“Planning Commission to Discuss Draft EIR for New Saks Project” [Issue #1282]

I am writing to express some of my concerns about the proposed Saks project on Wilshire Boulevard.

As in the case of the Cheval Blanc project, the proposed Saks project is out of scale. If approved in its current form, the Saks project will result in buildings that are too tall, as well as a substantial increase in traffic.

On the other hand, I see an opportunity for a win-win solution. There are thousands of office workers whose places of employment are within a five minute walk of the proposed Saks project. If Saks was willing to commit to include affordable housing units in its project, along with a defined commitment to make such units available on a priority-basis to people who could then walk to work, I believe that this would materially reduce the traffic impact of this project, and possibly result in an overall reduction in traffic. In my ideal scenario, hundreds of people who now drive through the city to commute to their places of employment that are near the Saks project would instead walk to work or have a very short drive.

I floated this win-win solution to the representatives of Saks a number of months ago, but it appears to have fallen on deaf ears. I am now sharing this idea with the community in the hope that we can band together, as in the case of Cheval Blanc, to protect our interests.

Finally, I would note that according to the latest survey published in the Los Angeles Business Journal, the office vacancy rate in Beverly Hills during the first quarter of this year was 24.4%. We don't need more office space. What we do need is more housing so that the state regulators will hopefully get off our back, and reducing traffic would provide a significant benefit to residents.

“Aflalo Equities and Fisch Properties Planning Developments at Pavilions Site”

[Issue #1282]

I know that under the new state rules, there's nothing the City of Beverly Hills can do to stop rampant overdevelopment that will destroy our City's wonderful, livable character, but I sure hope someone is keeping track of the increased road traffic on our streets.

I also hope that parking requirements are being enforced when these developments are approved.

It's relatively easy to build new structures, but impossible now to build new road, streets, and highways.

The Metro expansion won't be complete for years, and is too far from most new apartments or condos to be of any use to those who may live there.

The rampant over development, in Beverly Hills, West Hollywood, and nearby areas of Los Angeles, is already taxing the roads, streets, and highways, and we will all be gridlocked.

Where will the new residents' cars park? On which roads will they drive?

Has anyone thought about that?

Board of Education Declines to Appoint New Member

Following the resignation of former Board of Education member Mary Wells, after being sworn-in to the City Council, the board declined to initiate the process that would have appointed a new member to fill the vacancy for the remainder of the term, which ends in Dec.

According to the education code, the board is required to either make a provisional appointment or order a special election to fill the vacancy. However, since the next Board of Education election is scheduled to take place in Nov., the Board declined to initiate the process given how close they are to the six month exception.

The board will operate with four members until the general election in Nov.

The board did the same in 2005 when Barry Brucker was elected to the City Council. Board President Mandy Stern is expected to seek re-election.

Residents Voice Concerns Over Draft EIR for New Saks Project

The Planning Commission held a special meeting and discussed the draft EIR for the new Saks Fifth Avenue Women's Building, at a public hearing on April 25.

The proposed plan would facilitate the rehabilitation and adaptive reuse of the building at 9600-9620 Wilshire Boulevard, the continued use of the existing building at 9570 Wilshire for commercial use, and the development of new residential spaces, retail outlets, office spaces, hospitality, social club, boutique hotel, open areas, and other related amenities within the designated plan area, according to a city staff report.

Many comments were voiced by residents over concerns regarding the impacts of the project, as well as comments in support.

Many concerns were raised about the potential to increase additional traffic, including daily truck trips to the construction site, noise, development impacts on the water supply, other effects to the adjacent residential neighborhood, and more.

As part of the development project, the plan area was divided into two districts, a Wilshire Boulevard District, for the properties fronting Wilshire Boulevard, and a Neighborhood District, for those properties currently occupied by surface parking lots immediately south of the Wilshire Boulevard District and adjacent to the multi-family residences south of the plan area.

The duration of the construction period is expected to take approximately 50 months. Construction would primarily occur between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m., with additional nighttime hours of 6:00 p.m. and 8:00 a.m. for a total of 27 nights.

Some comments were also made regarding the parking situation upon completion of the construction period.

The proposed concept outlines the construction of a new underground parking facility spanning four levels, accommodating approximately 937 additional parking spots. Among these, there will be up to 716 spaces allocated for commercial purposes and up to 221 spaces designated for residential use. The residential parking area will be separate from the commercial parking.

The Planning Commission is expected to review the specific entitlements of the project upon completion of the draft EIR, as the public hearing focused entirely on the content of the draft EIR and any potential environmental impacts that may result from the proposed project.

“This proposed over-development would

Traffic and Parking Commission to Discuss School Zone Improvements

The Traffic and Parking Commission is expected to discuss a report on the planned replacement of school signage and repainting of pavement marking adjacent to public schools in the city in an effort to create consistent traveling messaging through school zones, at its Thursday meeting.

“With the re-opening of El Rodeo Elementary School in Fall 2024, staff is currently completing an inventory of existing signage and street markings at each of the five public schools in the city to reflect California MUTCD standards, including new tested traffic control options and material,” according to a city staff report.

