"Designing Woman" [Issue #565]

I read with interest the interview with Susan Strauss [Issue #565] regarding her position on the Beverly Hills Design

Corrections, Issue 565:

- The community meeting on August 11 at 5 p.m. is to discuss the proposed changes to bus services only. The proposed changes can be found online at http://www.metro.net/news/simple_pr/metro-hold-five-public-hearings-i-august-regarding/. If passed, the changes will be implemented in December 2010. Public Hearings for the subway tunnels have not yet been scheduled but are expected to take place in September 2010.
- Due to a typographical error in Rudy Cole's column in last week's issue, the Beverly Hills City Council "received less than $5,000" in pay per year was inadvertently changed to $500,000. The council actually earns close to $9,000 annually.

Review Committee. While the purpose of the commission may be "...to review single family homes and to maintain the garden-like beauty of Beverly Hills and to create harmony between the old and the new", in my opinion the Committee hasn't done a very good job. Evidence of this can be seen all over town with a recent example being the monstrosity under construction on Benedict Canyon and Chevy Chase Drive--that is unless you consider it a multi-family house, in which case it is being built in a part of town zoned for single family homes.

I am very familiar with the 'Style Guide' referred to in the article, and that is exactly what it is, a style guide. As such, it is being largely, if not completely ignored. In my judgment, the Design Awards mentioned in the article should have two categories: one for the best design as fitting the tradition of Beverly Hills and one for the worst design, in which case Ms. Strauss and her committee will have plenty from which to choose.

"City Council discusses disabled placard abuse, Deputy Treasurer to receive Class 1 Permit" [Issue 565]

In last week's issue of the Beverly Hills Weekly, Councilmember [John] Mirisch was absolutely correct when he stated that, "what we can do as a city is limited" in addressing the widespread disabled placard abuse. What control the City of Beverly Hills has to address this continually growing problem is currently limited to working with the League of Cities, Westside Council of Governments, and our State Legislators to find a viable solution. One of the ad-hoc Committees of our Traffic & Parking Commission has expressed interest in exploring what our options are to realistically set fines to effectively discourage, stop and punish those abusers.

Rosenstein's appointment to the Planning Commission disputed

Traffic and Parking Commissioner Brian Rosenstein was recommended to the upcoming vacancy on the Planning Commission by an interview panel consisting of Councilmember Nancy Krasne, Councilmember Willie Brien, Chair Lili Bosse and Vice Chair Daniel Yukelson. While initially it was a unanimous vote, Krasne later changed her vote, making the decision a consensus rather than unanimous.

At the Beverly Hills City Council Study Session Tuesday, Krasne said she felt conflicted about the decision due to something Rosenstein had said.

"The applicant, jokingly or maybe he meant it, said that if he wasn't appointed he would like to run for office," Krasne said. "Because I am a candidate for office [in 2011], that puts me in a not appropriate position to be interviewing him. because of that, and I felt that a couple of the other interviewers were conflicted, I must recuse myself. I cannot make an appointment that puts me in this conflict of interest position."

When asked by Councilmember John Mirisch whether the comment was made, Rosenstein said he did not say anything to that effect and that it was not his intention to run for council if he did not get the appointment.

Rosenstein's appointment was confirmed, 4-0-1 with Brien, Mirisch, Mayor Jimmy Delshad, Vice Mayor Barry Brucker voting in favor and Krasne abstaining.

Beverly High Journalism position in limbo

After six journalism teachers in the last eight years, Beverly High is going to be getting another. Prior to the beginning of the school year, a journalism teacher will be allocated for the position, although whether a new teacher will be hired or an existing teacher reassigned hasn't officially been decided, said BHUSD Human Relations Director Dawnalyn Murakwa-Leopard.

As of the end of the 2009-2010 school year, the BHUSD was on a hiring freeze. This freeze was a chance for the district to reallocate funds and resources for better use. The district is reassigning teachers to make the most of their budget, which prior to this freeze has been headed towards teachers with average class sizes of 15 students.

