

Ron Demeter asked the Council to consider matching the stricter regulations enforced in surrounding cities.

“Right now we have five feet of protection,” Demeter said. “From an enforce-

The next public outreach meeting regarding smoking regulations for multi unit housing is scheduled for Dec. 19 in the Council Chambers at City Hall.

Brad Meyerowitz

Recreation Services Manager retires after 38 years with the City of Beverly Hills

You started as a playground aide at Beverly Vista. Tell us about that.

I was working for the L.A. Unified [School District] services in 1978. The voters had just passed Proposition 13, which basically cut off a lot of the funding that went to the public school systems. The kids on my playground needed equipment, [but] we didn't have any budget once Proposition 13 passed.

I had to go out and use my own money to purchase equipment for [programs during] the summer of '78. I had already been working with kids in the recreation environment for a couple of years prior to coming to Beverly Hills.

I officially started in November of 1978 working at Beverly Vista School. It was a whole different world for me, because now I was given a catalogue and was told to order what I needed for the playground.

Here I was coming from a culture where I had to go spend my own money in order to purchase equipment. Coming to Beverly Hills, I was told to order [anything] I needed to make my programs successful. That was my introduction to Beverly Hills.

It was fantastic. It was a great introduction into the City, working with the youth. I was working with kids, Kindergarten through high school. I worked on Saturdays and a lot of the high school kids would come over and we'd have some great basketball games.

I was able to meet a lot of residents of the City. It was a blast, truly a great time.

I worked for some fantastic teachers in the school district. Russ Hillman was a longtime P.E. teacher at Beverly Vista. I worked closely with him for my first year and a half. He was a great mentor. He had such longevity here with the school district, so I could immediately tell what an incredible school system we had.

"That's really why I got into this field to begin with. You see immediate reaction and result from what you're doing. If [I] can help people escape the day to day stress they have going on in their lives by providing a time to relax and enjoy, then I know I've done my job."

Who hired you in the department?

Lynn Cohen was the senior recreation supervisor, and she gave me my first job with the City in 1978. I started full time with the City in May of 1980. Two recreation supervisor openings happened and I was fortunate enough to be hired for one of the positions.

Cindy Brynan, who is one of my coworkers, was hired at the same time to fill the other position. We were both working for the City prior to getting these full time jobs, but we still had to compete against other applicants for these full time positions.

What has changed about city government since you first started?

The biggest thing [is] technology. When I started, we had no computers; we had rotary phones. The only time you saw cell phone was on the "Jetsons." There was more of a personable environment because you had to pick up the phone; you had to talk to people face-to-face. You couldn't do it through a machine.

The technological changes have really made the biggest impact. Our outreach is far greater now. We [previously] relied on fliers and newspapers to get the word out. There was no social media.

Who were some of the most influential residents throughout your career?

When we established our Recreation and Parks Commission, around 1989 or 1990, I started working closely with residents who were very involved with the community and were volunteering their time as commissioners.

One of our original Recreation and Parks Commissioners John Melnick was the head of senior little league for many years and a little league coach for over 30 years. I talked to him [the other day] and we still keep in touch.

There's been many City Councilmembers over the years, from Linda Briskman to Tom Levyn, that were always involved. Linda and Tom had a major impact on bringing the Farmer's Market to Beverly Hills.

I knew [BHUSD Board member] Noah Margo and [his twin brother] Josh Margo when they were little kids. Their mother, Abbie, worked for us. I've known her for probably 30 of my 38 years [with the City]. They're a very close knit family I still keep in close contact with.

What is your favorite project you have worked on with the Community Services Department?

There have been a lot of great activities and programs we put on [throughout the years]. It's not just been me; it's been my team and my coworkers. We put on great events that we're very fortunate to get the funding for. The community also embraces all the work that we do.

We have this incredible diversity in our audience of the summer concert series. It's amazing. I love doing the concerts every Thursday night during the summer because I see people walking away with smiles on their faces. That's really why I got into this field to begin with. What advice do you want to give your successor?

Make sure you have your finger on the pulse of the community. You're going to be surrounded by great coworkers. We have a lot of young employees, I call them the rising stars of the City, so I know we're in great hands.