The last inventory of school traffic control devices occurred when Beverly Vista School transitioned to a middle school in 2019.

During the 2019 study, city staff and BHUSD administrators agreed to conform the school loading zone hours at Horace Mann and Hawthorne elementary schools for uniformity: “No Parking/Stopping, 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., Passenger Loading Only, Except Saturday and Sunday.”

However, although signs were modified, they were not replaced, as a decision was made to wait for El Rodeo to come online. City staff is expected to re-confirm the morning loading zone hours with district administration during its quarterly meeting with police and school district staff, according to a city staff report.

Traffic improvements at each school include the following:

Netflix to Host “Beverly Hills Cop” Event at Beverly Gardens Park

The Beverly Hills City Council Liaison/Rodeo Drive Committee discussed a request from Netflix that will be presented to the City Council to host a “Beverly Hills Cop” event at Beverly Gardens Park, at its April 25 meeting.

The makers of “Beverly Hills Cop” have indicated it would like to honor the cast in front of the Beverly Hills sign. Proposed event elements would include a branded Netflix podium, large Netflix logos on each side of the Lily Pond, and white folding chairs mimicking a real life City Council meeting.

The event would require closure of the Beverly Gardens Park at the Beverly Hills Sign for four hours, inclusive of set-up, the actual event and load-out. Bike racks will be placed around Beverly Gardens Park from North Santa Monica Boulevard, Canon Drive, Park Way and North Beverly Drive to help control crowds.

As proposed, the private event will be held on Thursday, June 20 from 5:00pm – 6:45pm. The event will be for invited guests only and press.

After the presentation at the Lily Pond, guests will be directed across the street to the Wallis for the movie premiere and media questions and answers. The request for the event at the Wallis included a lane closure on Crescent Drive for valet drop offs as well as sidewalk closure of Crescent Drive, South Santa Monica and Canon Drive on the side of the Wallis.

Following the event, Netflix is requesting to stage a large, interactive Boombox at Beverly Gardens Park on the left side of the Lily Pond.

All expenses related to the event are the responsibility of Netflix.

Beverly High Celebrates Student Achievements in Career Technical Education

Beverly High hosted its first annual Career Technical Education (CTE) Recognition Breakfast on Wednesday, April 17 to honor students who have successfully completed a three-course sequence in their chosen career pathway.

This event celebrated 80 students from a diverse range of career pathways including the Medical Science Academy, Audio Production, Broadcast Journalism (KBEV), Business, Robotics (Engineering), Fashion, Theatre Tech, and Culinary Arts. Each pathway is designed to provide students with hands-on experience through an introductory course, a concentrator course, and a capstone course.

“Our Career Technical Education program is designed to equip students with practical skills that are directly applicable in the workforce. Today, we are not just celebrating academic achievement, but the proactive spirit of our students in pursuing real-world experiences and knowledge,” Seemann said.

The posts include surveillance footage, screenshots of suspected shoplifters' social media posts and other identifying details.

Kitson previously banned the use of face masks a couple of years ago in an attempt to deter criminal activity after an increase in crime has plagued Los Angeles and Beverly Hills.

At least one individual, Anisha Tekade, returned $1,000 worth of stolen merchandise upon being ‘publicly shamed.’

In another post, the store exposed a suspected shoplifter named Sofia Arevalo, who has 50,000 followers on Instagram, and her friend Patrick Moogan. In the footage, the two can be seen working together to shove items inside a Lululemon bag while at the Pacific Palisades location.

“The new mugshot as no one gets arrested. Remember this when you vote. You steal from us we expose you to your friends, neighbors, family, and coworkers,” an Instagram post by Kitson noted.

City to Unveil Unfolded Narratives Tapestry Art Installation

The city is set to reveal Unfolded Narratives, a 100-foot-long tapestry art installation at the Beverly Hills Public Library on May 4, in honor of Jewish American Heritage Month. The installation will be on display throughout the month of May.

The tapestry is the work of artist Jenny Yurshansky, who led community workshops at Roxbury Park Community Center in Feb. and March of this year. The sessions encouraged participants to explore their family origin stories through the creation of paper fortunes. These unique fortunes were then transformed into fabric quilt squares that comprise an ever-lengthening tapestry. Now nearly 100 feet long, of the 500 stories featured, more than 60 were produced by Beverly Hills residents during the community workshops.

“DIARY OF A DYING GIRL”

Diane Shader Smith Discusses Mallory Smith’s Latest Posthumous Memoir

By Danielle Berjikian

Diane Shader Smith has continued her late daughter Mallory Smith’s legacy by spreading awareness on patient insights, antimicrobial resistance, and phage therapy. Mallory was diagnosed with cystic fibrosis at the age of three and passed away in 2017. She documented her life to help her cope with her illness and gave her mother permission to publish her diaries into the book “Salt in My Soul: An Unfinished Life.”

“Diary of a Dying Girl” focuses on the struggles of young adulthood and includes several never before seen passages from her teen years, with a focus on the mental health struggles of the younger generation.

Since Mallory’s passing, you have been giving lectures about the need for phage therapy to audiences around the world. How has that been going?