"My understanding is that an English credential qualified a teacher to teach journalism," BHEA President Mark Frenn said. "I think this is a concern for some English teachers who don't feel comfortable teaching journalism but right now it falls under the [realm] of the English credential."

Currently, no one on the English faculty has a background in journalism.

Library usage up

The Library Board of Trustees, Mayor Jimmy Delshad, Vice Mayor Barry Brucker and Council Members Nancy Krasne, Willie Brien and John Mirisch, met for their yearly overview of the Beverly Hills Public Library. The use of the library website is up 38 percent over 2009, the sale of passports is up 48 percent from 2009 and overall library revenues have increased eight percent from 2009.

New programming the library has instated includes community partnership and community service. A partnership with Book Soup brings book talks and signings to the library. The Friend's of the Library began to host a new program specifically for teens called Teenknitwits. Teenagers are learning how to knit and knitting caps and scarves that will be given to homeless and less fortunate in the Beverly Hills area. Lastly, the library has begun a computer literacy program called LIFT.

"People who have trouble reading a lot of times also have trouble using the computer and so we partnered some staff and volunteers to help people learn," City Librarian Nancy Hunt-Coffey said.

The library also offers eBooks and audio books online. They can be checked out from home off of the library 90210 to go service. The eBooks and audio books will check out to the computer and after two weeks will disappear.

The library has made lofty goals for the upcoming year. One is to update the check out service to be completely automated, called the RFID program. This will allow library patrons to check in and out their own books using a computer program that will read a tag that will be placed in the book. It will also make shelving more efficient so books will be available sooner to the public after being returned. They are also implementing a communication system, called the Vocera System, which will allow librarians to roam the library and help patrons while being in communication in case they are needed.

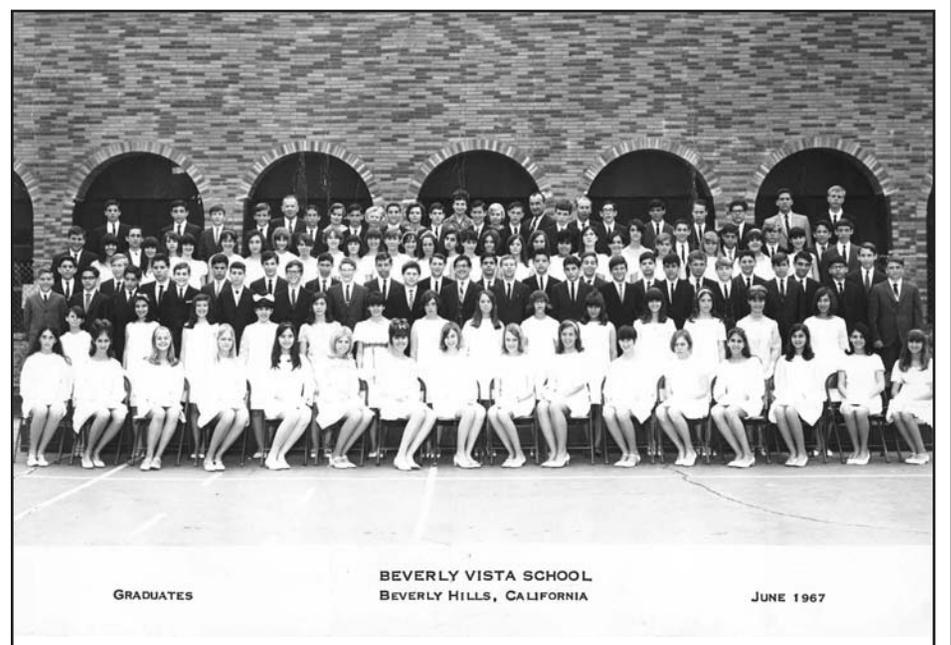

Gondi Lunchbox Project brings generations together in dialogue

Nazanin Lahijani Cohen and Ninaz Khorsandi Beral

When she was 13 years old, Nazanin Lahijani Cohen moved from Orange County to Los Angeles and experienced culture shock. Cohen had come from a predominantly white area in Orange County and while she grew up Iranian-Jewish, the community was still unfamiliar to her. Cohen, along with friend Ninaz Khorsandi Beral, decided an open dialogue with community members of all ages was necessary and began the compilation of The Gondi Lunchbox Project.