The Wallis honors Senator Ben Allen for leadership in passage of SB 916

California leaders in arts and arts education will be recognizing the leadership of Senator Ben Allen (D-Santa Monica) and celebrating the passage of Senate Bill 916 at the Wallis on Saturday, Dec. 11 from 11:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m.

On Sept. 26, Governor Jerry Brown signed SB 916 into law. This new law addresses an issue facing California's arts education advocates since 1970, when Dance and Theatre credentials were eliminated.

Allen, who is also the Chair of the Joint Committee on the Arts, introduced SB 916 the "Theatre and Dance Act" (TADA!) to establish those credentials.

Allen will be speaking at the event, along with Wallis Director of Education Mark Slavkin, Director of California Arts Council Craig Watson and several others.

The reception will be followed by Dance Sundays featuring "Break the Floor Hip Hop," a free fun and energetic outdoor dance class for all ages.

READY TO LEAD

Mel Spitz is sworn in as new Board of Education President Tuesday

By Madelyn Pariser

You were sworn in on Tuesday. What has changed about the Board since you last served in the 1970s?

There were challenges then. There are challenges now. They're different, but they're equally severe.

For example, while I was on the Board in the 1970's we had three tremendous challenges. The first one was a Serrano-Priest decision of the Supreme Court and that demanded there be equal education for all students everywhere, regardless of where they lived.

That gave us the threat of district busing. The kids that lived in Beverly Hills might be bused for hours to [alternate school districts]. We resolved it by modifying our student population with out of district permits, and we got our student population to the point where we weren't going to be bused.

When I got on the Board in 1971 our district established its own revenue base [from] property taxes. When I was on the Board, there was a new law passed and we couldn't do that. We had to accept whatever the state handed out to the school districts. That meant we were going to have a tremendous reduction in revenue. How we resolved that was we quickly built up a very substantial reserve. Our reserve was 50 percent of our annual budget. That lasted a long time, in terms of keeping the academic programs from being cut.

The third one was [when] teachers' unions were initiated. There were no teachers' unions [at that time].

We were able to handle that really through integrity and trust. We established what I would say was a win/win relationship. Those were three tremendous issues.

Today our issues are just as severe, but they're different. Right now we have financial instability. We've got organizational instability. We've got academic under performance, in terms of being compared with peer districts. We're still battling with the Metropolitan Transit Authority on tunneling under the high school, which is a big issue. We know that we still have to complete the rebuilding and modernization of all of our schools. Those are our great challenges.

There was a tremendous similarity and that was this: the roles and the responsibilities of the Board of Education and the Superintendent are unchanged.

Some other differences [include] the cost of running a campaign for election to the Beverly Hills Board of Education; then it was about $4,000. Now, with rare exception, it has to be between $35,000 and $40,000, just the cost of campaigning.

Our budget today is about $66 million annually; then it was under $25 million. In the '70s, [the] Beverly Hills Unified School District was considered a "lighthouse" school district. It was one of the three premiere districts in the country, in terms of academic performance. Now, if you compare us with peer districts, we are under performing academically. The student enrollment then was about 6,000; today it's about 4,000.

[Community support] is unchanged;

we have a very supportive community. However, some of the interesting differences are in those days the League of Women voters was a force within the City. I would say if you wanted to get elected to the Board of Education, you had pass muster with the League of Women Voters. That's an interesting difference.

The Municipal League was more influential then because there were no other neighborhood homeowner groups.

It was a citywide force.

In the '70s there was an unwritten rule, Board of Education members did not endorse city councilmen and vice versa. City councilmen did not endorse board members. That rule is gone now. The endorsements flow.

Tell us about your priorities this term.

These are my expectations for this coming year, and they're not in any particular order of importance. I expect that we will achieve financial stability. We will strengthen the districts academic programs, and actually we're really getting started on that in math. We're just taking the initial steps now; that's why I expect there to be some achievement in the coming year.

We've set a course whereby our present K-5 math curriculum is going to be replaced by a more rigorous curriculum. We've set a protocol on how the new curriculum is going to be selected.

We will implement a program to provide technology equally throughout the district. I expect that we will settle the [Metro] tunneling issue. I expect that we will schedule completion of the modernization of our schools in a time frame similar to what would've been possible with Measure Y funding. I expect that we will improve communication and liaison with the [Citizens Oversight Committee].