Incredibly well. I speak not only about phage therapy, but also about antimicrobial resistance (AMR), which is the crisis that superbugs pose. Most people don’t know [about] AMR, but they do know superbugs. [It’s said that] by 2050, 10 million people per year will die if we don’t come up with new treatments. So phage therapy is a response to that, and is a treatment that is being developed to deal with AMR.

Mallory documented her life to help her cope with her cystic fibrosis, which you later published in the book “Salt in My Soul: An Unfinished Life.” What was the reaction to that book?

It was a Los Angeles Times [and] Amazon best seller. It’s being used in the curriculum at Harvard Medical School and all over in high schools. It’s gotten incredible reviews [and it’s] been used to set the stage for conversations and talks at places like the White House, Capitol Hill, NATO, and the European Commission. What it does is it puts a face to a global health crisis.

Tell us about the new memoir, “Diary of a Dying

“I’ve made the decision to use ‘Diary of a Dying Girl’ to set the stage for an initiative that has been needed for a very long time, and that’s ‘The Global AMR Diary’”

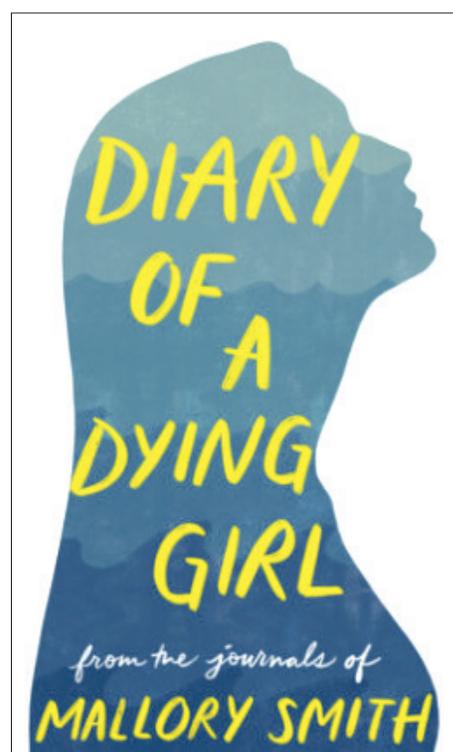

—Diane Shader Smith

Girl.”

So many people said that they gave “Salt in My Soul” to teenagers, and [the publishers] decided they wanted to market the book to young adults. They wanted to include entries about mental health and shift the lens slightly to focus on body image, self-esteem, and things that so many people deal with. So the first half of the entries, most of them are different, and then the second half is the same and it’s being marketed completely differently.

Last time we talked you spoke with NATO and the European Commission in Brussels about the impact of antimicrobial resistance and you said you wanted “Congress to pass the PASTEUR ACT, and for NATO and the European Union to take similar decisive action.” What is the status of that?

of antimicrobial resistance and you said you wanted “Congress to pass the PASTEUR ACT, and for NATO and the European Union to take similar decisive action.” What is the status of that?

The problem [with that] is that we’re living in a divided time. It’s really hard to get legislation passed, certainly in an election year and leading up to it. And unfortunately, neither side wants the other side to win. But, we are using “Diary of a Dying Girl” and I am launching a global initiative that is going to be called ‘The global AMR Diary.’

I went back to all the important groups I’ve spoken with, for example, the CDC and the World Health Organization, and I said, “You guys are all collecting stories with patients. You understand that we need to tell patients stories in order to get people to understand, because they don’t care about statistics.” “The Global AMR Diary” [will consist of] stories from patients, parents, providers, and people working on this crisis to aggregate them in one place to raise global awareness.

Tell us more about the increase in community involvement.

The Beverly Hills community has been very supportive. I rely on them at my fundraisers to help me raise money for phage therapy. I hold a fundraiser every year and we raise money for treatments that will address this crisis. The World Health Organization says it’s one of the top threats facing humanity, that is a pretty dramatic statement.

What do you hope to accomplish with “Diary of a Dying Girl”?

I’ve made the decision to use “Diary of a Dying Girl” to set the stage for an initiative that has been needed for a very long time, and that’s “The Global AMR Diary.” The way Mallory is able to raise awareness of so many different issues for example, visible and invisible illness, mental health, patient care, the power of patient and personal narratives, as well as the impact she made with “Salt in My Soul,” is so profound that Penguin Random House wanted to bring out another book and have a chance to get it into the curriculum. It’s got amazing reviews and the new book [also got] amazing reviews in Kirkus, The Bulletin of the Center for Children’s Books, and Booklist, which is the source that librarians use. It’s a starred review on Booklist, which means they consider it to be exceptional in its format, so it’s quite a distinguished designation that this book got.

“Salt in My Soul: An Unfinished Life” was so successful that they wanted to bring out the fact that this is really the bottom line. They wanted to include more of Mallory’s writing, and the way to do that was to bring a different book to market that could include entries about coming of age topics that would be interesting to the young adult market.

I was able to reach out to the CDC, The AMR Industry Alliance, The Partnership to Fight Infectious Disease (PFID), and I single handedly brought all of these groups together [for a unified response to what is arguably one of the most daunting health and humanitarian challenges of our time.]