The Gondi Lunchbox Project is an opportunity for those of the Los Angeles Iranian-Jewish Community to discuss the things the community goes through. It is a book, intended to be a record of not only things that .5 generation, someone who according to Cohen was born in foreign country but living in America, and first generation Iranian Jews have gone through to communicate but also a reference that second and third generation Iranian Jews can look through and see where they have come from.

"We're dealing with assimilation and culture issues," Cohen said. "We wanted to create a forum for sharing these stories so that we could grow from them ourselves. [It will be] a neutral environment where people can discuss the issues, create awareness and chronicle them for future generations."

Although the project so far has been a lot of work, Cohen said while she visions great things coming out of it once it's finished the book is most important.

"We're thinking about workshops and a seminar series that are going to be tangential and related to this," She said. "But, the core is to create this book so we have this documented besides an internet space. So besides the electronic world, there is a hard copy that can be read through."

The project, which officially began in late June, is completely volunteer based. There are subcommittees, in charge of everything from submissions to translating submissions in Farsi to English. Anyone from the community is invited to join.

"We'd love to reach a cross section, not just the youth or adults but everyone to capture the voice of an entire community," Cohen said.

The community can contact Cohen at (310) 999-1689 or at nlahijani@hotmail.com if they are interested in participating in or leading a subcommittee.

Submissions can be sent to gondilunchbox@gmail.com. In addition to personal stories or essays, Cohen said they are also

Good Council Work

Subway fight and save pioneer

By Rudy Cole

Loads of stuff on my "in-box" for this week, but let's begin with a gaffe that caused me and the city some embarrassment. Some eager copy editor changed my report on city council annual salaries from "under five thousand per year" to $500,000!

This obvious typo had additional legs because of the flap over council and city staff inflated payrolls in the city of Bell. Outside media pounced on the story and we had calls from all over the country. City media handlers also had to field all kinds of questions about our possible generosity to our city fathers and mommas.

I make sufficient errors of my own; don't need the help of copy editors to look foolish, but my apologies to staff and council for the blooper. No, this was not some clever effort to encourage more people to seek office and, for those who thought it might be true, discard your nominating papers.

Not sure this puts me in the same club with the now famous Chicago Tribune headline: "Dewey Wins" or the one letter error in the legendary headline of an Ohio newspaper: "Duck Season Opens." (This is a family friendly newspaper so someone else will have to explain the meaning here.)

Speaking of the council, a kind word: This council really does its homework. Late Friday on the weekend before council meetings, the members receive an enormous packet of information they have to digest.

Often, these are voluminous reports it may have taken various city departments weeks to prepare and are on the agenda for action three days after received!

Last Tuesday I was actually astounded on how well prepared all five members were on some very complicated and often tedious issues. Mayor Jimmy Delshad is a maven on technology and finance, not something we didn't know. However, vice Mayor Barry Brucker and Councilmember John Mirisch could join Delshad in passing any quiz test on the data they must rapidly evaluate.

Which brings us to two matters up for discussion Tuesday: A supposedly routine report from Mark Olson, regional manager for Southern California Edison, and a proposal to create a food service and catering resource for Greystone. Enter Councilmembers Nancy Krasne and Dr. Willie Brien.

The usually unflappable Olson bore the brunt of a scathing review of Edison Company service from Krasne, supported by Delshad. From out of control outages to alleged failures in spending sufficient resources to modernize their facility equipment in Beverly Hills, Krasne was relentless.

What may have surprised the SCE representative was Krasne's total grasp of something way beyond my understanding: Various "tier" level of rate structures and how, she alleged, this was unfair to our village.

Enter Dr. Brien with a complete grasp of Edison company regulatory procedures, governed by the state's public utilities commission. For most of us more mortal students of energy matters, it would have taken hours of research to comprehend all the technology issues, but here they were asking and challenging the SCE professionals in language they could understand.