During the 2016 election, you were unwavering in your stance against the three Board members in favor of Measure Y. The community rejected measure Y and an op-ed from 10 former Board members expressed skepticism in the district's construction plans. How do you think the district should proceed?

A big majority of the community voted for it, but you also have to know that there was a very aggressive and expensive campaign in favor of it. I don't know if a dollar was spent in opposition. I had made a statement as to why I couldn't support it. Then there was one statement made by 10 former board members, but that was it.

Measure Y was intended to fund construction at three schools: Beverly High, El Rodeo, and Hawthorne. There's currently major construction going on at Beverly High. That construction is not scheduled to be complete until mid 2020. The construction at El Rodeo is going to be completed in mid 2018. The idea [behind] Measure Y was [to] pass it so we can get going right away with the rest of the construction because [costs] are going to go up.

But the point is this: you couldn't start anymore construction at Beverly High until the current construction is completed. [It is] the same at El Rodeo. The thought of having two separate construction projects at one school site, simultaneously, with different contractors where each one would need its own staging areas and its own ingress and egress, its own blocking of the existing facilities, would've been impossible.

With Hawthorne, we haven't even started architectural and detailed drawings. So it's going to be sometime before anything could be started there regardless. The point is the timing was all wrong. In addition to that, I can't go into any details because it's a closed session issue, but we need to improve the management of construction. We're in the process of working that out. My position is we should have a bond issue in 2018. The timing will be right and we can move forward and there won't be any delay in getting the work done.

Do you have any concerns about serving as Board President with a new Superintendent?

None at all. From my experience I know this, the Superintendent is the CEO. [A Superintendent] is the manager [and] runs the operation. The Board's role is to set policy and to evaluate the Superintendent's performance.

What you need from the Superintendent is leadership. As a result, there should be stability. The Board president has no more power than any other board member. But, the Board president works with the Superintendent in setting the meeting agendas and has a responsibility of communicating on behalf of the Board. [I have] to show a certain amount of leadership in this role. I'm looking forward to it.

The Board is often criticized for spending millions on legal fees on unsuccessful lawsuits. What's your plan for curbing these expenditures?

First of all, the major lawsuit that we have which is outstanding is the Christiansen lawsuit. There is a judgment against the district which now, with interest and penalties, is in excess of [about] $22 million.

The district is appealing [it]. We don't know what the outcome will be. Our attorney has told us he expects it to be overturned. On the other hand, it's quite possible that a portion of it might still be upheld by the appeals court. That is a potential problem for us.

We should be looking at our reserves, maintaining our reserves and even increasing them so we can be prepared for any event on that issue. However, school boards have a right to setup a 10 year payout so [we should be able to handle it], unless the whole thing is upheld.

As far as other legal expenses, some of them are unavoidable. The district probably faces at least one lawsuit a week from parents of children who are in our special education department. It's almost a regular practice. The law is if a student requires services that [the district] is unable to fulfill, then the district has the responsibility of providing those services through some external staffing. Sometimes the parents will initiate a lawsuit just to see that it's carried through. Those lawsuits are normally worked out and the total cost to the district might be as little as $5,000 or it may be as much as $30,000. Those are kind of run of the mill things.

Other lawsuits that the district has had in the past, we should be able to cut back on and reduce just through better management and stability. Some of those lawsuits have been by former employees, and we shouldn't have that. If we operate correctly we shouldn't have lawsuits by former employees.

Another major area of legal fees is fighting [Metro] on the tunneling. Those expenses have not come out of our General Fund, they've come out of the Measure E money that we have because it actually has to do with how we're going to be able to rebuild the school. I am very hopeful that we'll be able to resolve that issue this coming year. Looking ahead, I know that all the board members want to get a handle on this cut down on the legal fees.

How do you respond to people who have expressed concerns over the Board's use of its authority?

There is a perception in the community that the Board is micromanaging or has micromanaged. That has been a problem in the past. I can tell you that since I got on the Board, it's been one year; the Board has not been micromanaging. There's a perception of it. I think that it will become clear that we're on a good track. I feel from the very beginning of the next calendar year it will be pretty evident that we are on the right track.

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of HERMAN ISTRIN

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Marta Istrin in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Marta Istrin be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's lost will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. Copies of the lost will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on January 3, 2017 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 99 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250.