Krasne's ending shot: "I will not abandon seeking alternative sources of energy delivery including municipalization of electric power ownership."

Delshad added his own frustration of receiving constant complaints on outages and frustrating efforts to obtain answers to resident and business questions in emergencies.

Olson left with some homework and a promise to report back to our Public Works Commission with answers.

Next came consideration of a recommendation from staff and the Recreation and Parks Commission to create a food service/catering resource at Greystone Park. Before we consider the merits, here is another example of councilmembers doing their homework. Really sharp questions from Mirisch and Brucker were followed by a point by point evaluation from Dr. Brien.

Dr. Brien had carefully examined the costs and the timing of the recommendation and found them too vague to merit immediate approval. He asked, quite rightly, whether expending city funds to enlarge staff was premature since the whole feasibility of food and catering services had yet to be tested. Again, his remarkable ability to crunch the numbers, and in such a short time frame, was commendable. I do remember the questions raised about Dr. Brien: Would his responsibilities as a physician and his work at Cedars-Sinai inhibit his ability to give the time and attention needed to be effective as a councilmember? He's answered that totally. The old axiom of give a task to a busy person for best results works here.

Final shot from Krasne on the Greystone plan: The city needs to carefully consider impacts on neighbors before launching any late night activities at the park: A very responsible approach.

Yes, we need to move forward to maximize utilization of Greystone, including much needed plumbing, and revenue producing ideas are important elements of future planning. But should the city enter into competition with our hotels and restaurants? Not sure. But it would be prudent to ask the City's Conference and Visitor's Bureau to make some recommendations, first.

No, this is not a perfect council, often they don't meet the test of understanding the city manager form of government, their personality conflicts can be distracting, and their circling the wagons in defense of one or two top staffers is sometimes misplaced, but in a fair analysis, this could well be one of our best and certainly one with sufficient diversity of expertise to well serve our community needs. (We also have an incredible city support team and staff, the exceptions prove the rule.)

Now, for some gripes. The city supposedly spends small fortunes to convince us to shop locally. Support your community merchants, hotels and eateries is a perennial message.

However, does the city follow its own advice? Not according to former mayor Joe Tilem founder and former owner of Pioneer (and Lucerne) Hardware on North Crescent Drive. The store is now owned and operated by his son, Jeff.

What rankles the Tilems is that despite numerous appeals, many city departments go outside Beverly Hills to buy products available at their store and with the same or even lower prices.

The city has informed us that they have a purchase order at Pioneer, but that they must consider costs in these budget crunching times. Tilem says there is indeed a purchase order, but not one dollar has yet to be spent by the city at their store.

Somehow, this needs fixing and quickly. The remarkable hardware store, featuring over 33,000 items, is our last remaining venue of its kind, and it is in deep trouble. The closing of Crescent, the tough economy and more have truly endangered this great community resource. They have an incredibly service friendly staff, parking is adjacent, and free, and losing Pioneer would be horrendous. Aside from this appeal to the city, do your own shopping there, not only because you can find almost anything you need, but because this enterprise should not be lost.

As for the city buying policies, aside from truly competitive costs, this enterprise pays rent to the city of Beverly Hills, the landlord! Not to mention tax dollars that help pay the salaries of those who buy outside Beverly Hills.

Supervisor Zev Yaroslavsky held a very productive meeting with city officials and homeowners on the proposed changes in the subway route recently. Zev told the delegation, with MTA representatives also at the meeting, that he would never support any plan that could be hazardous to the community.

According to a report made to the city council Tuesday by Southwest Homeowner Association President Ken Goldman, the residents were "very pleased" with Zev's comments and involvement.

MTA and our own city subway committee is urging caution in making a judgment on safety until the Draft Environmental Impact Report is released.

Certainly, that makes sense, but no matter how safe the planned route under southwest homes and our high school the technicians will argue, the route change itself is not in the interests of our city.

I am not convinced that any study, and this opinion is certainly premature, could allay concerns on safety. If nothing else, the existence and perception of a subway through residential and also under the high school, will forever change our community, including property values in the impacted areas.

The route change also threatens our community support of the whole subway program, and it should. What may offer a slight improvement in service for Century City at the expense of Beverly Hills is not acceptable. As for the "experts" there are simply too many incidents of failure to anticipate safety impacts to comfort our community. Dig it, yes, but follow the plans we supported along Wilshire then to Santa Monica and spare us all this agony.

Congratulations to another city icon: Nate 'n Al's. Now celebrating their 65 anniversary, on the actual date, you can find out by calling them, they will be offering sixty five cent soups, sandwiches and more. No, this in not another typo.

Last and very personal note: I am under incredible pressure to fight any subway route through residential: Josette is beyond adamant. I can not afford a divorce, still paying for the last one, so please go down Wilshire. Do you dig it? (Sorry)

BEHIND THE SCENES AT THE MAPLE COUNSELING CENTER

The Weekly's Interview with CEO Marcy Kaplan

By Marla Schevker

Starting in August 2008, Marcy Kaplan took over as CEO for The Maple Counseling Center (TMCC). With a background in clinical social work through Los Angeles, she took over looking for a change and the last two years may not have been fiscally easy but they have been rewarding.

What is The Maple Counseling Center?

The Maple Counseling Center (TMCC) is a low fee counseling agency where no one is turned away for lack of funds. No one is refused services regardless of their ability to pay. TMCC offers a wide range of counseling services and mental health programs. We have counseling programs to meet the needs of individuals, families, school age and young children and groups.

We also have many other specialized programs in addition to counseling. Our Senior Peer Counseling Program use senior citizen counselors to provide peer counseling to other senior citizens. They undergo an intensive paraprofessional program. Other TMCC programs include our Crisis Response Team (CRT), Community Circle and Academic Tutoring.

The secondary mission of TMCC besides is that we are a training center, training graduate students entering the mental health professions; marriage and family therapy, psychology, social work. We are connected to many graduate schools both locally and nationally, and graduate students apply to TMCC to come here and do their internships which are a required part of their training. We have about 100 counselors at the center at any one given time and we provide between 600 and 700 mental health visits on a weekly basis.

How did you get involved?

I came to TMCC in August of 2008 looking for a professional job change. My background is in mental health, and I am a clinical social worker by training. I love the fact that TMCC provides so many critically needed services to such a wide range of people both in the local Beverly Hills community and throughout the County of Los Angeles. It's great being part of a Center that is training the next generation of mental health professionals.

What is your background?

I pursued a degree in social work and with a social work degree you can do many things. I went the administrative route, and although I am a licensed clinical social worker, I ended up going an administrative route because of my interest in service delivery - delivering services effectively for underserved populations, people that needed to access services whether they're medical, mental health and not be able to access them.

What are some challenges of your job?

The biggest challenge of running any nonprofit organization right now is due to the challenges of funding shortfalls, not sufficient funds to do all of the necessary work.

What are some of the rewards?

The primary reward being at TMCC is we provide high quality mental health services and we have an outstanding staff, both clinical and administrative and we provide top quality programs that meet the numerous mental health needs of everyone in our community.

I really do feel that it's a privilege to be at TMCC because we have such a long term outstanding track record of doing what we do really well.

What is the Board of Directors?

We have a very active board of directors. The current president is Dr Mason A. Sommers. He is a clinical psychologist by training. Dr. Sommers became our board president this past January. We have a very active fundraising board, and our board members are quite generous with their own resources to The Maple Counseling Center.

What are some of the events that the board has put on?

We do two major fundraisers a year. One is our Crystal Ball, which this year is called the Festive Fall Crystal Ball, to be held on October 27. The Ball is our big annual fundraiser and this year it's having a Halloween spin. We also do a car drawing movie screening event in the spring.

What is the history of TMCC?

TMCC has been around since 1972 and is a product of support from the Beverly Hills Community. Beginning as a Beverly Hills organization, we now have more and more clients each year coming to us from outside of Beverly Hills. About 20% of our clients are residents of the city, residents and employees and about 80% are not. We are seeing a much more diverse population in terms of ethnicity and socioeconomics. With the current economic downturn which has hit everyone regardless of where they live, we are seeing more Beverly Hills residents who can no longer afford private counseling and are coming to TMCC because they can receive high quality counseling for a reduced fee.

How much do services at the Maple Center Cost?

TMCC's current annual budget is $1.4 million, having been reduced $250,000 in the last year. We assess what people pay on a sliding scale. Because people are earning less money the fee they are paying to us is lower. The average client fee is currently about $23 per session. That is because in these challenging economic times we are able to get fewer grants to support our efforts, donations have decreased, and the level of support that we get from the city has decreased significantly. We have had to eliminate some staff positions. It has not affected, though, the number of clients that we see.

For example, we eliminated our psychiatric services and those were individuals that we had on board, and now the clients can't get medication prescriptions here at TMCC. Our clients must identify have to find other providers for prescriptions, and sometimes that means going to a county mental health clinic. We also reduced the level of staffing in some of our programs. In most cases we've been very lucky; it has not affected the level of services provided. One of the programs we thought we would have to cut this year was our Senior Peer Counseling Program but the senior peer counselors themselves raised a significant amount of money to help save that program. The tutoring program has also raised funds for its continuation during the upcoming school year.

Do you have any advice for someone who needs mental health assistance but is too afraid

People who are in need of mental health services should be assured that mental health services are provided confidentially at TMCC, and at all mental health agencies. We are highly respectful about the privacy of our patients.

Anything else?

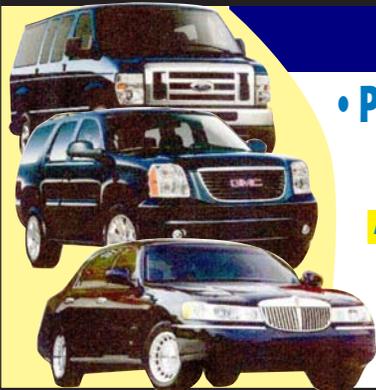

In terms of our funding for the center overall about 40% of our funding is from client fees. The remainder of our funding is from foundation grants, municipal funding and donations. Our range of funding is very diverse, which means that we rely on funding from different areas to provide our critically needed programs. As I mentioned earlier, our average fee is low and some clients pay as little as $2 for their service. Donations have decreased due to the economic downturn. Many people are not able to make donations to the degree that they once did.

Don't sell your life insurance policy until you know the rules!

Alan L. Kaye, CLU, ChFC
President

Most people over the age of 70, who want to sell their old insurance policies for more than their cash surrender value, are not getting the most money from their assets.

AVOID RISKS OF INSURANCE FINANCING STRATEGIES

Others, who expect to create “something from nothing”, participate in insurance financing plans without having full knowledge of the chances they are taking. You can avoid these risks by becoming informed of established procedures and you won't make costly mistakes.

The Alan Kaye Insurance Agency is a leader in the field of insurance and estate planning. Now, as a wholly owned subsidiary of National Financial Partners, an NYSE company, they have expanded their resources to better provide the latest planning strategies. This is a particularly important resource when performing due-diligence on life insurance settlement companies.

THREE ESSENTIAL RULES THAT CAN PREVENT YOU FROM MAKING COSTLY DECISIONS

- Provide full and accurate descriptions of all offers relating to the sale of your policy.
- Acquire at least five offers from unrelated insurance purchasing companies.
- Complete background checks on potential purchasers to make sure they are financially and commercially acceptable firms to do business with.

ARE YOU COMPLETING A LIFE INSURANCE SETTLEMENT OR JUST SETTLING?

What kind of insurance professional is helping you sell your old life insurance policy? Are you dealing with a life settlement specialist? Are you represented by a licensed professional with E&O Insurance that covers life settlements? Has your agent explained the risks involved in financing your life insurance?

Call us today to find out what your insurance is really worth and we will help you decide whether to sell, surrender, keep or replace your old insurance policy.
